KILLER BANDIT KIDNAPS GIRL

HOOVER FRIENDS PREDICT SIGNING OF THE BEER BILL

South Swings Away from Volstead.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—With Democratic senators and representatives from the erstwhile (politically) dry south coming out numerously for repeal of the 18th amendment and the immediate legalization of beer, the prohibition edifice is toppling. The general opinion is that the change will be effected much more quickly than had been expected.

SIMEON D. FESS.

The passage of a beer bill at the coming session of congress and outright repeal of the 18th amendment with no strings tied to it, either at the winter session or an extraordinary session in the spring, appears now to be the prospect. Some of Mr. Hoover's closest associates are predicting that the President will approve a beer bill.

South Favoring Repeal.

The most arresting development since the election has been the tremendous support of repeal emanating from the south. Few of the southerners are disposed to support the Republican plan whereby the federal government would be empowered to prevent the return of the saloon. Most of them are supporting the Democratic repeal plank without qualification.

The attitude of the southerners has strengthened the confidence of the wet leaders that an unqualified repeal will be submitted and will be ratified by most of the southern as well as the northern states, possibly within a year or two.

Even Fess Weakens.

Another notable weakening in the dry line of defense was recorded today when Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], once a patron saint of the Anti-Saloon league, expressed the opinion that congress will submit the new amendment at the coming session and said he himself would vote for submission of repeal as a last resort.

That Ohio senator said he would endeavor to procure the submission of an amendment embodying the Republican platform plank on prohibition reform, but if unsuccessful in that effort he would vote for the submission of outright repeal.

Then he would campaign in Ohio against its ratification. He added that he saw no reason why congress should not submit two amendments, one embodying the Republican modification proposal, with federal safeguard against revival of the saloon, and the other the Democratic proposal of unqualified repeal, and let the voters choose between them.

Two other former drys, both southern Democrats, swung into line for beer and repeal today. They were Senators Duncan U. Fletcher [Fla.] and Walter F. George [Ga.]. Senator Fletcher remained on the fence in the last session, while Senator George maintained his dry position, if a trifle less vehemently.

Stand on Platform.

Asked today what his position on beer and repeal would be in the short session, Senator Fletcher said:

"I'll stand squarely by the Democratic platform."

Senator George echoed that statement.

After conferring with several members, Representative Henry T. Rainey [Ill.], Democratic leader of the house, changed his previously expressed view that beer legislation at the lame duck session is unlikely. He said he sees "no sound objection" to the consideration of a beer bill. He would not be surprised if one were passed in some form.

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] thought that the legalization of beer might be voted as a rider to a tax bill.

Celler Sees Wet Mandate.

Representative Emanuel Celler [Dem., N. Y.] promised beer and wine, "without doubt," in December, declaring "the overwhelming wet mandate given by the people on election day can no longer be resisted."

Celler urged the legalization of 5 per cent beer and wine up to 14 per cent alcoholic content. He recommended the old tax of $6 a barrel on beer and 4 cents a gallon on wine.

GUNMAN SLAYS ONE ESCORT IN DOUBLE HOLDUP

Holds Young Woman for Six Hours.

BULLETIN.

Miss Lillian Henry returned to her home at 4:30 o'clock this morning. She had been released by the killer-bandit a few minutes earlier, after having been a prisoner for nearly six hours. The terrorist let her go at Hamilton avenue and 51st street, permitting her to keep the car while he escaped on foot.

A quick trigger bandit struck terror on the south side last night in two sensational crimes. He shot and killed a man before the eyes of the latter's young woman companion. Half an hour later he kidnaped a young man and a girl and after warning them that he had just slain a man, threw the man out of his car and drove away with the girl.

Early this morning the whole south side was patrolled by police squads, ready to shoot the criminal terrorist on sight. Their best clew to him was that he was coatless, but wore a blue sweater. Police said they were satisfied he was the gunman in both crimes.

The gun victim of the robber was Frank F. Jordan, 38 years old, of 6239 South Winchester avenue, a past master of a south side Masonic lodge. The girl kidnaped later and who was still missing at 4 o'clock this morning is Miss Lillian Henry, 20 years old, of 5720 South Lincoln street, an employe of the telephone company, and a graduate of Mercy High school, who later studied at the downtown school of De Paul university.

Slain by Girl's Side.

At 10 o'clock last night Jordan and Miss Emma Danke, 25 years old, of 162 West 74th street, a stenographer, drove up in front of 6353 South Lincoln street. They had attended a show earlier and they stopped at that spot to discuss visiting mutual friends.

They had been parked less than a minute when the robber, a youth between 22 and 25 years old, and dressed in nondescript clothing, including a sweater, stepped up to the side of the car where Miss Danke was sitting. From his description, learned later, the police were convinced he was the same robber who wounded James T. McElligott in an attempted robbery on the south side last Monday night.

Killed as He Resists.

He pushed open the door at his left and started to get out. In doing so he turned around, his left side facing the bandit. The latter calmly shoved his revolver past Miss Danke's face and fired. The bullet missed Jordan and crashed through a rear side window of the car. The robber fired again. This bullet struck Jordan at the left arm pit and coursed down to the heart. Jordan fell upon the running board dead.

Miss Danke screamed in terror and the bandit, with a threatening gesture in her direction, turned and fled.

Police were called and took Miss Danke to the station and other police scoured the district for the killer. They missed him, for he reappeared a half hour later in front of 5720 South Lincoln street, the home address of Miss Henry.

Second Couple His Victims.

Miss Henry was sitting in a parked car with James Guisinger, 23 years old, of 6006 South Kolmar avenue.

"Don't try any funny business," the robber muttered. "I just killed a man down the street."

Neither Guisinger nor Miss Henry resisted. Very leisurely the terrorist-bandit tied them, and then, sitting in the driver's seat, drove them to 60th street and Kildare avenue. There he took 40 cents from Guisinger and $2 from Miss Henry. Without another word he pushed Guisinger out of the car and drove off with Miss Henry.

Meanwhile, at the police station Miss Danke, hysterical and tear stricken, was telling her story of the slaying of her escort. At first she gave her name as Bernice Jones, and said she lived at 153 West 54th street. She did this in a desire to shield her family. Capt. Egan questioned her and then sent her home with friends. She

Milk Drivers in Tumult over $5 Pay Slash

Police squads were called to Car Men's hall early this morning to escort several officers of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union to their homes following what was described as one of the most tumultuous meetings in the union's history. More than 4,000 drivers were present.

The meeting was held for the purpose of determining whether the drivers should accept a $5 weekly pay cut to enable their employers to compete with a number of independent concerns which are now selling milk at 9 cents a quart retail. No vote was held, however, and the meeting was adjourned with the announcement that a secret ballot would be held on a date to be designated later.

Police Protect Officers.

Hundreds of the drivers booed the announcement and many of them shouted charges that their officers were trying to "sell them out." The din increased and calls were sent to the detective bureau for squads. Three details responded and escorted the officers outside amid jeering and hooting.

Among the officers present were R. G. Fitchie, president; James Kennedy, vice president, and Steve Sumner, 83 years old, secretary-treasurer and "grand old man" of the union. No violence was attempted. Police said that, with one or two exceptions, the meeting was merely noisy.

Proposal Meets Opposition.

The meeting started quietly enough, with many of the drivers, it was said, in a mood friendly to the wage cut. President Fitchie and other officers advised the meeting to accept the cut. It remained for Sumner, however, to issue drastic warnings. He told the drivers that unless they accepted the reduction three or four of the larger dairy companies would lay off men, double up routes, or perhaps fire them and hire members of the Chicago Teamsters' union, an outlaw organization. The drivers listened to Sumner's warnings attentively, with here and there a friendly boo.

As the meeting continued opposition to the proposed cut grew. Driver spokesmen pointed out that they had already taken a cut of $5, and told of the dues and special assessments they now were burdened with. The temper of the men followed that of the opposition, and when it was apparent a vote might be against the cut the officers adjourned the meeting. Many of the drivers lingered on, demanding an open vote.

PUBLIC SPANKING FOR BOYS CAUGHT IN BEER PARLOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 16.—Two boys under 21 years of age who drank in a beer parlor are to be spanked in public.

Attorney General Pooley today reduced from $300 to $50 each fines imposed on the two youths, who had taken their girl friends to the beer parlor. Learning that the mother of one of the boys was a widow and could not afford even the $50 fine, the attorney general offered to remit the fine altogether if the parents would allow their offspring to be given a few strokes of the paddle on the courthouse lawn.

M'DONALD PLANS A REST; SUFFERS MEMORY LAPSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Parliament will adjourn for a few days tomorrow and Prime Minister MacDonald plans to go to Lossiemouth, Scotland, for a rest. It was stated today that rumors about his health are much exaggerated. He insists on working against the advice of doctors and friends, and when overtired suffers lapses of memory. These lapses have been exaggerated for political purposes by groups of individuals who would like to get him out of office, it was said, but doctors maintain that he is on the whole in excellent health and only needs to take ordinary precautions.

POLICEMAN SHOT IN BATTLE WITH THREE ROBBERS

Policeman John Curran of the Hudson avenue station was shot in the left arm yesterday in a battle with three bandits at Lincoln and Fullerton and Halsted streets, as pedestrians at the busy intersection scurried for cover.

The bandits fled from the Allen Loan company, 2345 North Halsted street, where they had taken $200. As they approached Fullerton avenue, Curran, on traffic duty at the intersection, was told of the robbery and gave chase.

Hunt Broker on Complaint of Investors

Three warrants, perhaps four, will be sought in the Felony court this morning for the arrest of Charles L. Strauss, missing president of C. L. Strauss & Co., securities firm whose license was withdrawn on Nov. 3 by Secretary of State William J. Stratton.

The warrants will charge Strauss with the embezzlement of $25,000, according to Assistant State's Attorney Edward C. Duffey, who is in charge of one angle of the case.

Meanwhile a wide search is being carried on for the absent speculator, and it is possible, said Mr. Duffey, that the federal government will join in the search if it is found that federal laws have been transgressed.

Loss May Reach Million.

The collapse of Strauss' securities house may entail a loss to investors of $1,000,000, the assistant state's attorney said. At this time no accurate estimate can be given because complaints are now only beginning to come in. Many of the investors live out of town, and each must be communicated with individually before the true extent of the losses is learned, according to Mr. Duffey.

Among those being sought beside Strauss is a Miss Cox, a comely young woman who was his private secretary and also an assistant secretary of the concern. Efforts to find her have been unsuccessful. She is wanted primarily as a witness, Mr. Duffey said.

Tells of Girl's Part.

"Strauss apparently operated the whole works himself," said the assistant state's attorney. "Those with him merely carried out his orders. Miss Cox was one of those. Part of her job was to 'see' people."

According to Duffey, no definite bucket shop violations have been found, but such illegal operations are expected to be uncovered in further investigations. Strauss, the prosecutor said, apparently took investors' money and "walked off with it."

Strauss disappeared the day after his license was withdrawn, Mr. Duffey said. His wife, it is understood, has not seen him since. One report stated that Strauss hurried the crash of his concern by wild spending, in which he was pictured as a "playboy" in night life resorts. Strauss occupied part of one floor in the Foreman Bank building, 33 North La Salle street.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 16.—The communist leader, Wynkoop, insulted Queen Wilhelmina and the crown in the Dutch parliament today. The president finally succeeded in subduing the disturbance by ordering the exclusion of communists from further debates.

Tells Secret 6 Clews in Suit for $100,000

The finding of two volumes of detective tales in the hotel rooms of William S. Kuhn Jr., former brokerage clerk, convinced operatives of the Secret Six that he was the writer of extortion letters which threatened the lives of William Van Doren Wright, steel company executive, and his debutante daughter, Marion, 21 years old, in November, 1930.

Testimony to this effect was given yesterday by Wendell Kuhn, 227 East Delaware place, older brother of William and an official of Winthrop, Mitchell & Co., brokers, before a jury in the court of Superior Judge Peter H. Schwaba. William Kuhn is suing Wright, his daughter, Alexander Jamie, head of the Secret Six; Dr. Ferdinand Watzek, crime expert from Vienna, who for a time was attached to the Northwestern university crime detective laboratory, and Edgar Dudley, one of Jamie's assistants, for $100,000 damages for false arrest and malicious prosecution.

About Meeting with Jamie.

Wendell Kuhn testified concerning his first conversation with Jamie and Dudley in his brokerage office where they had appeared seeking his brother. While there the detectives read to him some of the letters received by Miss Wright.

"Those are malicious letters," the elder Kuhn testified he told the operatives. "I told them that my brother had never done a malicious thing in his life. I said that I couldn't see how he could have had anything to do with the notes.

"Then Dudley told me he had been investigating my brother and his activities. During the investigation, he told me, he had entered our rooms at the Ambassador hotel seeking a typewriter from which the typewritten notes might have been made.

"I asked him if he had found such a machine and he said no. Then he said, 'But I did find two volumes of detective stories.' He said he believed my brother got the idea for writing the letters from reading these tales. Of course, I just laughed at him, but he was serious. He wanted to know what my brother habitually read.

"I told him that he read the Saturday Evening Post and the magazine Time. I told him that the two detective novels had been left at my rooms by friends, and pointed out that there were thirty or forty other books there."

Questioned by Attorney.

Under the questioning of the younger Kuhn's attorney, Frederic Burnham, Wendell Kuhn gave the following version of the further conversation which took place between him and the two detectives, Jamie and Dudley:

"Q.—Do you know that your brother is well known in speakeasies on the near north side, so well known, in fact, that in two of these places he is called by his first name by the bartenders? A.—I'm not surprised. Many of his friends and my own friends as well as lots of other people go to speakeasies.

"Q.—How about his drinking? That's bad, isn't it? A.—My brother, like all other young men of this day, drinks. Sometimes even he drinks too much. But he is not a malicious drinker."

Earlier Attorney Edward Everett concluded the cross-examination of William Kuhn with an attempt to show that he was an avid reader of detective stories. Kuhn said that he was "not particularly fond of them."

Then Attorney Burnham read the

BANKER GIVES NEW CHAPTER IN INSULL HISTORY

Young's Aid on Loan Standstill Told.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

A chapter in American economic history was written into the court records yesterday at a hearing to discover assets of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc., before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley.

EDW. E. BROWN. [Burke & Maretka Photo.]

The material was provided by Edward Eagle Brown, vice president of the First National bank, who told how Melvin A. Traylor, president of that bank, had joined Owen D. Young, New York industrialist, in staving off a threatened bankruptcy of the Insull holding and investment companies last December until the bill creating the Reconstruction Finance corporation could be passed, this, he believed, averting a national crisis.

Owen Young's Part Explained.

Lewis F. Jacobson, counsel for the petitioning creditors of the Insull investment trust, brought out the story when he asked Mr. Brown to explain the part Mr. Young played in negotiating the standstill agreement for $51,000,000 of Insull bank loans, which kept the Insull companies out of receivership from December until the following April.

"Whom did Owen Young purport to represent in the Insull situation?" the attorney asked.

"In the first place, Mr. Young was chairman of the board of the General Electric company and very much interested in the whole electrical industry," Mr. Brown began. "Also he was deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, a financial adviser to the federal government, and a man of greater leadership and influence than almost any one in New York.

Friend of Samuel Insull.

"Besides he was a personal friend of Samuel Insull Sr. He had known him for twenty years."

The attorney directed Mr. Brown's attention to the morning of last Dec. 15 when Samuel Insull Jr. went to the First National Bank of Chicago with the news that the trust of which he was president had no more collateral and with a request that the ten New York and Chicago banks holding the loans grant an extension.

"Junior Insull had called on Mr. Traylor the previous afternoon," said Mr. Brown. "At that time Mr. Traylor and Mr. Young were working on the reconstruction finance bill. After hearing Junior's story Mr. Traylor called New York?"

"And what did Mr. Young say?" Jacobson inquired.

Danger to Nation Seen.

"He expressed the idea that with the R. F. C. bill not passed, with congress preparing to adjourn for the Christmas holidays, with other utility holding companies facing pressing problems in the east, and public sentiment at very low ebb, the collapse of the Insull companies would have very unfortunate results for the whole nation."

The Chicago banks were wholly agreeable to a standstill agreement, Mr. Brown went on, but bickering developed among the New York banks. Mr. Young, he said, played the part of peacemaker.

Q.—Was he peacemaking between the general creditors and the banks, or among the banks themselves? A.—Among the banks. At one time the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company insisted on applying some of the cash balance of the trust in that bank to the loans it had granted, and threatened to withdraw from the standstill agreement. Other New York banks threatened likewise.

Q.—And you and the other Chicago banks were afraid the Central Hanover would get out of line? A.—Yes. Mr. Young got the Central Hanover to stand by the agreement. We were all very glad we had Mr. Young's leadership.

Some Banks Hold Out.

Further questioning developed that the Irving Trust company, piqued over alleged favoritism to the Central Hanover in the matter of cash balances, did not sign the agreement until a few weeks before receiverships engulfed the Insull companies on April 16, and that the Commercial National bank of New York held off until then because of a determination not to sign unless all the others did.

The banks reached a decision that receivership was hardly escapable on Feb. 17, Mr. Brown explained. Nevertheless, it transpired, Mr. Young's influence was sufficient to hold signers the nonsigners alike to the terms of the agreement until the receivership occurred.

"There was a meeting in the office of Samuel Insull in the Commonwealth Edison building," Mr. Brown recalled. "Mr. Young presided. Among those present were Stanley Field, chairman of the executive committee of the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company; Jim Leavell, president of the Continental; Herman Waldeck of the same bank, Mr. Traylor, and myself."

Q.—And it was there that you decided that Insull Utility Investments was insolvent? A.—The consensus was that if the Middle West Utilities company could not meet $10,000,000 of notes due on June 1 then the banks should take over the Middle West securities held on the Insull Utility Investments loan and make plans for reorganizing Middle West.

The Darkest Chapter.

Earlier in the afternoon the testimony touched on the darkest chapter in the Insull case, affairs of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company, on account of which Samuel and Martin Insull were indicted.

Attorney Jacobson had brought out the fact that soon after the accomplishment of the standstill agreement the banks appointed a board of control with power to veto any expenditure authorized by the Insull Utility Investment directors so long as the standstill agreement remained effective.

Q.—Who were the members of this veto group? A.—Mr. Waldeck, Arthur Andersen, and myself.

Q.—Arthur Andersen—he was the head of the firm of auditors of whom several were appointed to watch the treasury of Insull Utility Investments, was he not? A.—That's correct.

Q.—And why was it necessary to put these auditors in to guard the treasury? A.—Well, there had been a discovery of several extraordinary transactions.

"Yes, but what were the extraordinary transactions?" Jacobsen pressed the witness. Mr. Brown was about to answer when his attorney, Harold Amberg, voiced an objection.

"We want to know who got away with any of the assets of this company," Jacobson shouted.

Judge Puts a Question.

Judge Lindley interposed. Did the extraordinary transactions have any relation to cash or other property of the investment trust, he asked Mr. Brown.

"They did not," the banker answered. "They related to another Insull company—Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment, I believe the name was."

On this reply Judge Lindley ruled that further questions on the extraordinary transactions were not pertinent.

"It was about that abstraction of Mississippi Valley securities which the grand jury inquired into," Attorney Amberg explained during a recess. "It's all been in the papers. I didn't see why Mr. Brown should have to rehash it here."

Attorney Questions Banker.

Attorney Jacobson spent two hours of the morning session questioning Mr. Brown in an effort to have him admit that he believed the trust insolvent in December. The effort failed.

His first contact with young Insull, Mr. Brown said, was on Dec. 15, 1931, when Insull visited him on his quest to have the New York and Chicago banks enter a standstill agreement on the $51,000,000 loans of the trust and its subsidiary, Insull, Son & Co.

"Junior had called on Traylor the previous night," said Mr. Brown, referring to Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National.

Fear Injury to Securities.

"He said that in view of the inability of the company to meet any further margin calls the collateral would otherwise be sold on the market in large quantities, causing the company to collapse and the price of all Insull securities to decline."

Q.—What else did he say? A.—Well, he said the financial business was all new to him; that he had been previously concerned with the operating side, but that his father had asked him to take up negotiations for an extension of the loans.

At this reference to his confession of financial inexperience, young Insull, sitting at his counsel's table, grinned broadly.

Q.—Was any one else present? A.—Harold Foreman, who was acting as some sort of secretary to Junior, was at the conference. However, as I recall it, he said almost nothing.

Q.—You knew the company owed $60,000,000 to debenture holders in addition to the debts to banks? A.—I did. I had called for our file on the company and examined it before Junior came in.

Surprised About Debts.

Q.—You understood from what he told you that the company was broke, did you not? A.—I understood the company was faced with very serious difficulties. I was both surprised and shocked to learn it owed so much money.

Q.—Then you realized the company was bankrupt? A.—I certainly did not. Later when I had examined the breakdown statements Junior obtained for me, I realized that the market value of the assets plus the recoverable value of all other claims was less than the liabilities. But we all believed the intrinsic value of certain stocks in the portfolio, such as Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, Public Service, yes, and Middle West, was largely in excess of the market value at that time.

Q.—But as a banker you were calculating everything according to market value, weren't you? A.—On making new loans, yes. Not on everything, however.

Q.—Now, Harold Foreman has been president of the Foreman bank, which the First National took over; did you get him a job as Insull's adviser? A.—I certainly did not. I was very surprised to find him there.

Asks About Security Deals.

Q.—Did you know that at this time Insull Utility Investments was buying stocks of the allied Corporation Securities company to maintain the latter's market, and vice versa? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you know where the money went that the banks furnished? A.—I supposed it went into the purchase of securities.

Q.—I didn't ask you what you supposed—I asked what you knew.

Q.—You and Mr. Insull Jr. then went back to Mr. Waldeck's office. A.—Junior had told me he was leaving for New York to see the banks there. I said he ought to get an agreement from all the Chicago banks before he started. We went to Mr. Waldeck's office.

Q.—Did you agree to telephone the New York banks, providing some sort of introduction for Junior Insull? A.—As far as I and the First National were concerned, we would not make any request on the New York banks to go into it. We've had too much experience with the New York banks, who would sign some such agreement, then later claim they signed it merely to accommodate us, and finally turn around and ask us to sign some other agreement to return the favor.

Tells of Trip to New York.

Mr. Brown testified that he accompanied young Insull on one of his New York trips in connection with the standstill agreement.

Q.—Did you see Owen Young on that trip? A.—I did. Half an hour after we got off the train. He didn't want to appear in the standstill picture either, but was standing by, ready to help when necessary.

Q.—What did you discuss with Mr. Young? A.—I discussed the matter of a loan of $1,500,000 which the General Electric had made to the Insull trust.

Q.—Yes, go on? A.—Well, we had heard that the General Electric was considering the making of another loan. At Mr. Traylor's suggestion, I told Mr. Young to be sure of the type of collateral he would get for the loan and to secure legal advice, because we felt the debenture holders might later make trouble.

Q.—So you were anticipating trouble from the debenture holders? A.—We were. The discussion was pointless, however. Mr. Young said the General Electric had no intention of advancing the Insulls another loan.

Other bankers present, and attorneys representing the New York banks, chuckled at Mr. Brown's forthright statement.

Asks About Bank Loans.

Q.—How much had the Foreman banks loaned the Insull group when the First National took the Foreman bank over? A.—I don't recall exactly. All of it has been paid, excepting part of a loan to the Mississippi Valley Utilities investment company—I think that's the name.

Q.—How much had your bank loaned the Insull companies and officers. A.—Including such companies as Peabody Coal, A. B. Leach Co., Hill, Joiner, and the Insull officials, I should say between 23 and 24 million dollars.

Q.—You treated this as one loan? A.—We certainly did not.

Q.—I beg your pardon—you treated it as a group of loans to associated companies? A.—We though of it, not in terms of groups, but of one man—Samuel Insull.

Q.—How much were your loans to Samuel Insull personally? A.—Samuel Insull personally never borrowed any money from us, and does not owe us any. He never has.

Young Insull on Stand.

Resuming the stand at the opening of yesterday's session, Samuel Insull Jr. admitted in effect that the company had broken the covenant in which it was agreed to pledge no more than 50 per cent of the assets for bank loans so long as the $60,000,000 debentures were unredeemed. Questioned on his income, Insull said his salary from various Insull companies was $67,000 in 1929, and in 1930, despite the depression, was increased to $106,000 as his father advanced him to more responsible positions.

Q.—In directors' meetings and in the standstill negotiations were the interests of the debenture holders ever discussed? A.—I do not recall.

Q.—Is it not a fact that the company covenanted with the debenture holders not to pledge more than 50 per cent of the assets as long as the debentures were unredeemed? A.—I recall some such agreement.

Q.—Was there any discussion of the debentures at the time when the 50 per cent limit was passed? A.—It occurred to me in September or October 1931, that we could borrow no more.

Questioned on Legal Fee.

Questioned concerning a $20,000 fee paid the law firm of Lincoln, Isham, and Beale on Jan. 9, 1932, when liabilities allegedly exceeded assets by millions of dollars, young Insull said: "I don't know why it was done."

Stuyvesant Peabody, coal operator and director of Insull Utility Investments, testified briefly concerning the purchase of $700,000 in securities of the Peabody Coal company and allied concerns by the Insull trust. Some of the coal company's largest customers were in the Insull group, he said, adding that the Insulls always offered stock to concerns enjoying the Insull patronage.

The bankruptcy hearing was continued indefinitely, subject to Judge Lindley's call. Suits filed by the debenture holders to recover collateral pledged to the banks allegedly in violation of a covenant and of the bankruptcy law, were advanced from Dec. 1 to Jan. 6.

2 HUNTERS BURNED TO DEATH AS THEY SLEEP IN WISCONSIN CABIN

Danbury, Wis., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Dr. St. Clair Darden, 40 years old, head of a South Bend, Ind., hospital, and Frank Fritzer, 52, manager of the furniture department of a South Bend store, were burned to death while they were asleep in a cabin last night.

Dr. Dardan died in an ambulance en route to a hospital. His companion could not be reached by rescuers and his charred body was not recovered until the fire had burned out.

The men had been at the lake for three weeks, resting and hunting. About mindnight, C. W. Mahlen, owner of the resort, discovered the fire.

The cabin was heated by a wood stove and it is believed the men had a hot fire because of the intensity of the cold.

CITIZENS' GROUP KEEPS SECRECY IN WEST PARK AUDIT

"Too Hot to Give Out," Says One Member.

Information concerning the most recent audit of the west park board's finances was refused yesterday by all those having knowledge of its contents. It is "too hot to give out," according to one member of the citizens' committee, which ordered the audit.

The return to the city of Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railroad and head of the committee formed to aid financially distressed local governments, is awaited before decision is made on whether the report will be taken to the grand jury. Mr. Sargent, here on Monday, refused to disclose the contents of the audit, saying he would confer with D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair, and one of the leaders of the committee, which insists on reduction of public expenditures.

Report Park Books Withheld.

It was reported that Mr. Kelly, who led in the various movements to get money for payment of salaries to public employes, had been denied access to the books of the west park board last spring and had refused to aid the board in borrowing from banks on tax anticipation warrants. As a result the west park employes have had only one pay day in cash during the last fifteen months, taking in lieu thereof warrants which are marketable at 60 cents on the dollar.

Overloaded pay rolls are said to be one of the features of the audit which was prepared by the firm of George Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce. Mr. Rossetter said he was not at liberty to disclose the contents of the audit, even though it was prepared at public expense.

Yesterday it was said that the unexplained expenditures of President W. R. James of the park board from his contingent fund were to be the subject of an investigation. State's Attorney Swanson said that even though he has only two more weeks in office he would order a grand jury investigation if the citizens' committee advises him that one is advisable.

One Plan for Inquiry.

One plan said to be under consideration was for Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court to instruct the December grand jury to look into the west park finances. By the time that jury is formed Thomas J. Courtney will be state's attorney. From French Lick, Ind., where he is resting after the campaign, Courtney said yesterday that he would make the investigation if shown evidence of any misapplication of funds.

ROOSEVELT'S VICTORY EXCEEDS HOOVER'S IN RACE AGAINST SMITH

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(P)—Complete returns from 14 states and partial figures from all the others today gave Franklin D. Roosevelt 21,506,742 votes for a plurality of 6,451,302 over President Hoover. This exceeds slightly the margin by which Mr. Hoover beat Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

President Hoover's 1932 count, in compilations of the Associated Press, was 15,055,440. He polled 21,382,190 in 1928, to 15,016,443 for Smith, who lost by 6,375,747.

President Elect Roosevelt got 57.9 per cent, President Hoover 40.1 per cent and the other two per cent was divided among minor candidates.

In the returns thus far received, Norman Thomas, the socialist candidate, received 586,301 votes, to 267,420 in 1928.

WIND FROM LAKE STAVES OFF COLD SNAP IN CHICAGO

Force of Winter Is Felt in Rest of Midwest.

Northeast winds off the lake continued to blow on Chicago yesterday and kept temperatures above the freezing mark. Indications are that similar conditions will prevail today and that the city will scarcely feel the effects of the almost countrywide cold spell.

"The situation is one of the most remarkable on our records," said Forecaster C. A. Donnel last night. "This morning in every direction from Chicago temperatures a hundred miles away were from 10 to 15 degrees lower than here. It is quite unusual for winds to continue off the lake for so long a period. However, it appears there will be little change in the temperature Thursday and it will warm up generally by Friday."

Heavy Snows Over Midwest.

Heavy snows and cold were recorded over the entire middle west outside the lake breeze area yesterday.

To downstate Illinois and Indiana, which suffered severely from the snowstorms of Tuesday, were added yesterday the states of Michigan and Ohio. At Toledo there was a nine inch fall. Strong winds drifted the snow and interrupted traffic there. The snowfall was Toledo's heaviest of record in November. Celina, O., had 15 inches of snow.

At Detroit, where the snowfall was 19 inches, November records were also broken. The weight of the snow caused the roof of a church to cave in. Other Michigan cities in which traffic was delayed or tied up included Jackson, Pontiac, Kalamazoo, Lansing, and Ann Arbor.

From Indianapolis came reports that the storm there was the worst Indiana ever experienced in November. Heavy rains preceding the snow and freeze had covered highways with a coating of ice and traffic on many roads was halted. Between Chicago and Lafayette thirty-five automobiles were stalled and telephone lines were down between Martinsville and Franklin.

Illinois Roads Blocked.

The Illinois highway department reported that nine routes in the eastern part of the state were still blocked last night. Ten inches of snow was recorded in the vicinity of Decatur. Vandalia, Hoopeston and Marshall. More than two-thirds of Illinois was covered by the heavy white blanket. Train service in the area of drifts was delayed from one to two hours.

The cold snap brought only a small increase in the number of casuals being cared for at the Emergency Relief commission shelters. Robert W. Beasley, director, said that 12,500 men were being given sleeping quarters and that they moved in about Oct. 1. In the four shelters for women about 500 are being given beds, as against 60 at this time last year.

NEWSPAPER ADS ARE PRAISED BY MANUFACTURER

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Newspaper advertising was characterized as "a sales builder that no manufacturer can afford to overlook" by J. J. Feichter, works manager of the Heintz Manufacturing company of this city, in addressing the annual convention of the International Acetylene association here today. "Every well established product that we know today was once a novelty," he said. "The reason that it is accepted now is that advertising put it across."

Samuel M. Vauclain, chairman of the board of the Baldwin Locomotive works, asserting that the art of welding by the oxy-acetylene process has not yet reached its peak, told the 400 representatives of the welding industry that "with the return of normal business you will have all the business you can take care of."

JOE HAD BETTER LEARN TO PLAY POKER BY EAR

He's Still Good as a Trombonist.

If sour notes come out of the trombone which Joseph F. Barton of 920 Wilson avenue plays in the Palace theater orchestra it's because Joe is thinking of $2,000 he lost because of a mixup in signals.

One night last week, after his tour of tooting was over, he met Emil Stratton. According to Joe's story at the detective bureau last night, Emil seemed to know all about his affairs, such as that he had a divorced wife in Texas and that he was prospering as a trombonist.

After an acquaintanceship had been established Emil confessed to Joe that he had a problem on his hands.

The Reform Business.

"It's my friend Harry," he said. "Harry has a lot of dough, but he spends it carousing around and taking girls to dinner. What I want to do is to reform Harry. We'll get him into a poker game and make him lose his money. Then we'll give most of it back to him and tell him if he's a chump for us he's bound to be a chump for bartenders and gold diggers."

Joe thought it would be a good idea to combine philanthropy and profit, but was fearful that perhaps he would not win.

"We're bound to," retorted Emil Stratton.

Then he explained. They would play with signals arranged. If Joe held up one finger that meant a pair; two fingers two pairs; three fingers, three of a kind and four a pat hand. Emil, when the betting grew warm, was to look at Harry's hand and tell Joe what he was betting against.

The game was arranged and held in a north side hotel. Harry, being outsignaled, lost. Then came a hand where he had a pair and Joe had three sevens. The betting grew so hot Joe insisted on sealing up the hands while he went to a bank and drew out $2,000. When he returned the hands were displayed and he won all the chips.

Something's Wrong Here.

Again the game went on and Joe caught a pair of aces with a king to hold it up. Emil looked at Harry's hand and signaled a pair. All the chips and the $2,000 went into the pot. Harry displayed his hand. There were three nines against Joe's pair.

The outcome was so disappointing that Joe grew ill and had to leave the room for a few minutes. When he returned, the cards, the players and the $2,000 were gone.

This was on Thursday. On Friday Emil called Joe and apologized.

"I got the signals mixed up a little," he said. "Then Harry had to go out and spend the money on a girl. But I'll bring it all back to you."

So far he hasn't made good.

Follow Old Custom

Chauffeurs, maids, and butlers had their "big night out" last night at the 22d annual dance and auto exhibit sponsored by the Chicago Private Chauffeurs' Benevolent association at the Aragon ballroom.

The ballroom was crowded. Several of the spectators were men well known in the society world who, following custom, had traded positions with their chauffeurs for the occasion and driven them to the ballroom.

The annual chauffeurs' dance originated in 1910 as a coachmen's ball. Many of the drivers inveigled their masters to drive them to the affair—held then at the old 1st Regiment armory. Edward Thompson is president of the chauffeurs' association, J. Richardson is vice president, R. N. Young, treasurer, and P. G. Taylor, secretary.

Kiwanis International Council to Meet Today

WIFE SUCCEEDS AT SUICIDE AFTER FAILURE IN LOVE

Former College Girl Dies of Poison.

Mrs. Jane Short, 26 years old, a former student at the Illinois State Normal school at Normal, died yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital after taking poison Tuesday night in her room at 1722 Congress street. A suicide letter revealed that she was despondent over her failure to effect a reconciliation with her husband, Paul Short, a third year medical student at Loyola university and a former football player at Illinois Wesleyan college.

Short, who lives at 1640 West Adams street, revealed at the inquest that his wife decided to take her life after a final plea for his return Tuesday afternoon. Referring to his wife as "the girl," Short told of the meeting at her request at La Salle and Van Buren streets. He refused to live with her, Short said, and his wife ended the plea. Later she telephoned him, Short said, and he told her that he could not see her until Friday.

Tells of Suicide Threat.

"That is the last you'll see of me then,' she told me," Short said. "She said, 'I'll write you a letter.' I told her O. K. Several times she has threatened to kill herself and me because I refused to return."

Short said he separated from his wife because of her temper and discontent with the fact that he could not take her out while working to finance his medical education.

"The folly she refers to in the suicide letter concerns her actions toward me, I'm sure," Short said. "There was no other man and she was of high character. Lately she has been in financial difficulties, working as a waitress at the Y. M. C. A. cafeteria at 105 South Ashland avenue, and living in a $3 room."

Short said that he was married in 1928, when his wife was 17 and he was 21 years old, in Mechanicsville, Ill. Mrs. Short was an orphan, he said.

Text of Death Note.

The suicide letter said: "The sun is setting—no, not the blazing orbit that affords us day—but the sun of my heart and soul. How dark it is. How uncertain the duration of the night. There is not a ray of hope for me, is there? One may be master of one's mind—but the heart, that is different.

"Though I have lost the right to you through my folly, there will always be a poignant yearning in my heart for you. The beauty and passion of your voice will resound with each thought of you. If there is no flower of love to fade, dear one, let me remain, though crushed, in the pages of your memory. I wish you a life filled with gladness and song and may every day bring you joy."

He will sail for Europe next summer with his family. At the completion of his lectures in the English university he will return to his chair as Byrne professor of law at Harvard.

Baroness Rebuked

BARONESS HOLM PATRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Baroness Holm-Patrick, formerly Lady Edina Dorothy Hope Conyngham, was rebuked in court today for demanding her "pound of flesh" in a successful suit for payment of $7,290 maintenance against her former husband, Sir Thomas Ainsworth.

The court held that it was bound to issue the order under the terms of an understanding reached when the marriage was dissolved in 1925. Ainsworth then agreed to make a payment each year as long as their two children were alive. He admitted that the payments were in arrears for the amount named.

Ainsworth claimed that since his income has dropped from $12,000 to $2,360 annually during the last year he was entitled to discontinue the payments.

THIEVES SMASH WINDOWS IN FIVE STORES; 2 SEIZED

Window smashers were busy in Chicago and La Grange early yesterday, breaking the display windows of five stores within two hours. Private watchmen at two stores fired at the thieves and the owners of two other stores drove off the vandals. Two smashers, both Negroes, were seized.

Five men are believed to have been responsible for three of the window smashings. They shattered the window of the Charming Frocks shop at 741 East 79th street and took 150 dresses valued at $1,500. An hour later they looted the windows of the Rose Marie Frocks, Inc., 13 South 5th avenue, La Grange. A watchman fired at them. Next the hoodlums smashed the window of the Berg Frock shop, 1539 Devon avenue, but were driven away by the owner, David Berg.

About the same hour three men took clothing valued at $500 from a store at 7110 Fullerton avenue. A watchman there fired at them. At 2234 South Halsted street two Negroes got seven coats and ran away when fired on by the owner. The pair, Charles Caruthers and Robert Williams, were nabbed a block away by Policeman William Ward.

EX-HUSBAND SUES N. U. PROFESSOR; SEEKS $100,000

Will Charge Alienation of Wife's Affections.

A new chapter was opened yesterday in the international love tangle involving George Seldowitsch, a Berlin chemist, his former wife, who was the daughter of an admiral in the imperial Russian navy; Prof. Vladimir N. Ipatieff of Northwestern university, and the latter's wife. Seldowitsch's attorney filed the praecipe of a $100,000 suit for damages in the Superior court against Prof. Ipatieff and his wife, Varia.

Attorney Ben Ehrlich, who filed the praecipe, said the suit would charge the defendants with alienation of affections and that the grounds for the action would be substantially those stated by Seldowitsch in a bill filed last Saturday to annul the divorce which Mrs. Alexandra Rittscher Seldowitsch was granted in September by Judge Joseph B. David.

Deny Seldowitsch's Charges.

The professor and his wife and Frau Seldowitsch, who live at 199 East Pearson street, have entered indignant denials to Seldowitsch's charge that the 65-year-old professor stole the love of his wife and was aided and abetted in the act by Mrs. Ipatieff.

In the bill to annul the divorce Seldowitsch charged that his wife left him in 1930 in Berlin and went to live with Mrs. Ipatieff. Prof. Ipatieff, an authority on the chemistry of petroleum and a consultant for several large oil companies, was in the United States at the time. He returned to Berlin after he had been appointed to the faculty of Northwestern university, and Frau Seldowitsch accompanied him and his wife back to the United States.

Seldowitsch included in his bill to set aside the divorce purported copies of letters alleged to have been written to Prof. Ipatieff by the two women. In these letters both women, the bill charged, disclosed the love of Frau Seldowitsch for the professor.

"Blackmail," Says Professor.

Prof. Ipatieff charged that Seldowitsch had filed the bill to set aside the marriage in hopes of collecting blackmail. Frau Seldowitsch asserted that when she was living in Berlin her husband's only interest in her was to get money which he spent, she charged, on other women.

"I am a scientist," said Prof. Ipatieff when the first action was started. "I am 65 years old and I am not interested in love. I am not in love with Frau Seldowitsch."

Attorney Ehrlich said yesterday that one ground on which Seldowitsch, who is still in Berlin, will ask damages is based upon the $30,000 loss he suffered when a dressmaking establishment which he and his wife operated jointly was liquidated after she left.

Rob Typographical Union Headquarters of $1,077

Three gunmen yesterday escaped with $1,077 in a robbery of the offices of the Chicago Typographical union on the 15th floor at 130 North Wells street. Bryant Beecher, secretary and treasurer of the organization, and two other employés were forced to lie on the floor while th robbers escaped in an elevator.

HOOVER REPORT ON SEAWAY HIT AT U. S. HEARING

Project's Economic Value Is Questioned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Louis C. Sabin, former army engineer and vice president of the Great Lakes Carriers' association, today startled members of the Borah senate foreign relations subcommittee by questioning the thoroughness of President Hoover's examination into the economic aspects of the St. Lawrence seaway project prior to its submission to the senate in treaty form.

The attack on the President's handling of the St. Lawrence development with which he had been closely connected for more than eight years, was made indirectly by the witness during the course of testimony in which he sounded a call on the part of the lake carriers for the inauguration and completion of a careful economic study of the economic phases of the St. Lawrence project.

Sticks to His Contention.

No adequate economic study of the project ever has been made, Mr. Sabin asserted, sticking to his contention in the face of a reminder by members of the committee that President Hoover himself had headed the United States St. Lawrence commission which had studied the project and had informed congress through the White House that a thorough study of the economic phases of the project had been made by the department of commerce and the commission.

The Sabin charge came at the close of a crowded day, during which representatives of the lake carriers, great lakes cities, and Buffalo port and elevator facilities had poured a raking fire into the economic phases of the entire St. Lawrence river development, both for navigation and power. Spokesmen for lake interests asserted that recent study had shown that the seaway would benefit no one but Canadians, that it was not needed, and that its construction would mean the waste of a colossal sum of money.

Charge Misrepresentation.

During the hearings charges also were made by three witnesses to the effect that the value of the St. Lawrence seaway had been misrepresented to the country by Charles P. Craig, executive director of the Great Lakes Tidewater association and "other propagandists." The assertion was also made that figures printed by the United States department of commerce showing freight savings were "false."

The President's name was brought into the record of the hearing in this way: Adam E. Cornelius, a director of the Great Lakes Carriers' association, and Nesbit Grammer, Buffalo elevator and shipping operator, had completed their attacks on the St. Lawrence. Mr. Sabin was about to leave the stand after telling Chairman William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho] and other members that no exhaustive study of the St. Lawrence project ever had been made when Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] spoke up.

Asks About Hoover Report.

"But how about the report made to congress in 1926 by one Herbert Hoover?" the senator asked, referring to a period when Mr. Hoover was secretary of commerce and chairman of the United States St. Lawrence commission. "He told us then that in order that the commission might have complete data as to the economic phases of the problem the department of commerce had undertaken a full examination of the questions involved. Did you know that?"

"I certainly did," replied the witness. "I also knew many of the men who worked on the St. Lawrence study. There were also some high government officials. All I'll say is that I hold to my original statement that the project never has been carefully studied so far as its economic phases are concerned."

"You hold to that opinion," shot back Walsh, as committee members and spectators grinned, "in the face of Mr. Hoover's statements and all these various reports that have been made on the St. Lawrence?"

Holds to His Opinion.

"I do," retorted Sabin. "I know some of the reports were begun by gentlemen who afterwards became propagandists for the treaty."

In reply to questions from Senator Walsh, Mr. Sabin said that he thought the army engineers should have been consulted by Secretary Hoover at the time the economic phases of the St. Lawrence were being studied.

"On every other big project handled by the government," said Sabin, "the army corps of engineers has been called in to help. It was not done in this case. A different setup was followed and the engineers were left out."

Mr. Grammer, president of the Eastern Grain Elevator corporation and several steamship lines, was another witness who assailed Mr. Craig of the Great Lake Tidewater association as a propagandist who had been spreading misleading propaganda throughout the west in connection with the St. Lawrence project.

Headed by Henry Allen.

The Tidewater association is headed by Henry Allen, former senator from Kanas, publicity representative for the Republican party during the recent campaign and President Hoover's personal representative during the time the St. Lawrence treaty was being negotiated.

The burden of Grammer's testimony was to the effect that the export business on the great lakes would be too small to warrant the expenditure of a "billion dollars" on the proposed St. Lawrence waterway.

"The maximum amount of wheat ever delivered to Montreal by water has been about 200 millions bushels," he said. "The last two years it has been less than 100 million bushels. It would be possible to deliver 360 million bushels of wheat by water through the St. Lawrence each year. The amount going through the St. Lawrence has been cut down by the use of the port of Vancouver by Canada for European shipments. Eighty million bushels went to Europe via this route last year."

Says Figures Are False.

Mr. Grammer said that department of commerce figures tending to prove that wheat freight rates would be reduced by 6½ to 9½ cents were false. He pointed out that during the last three years rates from the head of the lakes to Montreal at no time have been more than 3 cents a bushel.

"The average rate on wheat during 1932 was 5½ cents a bushel," he continued. "There is no possibility of any material saving in the total cost of transportation from the head of the lakes to the seaboard through the construction of the St. Lawrence shipway. The promoters of the St. Lawrence have misrepresented the possible savings in freight rates to the western states.

Charges Propaganda Spread.

"Among those who have spread the idea that the St. Lawrence would be valuable to the farmers is Charles P. Craig, executive secretary of the Great Lakes Tidewater association. To my knowledge he has been spreading propaganda for this project for three or four years."

Senator Walsh spoke up.

"You refer to the Craig organization as a propaganda organization?"

"I do," replied Grammer. "Mr. Craig has been misrepresenting the benefits to be derived from the St. Lawrence for years.

"The sole effect of the St. Lawrence development will be to permit entrance into the ports of the great lakes of moderate sized foreign tramp ships, which can only create from time to time 'cutthroat' competition with the lake ships and the present transportation system. It cannot produce a more economical system of transportation.

Bulk Is Canadian Wheat.

"A great part of the wheat that is available for export from the ports at the head of the lakes is Canadian wheat. A small part of the wheat raised in the United States can move for export via the great lakes. There is seldom more than 30 million bushels of northwest wheat available for export. On the other hand, Canada has 300 million bushels of wheat annually for export, or ten times as much as is available from the United States.

"Assuming any advantage could come to our western farmers by reduction in cost through St. Lawrence development, it would apply ten times as much to Canadian wheat."

Suggests Export Bounty.

As he prepared to leave the stand Chairman Borah asked Grammer for his views on how to help the farmer. The witness urged an export bounty.

"Then," said Grammer, "we could dispose of 4 or 5 hundred millions of the farmers' grain if prohibition became ineffective. The mere mention of beer sent barley up 4 cents the other day. That was more than congress has been able to do through legislation in six years."

Canadians Ask Slice of Maine and Alaska in Seaway Deal

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 16.—A demand that the United States cede part of Maine and a large area of Alaska to Canada in return for Canada's ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty was made here today.

Parliamentarians opposed to the waterway pact and others who just naturally are controversial when dealings with the United States come to the fore were delving into the musty leaves of the Ashburton treaty, dealing with the Maine border, and into the history of the deeding of the Alaskan panhandle to the United States. They took the view that in both these boundary deliberations the legitimate interests of Canada were greatly and unjustly sacrificed.

Scorn War Debt Proposal.

This demand followed a proposal Monday that the United States should try to get a deed to the land east and south of the St. Lawrence river from the great lakes to the Atlantic ocean in return for war debt credits. The proposal was made at Washington by Peter G. Ten Eyck, president of the New York State Waterways association. He was appearing before the senate foreign relations subcommittee hearings on the St. Lawrence waterway project.

Ten Eyck's proposal has been generally termed fantastic throughout Canada. The Toronto Globe toyed with the suggestion in typical British fashion in an editorial aptly headed "Try and get it." Opponents of the seaway are using Ten Eyck's proposal as an argument against ratification of the treaty.

Creates Uproar in Quebec.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Nov. 16.—When Peter G. Ten Eyck, president of the New York State Waterways association, suggested that the United States might be given a section of Quebec and the Maritime province in connection with the St. Lawrence waterways project, he stirred up a hornet's net in Quebec. Premier Taschereau of this province today expressed fears that the St. Lawrence would come under United States control in event of the waterways project being completed.

"Coming events cast their shadows before, and I recommend to the careful consideration of Prime Minister Bennett the statement made by Mr. Ten Eyck before the senate committee at Washington," Premier Taschereau said.

"When such statements are forthcoming from prominent American representatives before the St. Lawrence waterway project has even been commenced, it is quite evident to me, and I presume to other citizens of this province, what is liable to happen after the project is completed, if it is ever gone ahead with.

Refers to Past Election.

"While the eastern townships gave generous support to Mr. Bennett at the last general elections, I should still feel quite sorry to see them annexed to the United States, an eventuality which is presaged by Mr. Ten Eyck.

"It would appear that if the project is completed, there is a very strong possibility of the St. Lawrence river, in which great seaway artery the province of Quebec is vitally concerned, eventually coming under the complete control of the United States."

Premier Taschereau is a Liberal, while Prime Minister Bennett is a Conservative. This explains the reference to support granted Bennett by the eastern townships in the last federal election.

SUPPORT SOUGHT BY ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY BACKERS

Army Engineer Estimates Its Cost.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Resolutions urging ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty, immediate construction of the waterway to the sea, the creation of port commissions in great lakes cities, and revision of international tariff policies were reported favorably by a committee of the St. Lawrence seaway and international trade conference, in session here.

Gov. George F. Schaeffer of North Dakota said the two-thirds vote necessary for ratification of the treaty is now lacking in the senate, even with the vote of senators in the 23 states now organized. He pointed out that not only must the central states be rallied to support of the treaty, but that the campaign must also be carried to the seaboard states, east, south, and west.

Delegates Urged to Lobby.

Delegates attending the conference are being urged to appear before the senate committee on Nov. 28. On that date the committee opens hearings in treaty providing completion of the waterway.

Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of engineers of the United States army, informed the delegates of the approximate cost of the proposed waterway, which would be borne by the United States and Canadian governments.

He said that the actual new funds which must be provided by this country alone, in addition to the work already under way or completed, are 221 million dollars. Of this sum 24 million dollars would be spent on the upper lakes channel, 29 million dollars on navigation canals in the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence river, and 150 million dollars on other work now under commission.

New Lock at Soo.

A new lock at Sault Ste. Marie would cost $8,000,000 to provide a depth of 30 feet at minimum lake level, he said.

Gen. Pillsbury places the government's carrying charges at $10,000,000 annually for seven years, when the work would be completed. Against the expenditure in the St. Lawrence river, he charges off the future development of 2,000,000 horsepower of hydro-electric power.

FALLS 600 FEET TO HIS DEATH IN BOULDER CANYON

Boulder City, Nev., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Private Ted Wells, musician in the 63d artillery band stationed at San Pedro, Cal., plunged 600 feet to his death today in Boulder canyon when a platform on which he was standing gave way.

Five of his companions who were also on the platform, managed to save themselves by clinging to the broken framework.

Wells, with soldiers from Fort McArthur, was inspecting the Boulder dam project when the accident occurred. He was the first tourist killed at the dam site.

BABY SMOTHERED TO DEATH.

Richard Bondy, 4 months old, was found smothered to death yesterday in his baby carriage on the rear porch of his home at 5641 North Sacramento avenue.

IRISHMEN RIP UP TRACK AS WALES VISITS BELFAST

BELFAST, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Railroad tracks were ripped up today in an effort to prevent sightseers from coming to Belfast to see the prince of Wales, who, guarded by 12,000 men, took part in a five mile parade to Stormont, where he dedicated the new Northern Ireland parliament buildings.

Long sections of the railroad between Kells, County Meath, in the Free State, and Belfast were torn up and other parts of the road were mined. Rails also were ripped up near Cavan, also in the Free State.

Vandals Give Warning.

At each end of the breaks in the tracks were placed notices reading: "Ireland belongs to the Irish, both north and south," and on the station at Kells there was a poster: "Warning: Line ripped up and mined in several places. The train must not proceed, or it will be fired on." Here and there along the damaged section of the railroad were signs reading: "Down with the prince of Wales."

All telegraph wires on the Kells to Belfast route were cut. Red flags were placed at points where the rails were broken. Railroad officials discovered what had happened before a crowded Kells excursion train came to any harm.

Thousands of Police on Guard.

Belfast received the prince with great enthusiasm, but thousands of police remained watchful tonight to stop any hostile demonstration. Ulster Nationalists refused to have anything to do with the ceremonies connected with the prince's first visit to Belfast. They protested that in coming here he emphasized the breach between the counties which make up Northern Ireland and the independent Free State to the south. These protests, along with the recent sanguinary riots by the idle in Belfast, caused the authorities to take extraordinary precautions that the prince might come to no harm.

Nine bombing planes were aloft this morning as his ship entered Belfast lough, and on the tops of the twenty mile range of hills there were great bonfires. Dockside workmen waved flags and cheered and sirens screamed as the ship pulled in. A 21 gun salute came from two warships anchored in the harbor.

Greeted by Governor.

The prince, wearing the uniform of a colonel of the Irish Guards, was welcomed by the duke of Abercorn governor of Ulster; Viscount Craigavon, the prime minister, and Sir Dawson Bates, secretary for home affairs. Then he stepped ashore amid wild cheering.

Of the 12,000 men guarding him 4,000 were armed soldiers and police and 8,000 were volunteer Orangemen. The Ulster constables, revolvers strapped to their hips, and the soldiers, their bayonets fixed, formed walls of defense as the prince rode the five miles to Stormont. Armored cars rolled along at intervals in the parade, and extra police were held in reserve at strategic centers.

WHO DIED FIRST IN PLANE CRASH? IS WILL PROBLEM

The question of whether Joseph F. Hirt, president of the Forest Products Engineering company, or his wife, Inez, was killed first in the airplane crash last Nov. 10, which cost their lives and those of another woman and two children, was raised by attorneys yesterday in the Probate court. The airplane crashed near Kempville, Tenn., while the Hirts were flying to their winter home at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The estate may amount to more than $50,000, attorneys said.

Under the terms of Hirt's will all his property is left to his business partner, Thomas De Blois, 1901 Granville avenue, with the exception of his widow's one-third share. The will read:

"This is to serve irrevocably as will of both myself and my partner. Whoever dies first will leave his property to the other. This document is drawn particularly to avoid interference by attorneys or the judiciary. The survivor is to be the executor of the properties and relatives shall be given $1, except where the executor shall allow more within his discretion." The will stated that although Hirt owned 60 per cent of the engineering company, upon his death his share was to be considered only 50 per cent.

The Hirts had no children, Attorney Joseph Harrington explained. If Mrs. Hirt died first, he said, all her property would automatically go to her husband and through him to De Blois. If, on the other hand, Hirt was killed first, his widow's share would go to heirs of Mrs. Hirt. The lawyer asked that medical testimony of physicians who examined the bodies be made available to the court.

RAINEY WANTS TO BE SPEAKER OF NEXT HOUSE

Announces Candidacy; Asserts Seniority.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Representative Henry T. Rainey [Ill.], Democratic floor leader, today formally became a candidate for speaker of the next house.

Representative Rainey based his claim on seniority, the right of the northern states to outstanding representation in the new Democratic house and the fact that as majority floor leader he is next in line to John N. Garner of Texas, who will vacate the post on March 4 to become Vice President.

HENRY T. RAINEY. [(C) Harris & Ewing.]

The white haired veteran from Illinois will have strong opposition. Representative John E. Rankin [Miss.] is the only other Democrat who has publicly announced his candidacy, but there are many who are known to be working quietly for the speaker's cloak. Outstanding among them are Representatives Joseph W. Byrns [Tenn.], chairman of the appropriations committee; John McDuffie [Ala.], Democratic whip; William B. Bankhead [Ala.], and John J. O'Connor [N. Y.].

Representative Adolph J. Sabath of Chicago is Mr. Rainey's speakership campaign manager and is polling the entire Illinois Democratic delegation for support.

If Mr. Rainey had not been defeated in the Harding landslide in 1920 he would rank with Speaker Garner as the oldest Democratic member of the house in point of service. Both came to the house in 1902.

HUNGARY EYES DUCE; SEES PLAN TO CIRCLE SERBIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 16.—With the return of Prime Minister Goemboes from Rome today, parliamentary circles were speculating on the plans of Premier Mussolini of Italy.

The newspaper Magyar Orszag asked if Mussolini will insist that Otto Hapsburg pretender to the Hungarian throne, will marry Princess Maria of Italy. With the Italian Princess Giovanna as queen of Bulgaria, this would mean another step toward encircling Jugo-Slavia, from which Mussolini is said to covet the province of Dalmatia.

Goemboes reported to the foreign relations committee that a mutually beneficial trade treaty with Italy had been completed.

HAIL WATERWAYS AS ECONOMIC AID TO MIDDLE WEST

Shannon Body Hears Railroads Assailed.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Inland waterways and the lakes to gulf water route, now nearing completion, were heralded yesterday as the agencies which will take the middle west out of the jaws of the economic nutcracker created by the Panama canal at hearings of the Shannon committee.

Spokesmen of the Mississippi Valley association, defending the Inland Waterways corporation, the federal barge line, from the attack made by by the railroads at the South Bend, Ind., hearings in August, argued that the government barges are an aid to private enterprise rather than a competitor. The idea was set forth that the federal barge line is helping the development of private waterway carriers, somewhat as the protective tariff wall aided the growth of infant industries years ago.

Iowan Accuses Railroads.

A small tempest was stirred by Halleck W. Seaman of Clinton, Ia., who was excused from the stand, subject to recall, after he had declared that propaganda of the railroads against waterways was being circulated to "debauch public opinion." His remarks carried an imputation that money was paid. Under questioning Seaman mentioned three or four trade and financial publications, calling them "special organs," and remarked:

"Copies of propaganda speeches are printed by the bale and delivered to country weekly newspapers which are paid to publish them."

"I strongly disagree with your statements," objected Congressman William H. Stafford of Milwaukee, Republican. "They are not right. I read some of these publications regularly."

Editor Denies Charges.

Mr. Seaman, replying to questions, mentioned clippings he had from a Clinton paper. He was then excused from the stand and later in the day Chairman Joseph B. Shannon of Kansas City, Democrat, received a telegram from W. C. Eastland, editor of the Clinton Herald, "unequivocally denying the imputations, direct or indirect," made by Mr. Seaman and asking opportunity to go on the stand to deny them. Eastland was granted permission to testify tomorrow and Seaman said he would be on hand to repeat his charges.

Besides the waterway subject the great topic of the day, a narrative of how the government has gone into the slot machine business of vending cigarets, candy, and chewing gum to employés in the Kansas City postoffice, was given by H. J. Nye, secretary of the Retail Druggists' association of that city.

"This means destruction for a drug store across the street from the postoffice," said Mr. Nye. "The druggist pays $125 a month rent and has a three years' lease and he pays $328 a year in taxes. The candy and trade business from the postal employés was one of his main assets. The slot machines in the government building take in as much as $180 a week."

Spenders Depend on Payers.

"Yes," commented Chairman Shannon, "and when they asked the postmaster about it he replied with the good old gag about 'welfare.' If they're going to stifle the taxpayers, where, eventually, will the tax eaters get the tax money on which to subsist? This is an unwarranted use of government property."

Main witnesses on the inland waterways included Cleveland A. Newton, general counsel of the Mississippi Valley association; Theodore Brent of the Upper Mississippi Waterways association, Ray Williams of the Cairo Chamber of Commerce, and W. A. Klinger of the Sioux City, Ia., Chamber of Commerce. A strong delegation was on hand from Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Nebraska, Missouri, and New Orleans.

"A square deal and an even break for the Mississippi valley," was the text taken by Mr. Newton, in his counter argument to the statements of the railroads at the South Bend hearings, that the federal barge lines are "unfair and unwise" competition which the railroads should not be compelled to meet. Newton held the object of the railroad opposition is to prevent use of the waterways.

"The federal barge line," said Mr. Newton, "was created to aid and encourage private enterprise in overcoming obstructions to the return of navigation upon our inland rivers.

Tells of Canal Squeeze.

"We have consistently opposed government in business. We insist, however, that conditions be created by congress which will insure a square deal and a fair opportunity for private carriers which are developing upon our inland streams. Otherwise we fear the private lines will be destroyed."

The squeeze exerted upon Mississippi valley states by the Panama canal, which has brought the east and west seaboards together, was dwelt on by Mr. Newton.

"The solution," he said, "is low cost water transportation between the lakes and the gulf. Peoria has a tractor industry. The rail rate on tractors direct to Seattle is $1.62 per 100 pounds. The water rate on tractors from Baltimore through the Panama canal to Seattle is 65 cents. How can a tractor industry in Peoria, or in any other city in the valley, compete on the west coast, in the Orient or in South America with a tractor industry on the eastern seaboard.

Compares Rail, Water Rates.

"Agricultural implements are manufactured at Moline, Ill. The rail rate to the west coast is $1.54 per 100 pounds. The water rate from Baltimore to the west coast is 50 cents.

"If the effort which is now being made to eliminate low cost water transportation upon our rivers is successful, and our rates to the gulf are forced to a dry land basis, this entire industry will be forced to the seashore.

"We have improved the North Atlantic coast harbors and connecting channels to the extent of $285,000,000, at the expense of the whole country. We have improved the great lakes harbors and channels to the extent of $143,000,000. We have improved Pacific coast harbors to the extent of $90,000,000. We have improved the Delaware at a cost of $66,000,000, and the Hudson to the extent of $23,000,000. We have spent upon the Panama canal $378,000,000.

Whole Country Shares Cost.

"In all, we have expended approximately $737,000,000 at the expense of the whole country, exclusive of the Panama canal, in order to provide low cost water transportation for the rest of the country, and it is now proposed to spend $200,000,000 to improve the St. Lawrence. Why set up a different standard for the purpose of penalizing low cost water transportation in the Mississippi valley?

"What we are asking is that the great natural water highways of this country be accorded the same consideration as the water highways around the border of the United States."

Mr. Brent, former manager of the federal barge line, testified that the government is not losing money in the venture in the degree asserted by the railroads.

Government interference with private dental work was opposed by Dr. Emil L. Aison, chairman of a special committee of the Chicago Dental society. He said one example of encroachment is at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital at Maywood, where ten full time dentists are employed and where "only an insignificant portion of the work" can be traced to dental injuries suffered even indirectly from war service.

Government competition in the brick industry was described by George S. Eaton, secretary of the American Face Brick association.

Medical Society Leaders Urge Fight on Federal Competition

A call for all physicians to join in a concerted program against governmental participation in medicine was sounded last night by Dr. E. H. Cary of Dallas, Tex., and Dr. Dean Lewis of Baltimore, president and president elect of the American Medical association.

Treatment of war veterans for ailments other than those incurred in war service and the growth of veterans' hospitals are breaking down the morale of their profession, they told members of the Chicago Medical society at a meeting in the Medical and Dental Arts building.

"A survey has shown that 70 per cent of the men in veterans' hospitals receive care for conditions not connected in any way with military service," asserted Dr. Lewis. "Many of the patients are suffering from gout, obesity and rheumatism."

Fears More U. S. Hospitals.

"The medical profession has no quarrel with government treatment of the wounded man. The civil hospitals are losing while opportunists are lobbying successfully for more money for the veterans who escaped unscratched. The government has 59 hospitals and has spent 21 million dollars on this program already. Unless existing laws are repealed more buildings will go on."

Dr. Lewis then cited the case of a physician he knows. The doctor has dysentery for which he receives $150 a month from the government and at the same time he works for a veterans' hospital at $170 a month. "In addition," Dr. Lewis added, "a fine private practice nets him $15,000 a year."

Dr. Cary declared that there could be no peace until the government treatment of veterans has been modified and remedied. "We should all join to see that no further burdens are placed on the overburdened taxpayers in this manner," he said.

Too Many Young Doctors.

"Our profession will have to find new outlets for its talent," Dr. Cary continued. "There are 22,000 students in medical schools. Five thousand are being graduated each year. The mortality in our profession is 2,800 a year."

The answer to the problem, Dr. Cary said, is the development of a doctors' branch of medical science for the prevention of disease and the correction of abnormalities not now treated.

Dr. Cary said that state governments should finance the medical care of the poor and take this load from the shoulders of professionals. "We have given unselfishly to the world our ideas and inventions," he declared, "but if we are saddled with burdens and interfered with by a paternalistic government in our own field our profession will be broken down."

five extortion letters to the jury. Excerpts from these notes, all of which were signed "Lester McKay" and posted from the Wicker Park postal station, follow:

Letter No. 1, dated Nov. 21, 1930. "In a depression there are times when one has to resort to extortion. I have a spring capable of propelling a poison dart more than 3,000 feet. Save yourself from this danger by placing $25,000 in $20 notes in the general delivery window at the postoffice. Of course, if you don't do this I'll be forced to do something rash. I don't want to, because—darn it—I fell in love with your photo."

Letters No. 2 and No. 3, both dated Nov. 26: "Kidnaping is cruel. It has no thrill like this. . . . I saw you in person last night. May I compliment you on your looks? . . . If you value the life of your father you will comply with my demand. This is the last warning, Marion, may I call you by that name. Wishing you a long life."

Letter No. 6, dated Dec. 3: "I find I must make an example of this household, especially your father. The police promise protection, but the real protection is from the underworld. The package now must contain $50,000 in the denominations I suggested. Remember the police have no use for dead bodies."

Kuhn Receives Letter.

During an argument between counsel in the absence of the jury in the afternoon hearing Attorney Burnham told the court that the same person who had threatened Miss Wright wrote a series of five letters to William Kuhn after his arrest became publicly known. The writer demanded $25,000 and agreed to produce proof that Kuhn was not involved in the extortion demands. The attorney asserted that these letters, bearing the same signature of "Lester McKay," were shown to Jamie. He tried to introduce the letters into evidence, but Judge Schwaba upheld an objection made by Defense Attorney Everett.

Make $1 do the work of $3 and prevent "pesky" winter colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

THIS is no time to waste money! It's no time to neglect health! You do neither when you fight colds with Pepsodent Antiseptic as millions are doing. After all, it's just plain, simple arithmetic that makes them change to Pepsodent.

$1 does the work of $3

Pepsodent Antiseptic is three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics . . . hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money and gives you extra protection against colds and throat irritations. For protection against germs associated with common ills, remember there are really only two leading kinds of mouth antiseptics on the market. In one group is the mouth antiseptic that must be used full strength to be effective. In the other group is Pepsodent Antiseptic, utterly safe even if used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still kill germs within 10 seconds.

Don't fool yourself

It is bad enough to have germs in your mouth before you gargle . . . it's worse to have germs in your mouth after you gargle . . . so choose the antiseptic that kills the germs even when it is diluted. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic. Be sure! Be safe—and save money! Now is a good time to start.

IMPURE BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, even when diluted with water it still kills germs.

PRESIDENT BACK IN WASHINGTON; BUSY ON DEBTS

Regarded as Opposed to Cancellation.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—President Hoover returned to Washington from his California trip today to enter immediately into a series of conferences with cabinet members and congressional and political advisers concerning the war debts.

The end of a day of discussion found those who had talked with the President impressed with this idea of his attitude:

That the President, as he has frequently announced, is opposed to cancellation; that he believes the Dec. 15 payments should be made; in other words, that no further relaxation of the debt terms should be granted without a new examination of the whole question; that he does not intend to recommend to congress the revival of the debt commission and the making of such an examination unless Gov. Roosevelt joins in approving such a step.

Goes Straight to Desk.

The President arrived at the capital at 8:30 this morning and headed straight for his desk in the executive offices.

Whatever his own program concerning the debts might be, and however much his original plans may have been amended by Gov. Roosevelt's answer to his invitation of last Saturday, Mr. Hoover found, as the series of conferences progressed, evidence of one unmistakable fact. He learned that the congress which meets on Dec. 5 will oppose an extension of the moratorium and insist that the Dec. 15 payments be made.

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], one of the President's many callers, described the temper of congress clearly when he declared:

"I know all the members of the senate and I believe I know most of the members of the house, and I do not know a single member of congress willing to vote for a renewal of the moratorium."

Hints at Filibuster.

He hinted strongly at a filibuster should an attempt be made to push through a moratorium resolution in the ten days between the convening of congress and the date the next debt payments are due.

Thus, with President Hoover described as believing that the Dec. 15 payments of 124 millions of dollars should be made, and with a large majority of congress insisting that they shall not be postponed or forgiven, it seemed certain, as matters stood tonight, that the debtor nations will be required to pay on the line or else confess their inability to meet their obligations.

It also seemed probable that the whole debt question would be put over until after Gov. Roosevelt takes office.

The President elect's reply to Mr. Hoover's invitation to a conference on the debt problem expressed an unwillingness to go farther than a personal and noncommittal discussion. It emphasized the fact that until March 4 the responsibility lies with the present administration.

Recommendation Not Expected.

It correctly interpreted by those who called on him today, Mr. Hoover will not push that responsibility to the point of a recommendation to congress without Gov. Roosevelt's cooperation.

In that case there would be no repetition of last year's message to congress in which President Hoover forecast the need of reviving the war debts commission or granting a revision of the debts owed by certain of the harder pressed nations.

Instead, this year's message would go no farther than to describe the situation and allow its settlement to ride over into the new administration.

Secretary of the Treasury Mills was the President's first caller of the day and a willingness to let the responsibility lie with congress was read into his statement, later, calling attention to the fact that congress approved the debt agreements and has the sole power to alter them.

Stimson Among Callers.

Secretary of State Stimson was a luncheon guest at the White House and he too discussed the debt situation with the President, but would make no comment on their talk.

Before the day was over virtually the whole cabinet had been in to see Mr. Hoover.

President Hoover's homecoming was not all work. As he left the special train that had carried him campaigning through the middle west, then on to California to vote and back to Washington again, a large crowd of loyal Republicans greeted him. Cheers rang out, and as the President and Mrs. Hoover passed down the long lane opened before them hundreds of hands were stretched to shake the hand of the defeated candidate.

WAR DEBTS "JUST BUT IMPOSSIBLE," LAMONT SAYS

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. characterized the war debts as "perfectly just, but impossible," in an address tonight at the conference of universities sponsored by New York university.

The financier said the remedy for present depressed conditions lay in rebuilding the capitalistic system and seeking economic as well as political peace. He attributed the economic situation to the world war and subsequent economic warfare throughout the world.

He emphasized the interdependence of nations.

"Just as we have seen this depression to be world-wide," he said, "so every country is dependent in part on the misery or the good fortune of every other country."

BRITAIN SOBERED BY U. S. ON DEBT; PREPARES TO PAY

Still Hopes for New Talk on Revision.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—In view of the cold reception Washington has given to their request for an extended debt moratorium pending a rediscussion of the whole debt question, the British are now considering seriously what is to be done in case the American congress refuses more time on the payments due Dec. 15.

They are now envisaging such action by congress coupled perhaps with an agreement to talk things over on condition that the Dec. 15 payment is made. If this should be the case, it is understood that the British will pay. They have the necessary funds in dollars in New York and can transfer them to the American treasury.

Whether other debtors are similarly situated is not known here. The British will, however, stick to their thesis that such large transfers definitely do even more harm to international trade and finance than defaults, but they have no intention of defaulting, it is believed, if the United States insists on payment.

Talk Lump Sum Payment.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—One of the many war debt rumors percolating from the "city" to parliamentary circles today was to the effect that experts of both the British and American treasuries have come to a tentative conclusion that the present debt from this country to the United States might be scaled down to one-sixth of its dimension and paid in a lump sum. This speculation was taken rather seriously by various members of the house of commons whose private activities are in the financial district.

The present British debt was funded in 1923 at $4,600,000,000. Since then $303,000,000 has been paid on the principal in addition to $1,149,700,000 in interest payments. Substracting the payments already made on the principal there is still due $4,398,000,000. If that is scaled down to one-sixth the whole business could then be cleaned up by a lump sum payment of $733,000,000.

French Lean to Repudiation.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 16.—If the American congress, as appears to be probable, refuses to grant the French request for an extension of the Hoover moratorium to cover the Dec. 15 debt payment there is every likelihood the chamber of deputies will in turn refuse to vote the necessary credits to enable the government to pay.

A deadlock will thus arise between the legislative assemblies of the two countries. Premier Herriot, President Hoover and the French and American financial and business world will be in the position of waiting for one or the other to give way.

A short canvass of the leaders of the parties in the chamber today indicated that unless the government puts extreme pressure on its followers, the majority will stand firm by the unilateral reservation which the chamber adopted when it ratified the debt agreements July 21, 1929.

Ratified By Margin of 8.

It is recalled that the debt settlements were ratified by a majority of only eight, 300 against 292. On the same day the chamber almost unanimously adopted a resolution which roundly declared "except through the regular accomplishment of the obligations of Germany, and exclusively by the sums which Germany shall pay to France," payments to the United States and England could not be made.

Report Italy Prepares Request.

ROME, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Rumors that Italy is preparing a debt postponement request to the United States, similar to the action taken by Great Britain, France and Belgium, today elicited a semi-official statement that there is "nothing to it so far." Financial sources expressed the belief that the Rome government is waiting to study the American reaction to the other requests.

MAPS TO SHOW WHERE TAXES REMAIN UNPAID

Tribune Begins Presenting First of Loop Areas.

THE TRIBUNE presents this morning the first of series of maps indicating large pieces of loop property upon which the 1930 taxes have not been paid. The shaded areas in the accompanying map show those parcels of property upon which the taxes have been paid paritally or in full. The white areas reveal the properties upon which no taxes have been paid.

This morning's map shows the two square blocks bounded by State street on the west, Washington street on the north, Michigan avenue on the east, and Madison street on the south. The county treasurer's tax books show that no taxes have been paid upon three parcels of property in this area.

The names given in the map are those to whom the tax bills are addressed. These persons and corporations in many instances are merely the agents of or lessors to the persons who are actually liable for the bills. The records are as of Nov. 14.

Taxes On Kesner Building.

Jacob L. Kesner, 5 North Wabash avenue, owes $85,659 in taxes on the Kesner building at Wabash avenue and Madison street, the records show. Stevens Brothers corporation listed as owners of the southeast corner of State and Washington streets, owe $173,177 in taxes on this parcel of property, the tax books reveal. Stevens Brothers are also listed as owing $52,728 on that half of their store building fronting on Wabash avenue. The taxes on that half of the store fronting on State street, totaling $66,396, have been paid in full.

On most of the pieces of property to be shown in these maps, the taxes have not been paid because objections have been filed in court, asserting that the taxes are excessive.

The Commonwealth Edison company, 72 West Adams street, is listed as owner of the 40 feet adjoining the Kesner building on the north. The company has paid all but $1,453 of total taxes of $16,556 on this piece of property, the tax books show.

George S. Lurie & Co., 178 West Jackson boulevard, acting as agents for Mary V. McCormick, have paid $18,691 on total taxes of $31,091 on the building just north of the Commonwealth Edison property, the records show. The Marshall Field estate, owner of the southeast corner of Wabash avenue and Washington street, has paid the $182,247 taxes in full.

Balance of $8,735.

The Michigan Boulevard company, 30 North Michigan avenue, is listed as owner of the property at the southwest corner of Washington street and Michigan avenue. It has paid all but a balance of $8,735 on total taxes of $136,641.

Edward Renwick, trustee, with offices in the Monroe building, has paid in full the taxes of $55,086 upon the Michigan boulevard building, 30 North Michigan avenue, according to the books. The Ridgecroft Real Estate company, 6 North Michigan avenue, has paid 50 per cent, or $69,212, of the total taxes of $118,625 upon the building at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Madison street.

The Marshall Field estate has paid $166,569 of the total tax of $177,344 upon the Marshall Field annex building at the southwest corner of Washington street and Wabash avenue, according to the records.

Mandel Brothers, owner of the property at the corners of State and Madison and Wabash avenues, have paid all but a balance of $36,053 on total taxes of $369,865, the records show.

CUT REAL ESTATE VALUATIONS 24% IN 2 TOWNSHIPS

Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday revealed that the 1931 quadrennial assessment valuations on real estate for the towns of Hyde Park and Jefferson, respectively, are $290,808,661 and $252,555,065. These valuations average 24.5 per cent lower than the 1930 assessments for the two towns and 22.5 per cent lower than the 1928 quadrennial valuations.

These figures bear out the predictions of the assessor, who has repeatedly stated that real estate tax bills for 1931 will be 18 to 25 per cent lower if the levies of the local governments are not excessive. The assessed valuation for the town of Hyde Park is 28 per cent lower than in 1930 and that for the town of Jefferson is 21 per cent lower.

During the day Assessor Jacobs sent the books of real estate valuations for nine country towns to the county clerk. The 1931 taxes are to be paid in two installments and real estate complaints will not be heard by the board of appeals until the bills for the first installment have been sent out. Any adjustments then made by the board will be applied to the second installment bills.

The assessor also increased by 20 per cent the personal property assessments made for 1,700 chain grocery stores after a meeting with representatives of several chain concerns and a number of independent grocers from the city and several suburbs. The independent grocers had complained that their assessments were higher than those for the chain group.

CITY LIGHT FRAUD TRIAL OPENS; 1ST WITNESS IS HEARD

Taking of testimony was started yesterday in the trial of Harry Johnson, president of the Electrical Contracting company, and four suspended city employés, who are charged with conspiracy. They are being tried before a jury in Judge Thomas J. Lynch's criminal court.

William A. Jackson, commissioner of gas and electricity, was the outstanding state witness yesterday. He testified that after he took office he investigated complaints from the Citizens' association, and found that the contracting company had skimped on materials on a street lighting job. He held up payment of $165,000 as a result, he said.

The trial was delayed at the morning session when Clayton Mark Jr., treasurer of Clayton Mark & Co., who had been selected as a juror, said that his firm did business with the Johnson concern. He said he did not know of it at the time he was selected, but had since been apprised of the fact by his father, who is president of the company. He was excused and a new juror selected in his place.

MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—The food scarcity in soviet Russia has meant new and tighter ration regulations for staple commodities already classed as luxuries by most of the people.

In 1933 the second five year plan starts. Its inauguration is expected to bring vigorous activity looking toward doubling or tripling the standards of living of the people.

In the matter of food, there appears to be at present in the large centers at least plenty of bread, both the black bread and the slate colored variety which passes here for white. But there is a shortage of virtually every other article, with the possible exception of the most seasonable vegetables.

Meat, Butter Among Delicacies.

Such things as butter, meat, fish, and sugar are rare delicacies in the average Russian home diet. Each of the workers, who, with the Red army, comprise the most privileged class so far as food is concerned, is entitled to 1 kilo (2.204 pounds) of butter and sugar, and between 2 and 3 kilos of meat a month in his ration allowance. But even this meager quantity sometimes is not to be had at the government coöperative stores, where food supplies are distributed at low fixed prices.

The average citizen consequently must go to a private market where peasants are permitted to sell their surpluses at any price they can command. Here the prices usually are so high that his wages will not permit him to buy as much as he would like and in some cases as much as he needs. It is not unusual to see many persons trading bread in the private markets for farm produce.

Eat at Factory Kitchens.

One factor sometimes overlooked is that the majority of workers in large industries and plants now receive at least what would be called here one square meal daily in kitchens attached to their factories.

Virtually every factory, office, and institution of any size has its own arrangement for feeding its employés. This system is spreading rapidly under the government's policy of gradually abolishing the home as the unit of family life.

It is estimated that 15,000,000 persons, almost one-tenth of the population, will be receiving their meals by the end of 1932 by what is known here as the "mass feeding" route, compared with 3,000,000 in 1930.

Disfranchised Suffer.

Since the so-called factory kitchens, which not only serve meals on the spot but also prepare them to be taken home by the workers, get the first call on most food products, the manual worker, on the whole, is better off than others. Employés in small enterprises and the lesser public offices, who are not accorded mass feeding facilities, and the nonworkers and disfranchised—who find it hard going under the best of conditions—bear the brunt of the present food shortage.

Hand in hand with the shortage has been a gradual but increasingly sharp decline in the purchasing power of the ruble, which works an additional hardship on a large part of the people. The paper ruble today is valued at about 25 to 1 gold ruble in terms of buying value.

With the steady flow of currency toward the villages, and with little returning because of the shortage of manufactured articles to balance that flow, the monetary circulation has been destroyed. The effects are felt by the people in constantly rising prices. Financial stringency is forcing the government to issue additional currency and has aroused rumors of an imminent money reform.

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES MEXICO.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A sharp earthquake of one and one-half minutes duration was felt early today at Salina Cruz, Oaxaca.

SOVIETS TO DISCHARGE WORKERS WHO LOAF ONE DAY A MONTH

MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The soviet government issued an order today discharging all workers who loaf one working day a month from a regular job without valid excuse.

In addition, loafers are deprived of food cards and lodgings. Heretofore workers have been allowed three absences monthly before action was taken against them, but wide abuses of this system have been recently revealed.

The decree was also caused by acute labor conditions which are seriously hampering all industry. There recently has been a large increase in the general labor turnover caused by workers shifting from one spot to another in search of better living conditions. Newspapers cite thirteen working days monthly as a general average of absences without leave in the Donbas coal region. In other industries the average is said to be from six to nine days monthly.

BRITAIN SHOWN WAY TO SAVINGS OF $500,000,000

Economy Committee Lists Budget Cuts.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Drastic economy plans to save more than 500 million dollars yearly on Great Britain's national and local government expenditures have been submitted to Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, by the parliamentary economy committee.

The committee's report, made available tonight, advocates substantial national economy as the only means to restore Britain's industrial position. It advises the following cuts: Education, $70,000,000; roads and transport, $125,000,000; local government grants, $225,000,000; other economies, $80,000,000.

Would Abolish Departments.

The proposals include abolition of the department of overseas trade, the ministry of transport, and the road fund. They propose that no consideration shall be given to big schemes of road construction or improvement before 1936, advocate the substitution of state guarantee of loans advanced by building societies for housing subsidies, and also the establishment if necessary of "a housing commission to act as public landlord."

Other suggested economy measures include abolition of certain schools and local departments, fewer teachers and larger classes, savings on teachers' salaries and higher fees for technical and evening classes. The closing of the Knightsbridge, London, barracks and Sheerness dockyard, the amalgamation of Woolwich Military academy with Sandhurst, merging of colonial and dominions' offices and liquidation of empire marketing projects are also suggested. Reductions in salaries and longer hours for civil service employés is urged.

Tax Limit Reached.

The committee points out that conditions do not justify the increased personnel in the war office and admiralty since the war. It gave as an example the personnel of the war office, which was 1,878 in 1914, but which reached 12,288 this year, although the army decreased 30,000 between these years.

"The taxable capacity of the nation has been reached with the result that the law of diminishing returns is beginning to operate and further taxation would defeat its own purpose," the committee's introductory statement declares.

HUXLEY, SCIENTIST, PREDICTS DEATH OF RELIGION IN RUSSIA

Julian Huxley, distinguished British biologist, in a lecture last night at the University of Chicago, asserted a belief that orthodox religion would die out in soviet Russia within a generation. Communism, having some features of religion, would take its place, he said.

Mr. Huxley told his hearers, who crowded Mandell, that he had spent five weeks in Russia and that the government had allowed him and his companions to see whatever they wanted to see.

He declared that soviet Russia was undoubtedly a going concern, that it was spending large sums on scientific research and that society there was organized on such a basis that a nonworker was looked down upon. The state, he said, had completely socialized medicine and was giving mothers and children more aid than most capitalistic countries.

On the unfavorable side Mr. Huxley commented to the effect that news censorship was maintained and that the thinker was free to voice his conclusions only within certain limits approved by government.

EYE ROOSEVELT BUDGET PLAN AS GAUGE TO POLICY

Says New York Finances Will Be Balanced.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Before he dons the mantle of the governorship of New York state soon to assume the presidency of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt says he will put the financial affairs of the state in shipshape order.

This the governor promised today. He was still shaking off the last effects of a flu attack, sticking close to his room, although dressed and about. But the task of shaping the new state budget must get to a good start this week, and the governor planned to spend tomorrow and Friday hard at it.

The manner in which Gov. Roosevelt will meet the tax problem of the state of New York is expected by many observers to afford a fair barometer on the sort of treatment that President Roosevelt will give to the bureaucracies of Washington when he goes after the federal budget.

Promises Balanced Budget.

In such an understanding newspaper correspondents in their meeting with the President elect today, plied him freely with questions as to his plans for coping with a hundred million dollar deficit in the state.

"Do you plan to balance the New York state budget?" Gov. Roosevelt was asked.

"O, absolutely," he replied quickly.

"The deficit will be wholly absorbed?"

"Yes, certainly."

"Well, how do you expect to balance the budget, by levying new taxes or by economies in the state departments?"

We haven't quite got to the figures on that. I can't say."

"Will there be considerable economy reflected in the new budget?"

"O, yes. A very substantial saving will be effected."

Deficit Growing Less.

Gov. Roosevelt revealed that, while it was feared a couple of months ago that the state deficit by the end of the present fiscal year, July 1, 1933, would have accumulated to a hundred million dollars, due to greatly diminished revenues, it now appears that the deficit will be not more than eighty million dollars.

This new estimate is made possible, he said, first because tax collections have picked up lately, but more so because of savings effected by the state departments.

"We have saved at least ten million dollars by adopting a policy of buying no new supplies which were not needed imperatively, and by not filling vacancies in state positions," the governor explained.

Hopes for Beer Revenue.

Although Mr. Roosevelt has consistenly declined, since his election, to discuss what he will do when he becomes the President, it was learned that he expects the business of balancing the federal budget will be aided considerably by a federal tax on beer.

The governor has been advised by the vice president elect, John N. Garner, speaker of the house of representatives, that a federal tax of $5 a barrel on beer, which might be imposed after modification of the Volstead act made beer a legal commodity would produce immediate revenues approximating 350 million dollars a year.

The governor's understanding is that this sum would be realized from the manufacture and sale of beer in such states as have no state prohibition acts at present, such as New York and Maryland, and such states as might repeal their state enforcement acts before the passage of the Volstead modifier.

Expects Cut Under Hoover.

According to some of the governor's advisors, Mr. Roosevelt expects the Democratic leadership in congress to make drastic reductions in the federal budget at the short session opening next month.

The governor believes, it is said, that President Hoover may carry out a portion, at least, of his campaign pledges for reducing federal expenditures in his recommendations to congress, enlisting Republican support in economy moves.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had not yet decided when he would hold his conference with President Hoover on the problems raised by requests of England, France and Belgium for an extension of the war debt moratorium and a general revision of the whole debt structure.

In his message to Mr. Hoover, accepting the President's invitation to a conference, Mr. Roosevelt promised to telephone the President at the White House when he had made his plans for his projected trip to Warm Springs, Ga., on which the Washington visit will be a stopover.

"I will let you know when I telephone the President," Mr. Roosevelt told newspaper men today in response to inquiries.

RUTH ELDER GIVEN A DIVORCE PARTY; IT TURNS LIVELY

Reno, Nev., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Ruth Elder, aviatrix, who won a divorce from Walter Camp Jr. yesterday morning, regretted it in the afternoon. She spent hours weeping and declaring that her divorce was all a mistake and she had never wanted it and if she remarried it would be to Camp.

Miss Elder's local boy friend, Kendrick Johnson, was solicitous. Manly, he figured the way to cure the collywobbles was to go places and see things. Somewhere in the roundabout of cabarets and night clubs they met up with M. J. Holland. Mr. Holland appeared in court today, bearing a majestic shiner, black with blue and green trimmings. After swearing out a warrant for Johnson's arrest he made this statement:

"I met Johnson and Ruth Elder in a speakeasy last night. Then we went to Johnson's apartment and he started fighting with Miss Elder. I butted in and got smacked in the eye for trying to intervene."

He added he "believed" Johnson knocked Miss Elder down, but she denied that. Mr. Johnson said:

"This fellow Holland horned in on Miss Elder and myself last evening and even accompanied us to my apartment. I started to open the door to order him out when he socked me. Then we had one whale of a fight. I believe that while our fists were flying Miss Elder was struck. I talked with her this morning, though, and she said she wasn't hurt."

GOLDBERG PLEA FOR NEW DELAY TO BE OPPOSED

An attempt by Herman J. Goldberg, convicted tax fixer, to get a continuance in the Appellate court will be opposed by the state's attorney's office, it was announced yesterday. Notice was served on the prosecutor that Goldberg will ask additional time to prepare his appeal.

Goldberg's case was continued for nearly three years before he was convicted and sentenced to three months in the county jail and fined $1,000. He has never yet seen the inside of the jail.

Just before the election Goldberg made sensational graft charges against State's Attorney Swanson's brother, Albert Swanson, and Assistant State's Attorney James Clancy. A grand jury found the charges untrue and indicted Goldberg for perjury.

FIFTH HUNTER HURT IN CROSSING ACCIDENT IS DEAD

Judge Sabath and Wife Shaken in Ohio Crash.

Clarence Norten, 22 years old, 3429 Erie street, River Grove, died yesterday in the Des Plaines emergency hospital, the fifth victim of the accident Tuesday afternoon at the River road crossing of the Chicago and North Western railroad, Des Plaines.

The automobile in which Norten was riding with six other hunters was demolished by a passenger train.

Four of those in the car were killed instantly. They were John Korner, 2609 Oak Park avenue; James Zemann, 8551 Grand avenue, River Grove; Andrew Thomas, 35 years old, 5009 Armitage avenue, and Michael Maurer of River Grove. William Warnecke, 19 years old, step-son of Thomas, was in a serious condition yesterday in the Northwestern hospital in Des Plaines. Howard Norten, 21 years old, and brother of the latest victim, escaped injury by leaping from the automobile just before the crash.

Mayor Charles Hammerl of Des Plaines revealed yesterday that a move to install light signals at the crossing is now before the Illinois commerce commission. Twenty persons have been killed at the crossing in ten years, Mayor Hammerl said, and eight have been killed there since Aug. 13.

City Engineer Carter Jenkins revealed yesterday that he had inspected the crossing with a representative of the railroad one hour before the accident Tuesday.

Woman Killed in Crash.

Mrs. Mary Carlino, 38 years old, of 1201 North 22d avenue, Melrose Park, was fatally injured last night in a collision between her car and one driven by J. E. Wood, a druggist of Glen Ellyn, at 1st avenue and Roosevelt road, Maywood. Her son, Joseph, 18, who was driving, and Wood, his wife, and Miss Fay Yappe of Glen Ellyn, a friend, who were in the other car, escaped without serious injuries.

These deaths and one other yesterday increased the Cook county automobile toll for the year to 991. The other victim:

Anna Johnson, 26 years old, colored. Died in her home at 21 West 18th street. She was struck by a taxicab on Aug. 31 and was discharged from the county hrospital as recovered last month.

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath, his wife, Regina, and a party of friends were shaken up early yesterday near Norwalk, O., when their automobile collided with a truck in a snow storm. Judge Sabath and his wife were returning to Chicago from Detroit when the accident occurred.

Three persons were injured, one seriously, last night when a city bureau of streets truck, in backing out of a garage at 2300 South Ashland avenue, collided with a street car. Joseph Kaminskas, 48 years old, 724 West 31st street, who was on the front platform of the street car, suffered a skull fracture and other injuries. Othner Batzio, 18, of 1339 West 31st street, a street car passenger, and John Hederman, 42, of 6917 Laflin street, the motorman, received minor injuries.

CAPONE HEARS LAWYERS ARGUE HIS APPEAL CASE

Looks Thinner than When He Entered Prison.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Alphonse Capone, gangster, who was once Chicago's public enemy No. 1, sat in the federal court here for three and a half hours today while lawyers gave technical arguments for and against his plea that he had been convicted illegally on charges of evading income tax.

JUDGE E. M. UNDERWOOD. [(C) Harris & Ewing]

At the end of the hearing Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood took under advisement the government's motion to dismiss the habeas corpus petition brought by Capone's attorneys. These attorneys had claimed that Capone was convicted of offenses which had occurred more than three years before his indictment and that he should have been freed under the statute of limitations.

Capone was taken from his cell in the federal penitentiary and transported under heavy guard to the courtroom. He arrived there an hour before his case was called. With his hands manacled he was led through the corridors of the federal building, which had been cleared of the curious who came to view him.

"Looks Thin, but Fit."

During the arguments he appeared intensely interested, but did not speak, even to confer with his counsel. He appeared much thinner, bronzed, and in better physical trim than he was in May when he arrived here to begin serving the ten year term meted out to him in the federal court in Chicago.

The blue suit Capone wore, with much of his fat gone, clung in loose folds to his frame. It was not as well pressed, either, as his raiment was wont to be of yore. His tie was a subdued gray and white check. His soft gray hat, the same one that he brought with him, was kept close at his side, and when the hearing was concluded and he was led out to the street to start back to his gray stone home he kept the hat over his hands to conceal the handcuffs.

Second Time in Court.

It was the second time the gangster had left the penitentiary since his arrival. He was taken to court for a few minutes on Sept. 21, when the attorneys filed his application for the writ of habeas corpus. On each occasion a large number of deputy marshals were assigned to guard him and to keep order around the court.

William E. Leahy of Washington, one of the Capone attorneys, told the court that his client's case was similar to that of William R. Scharton, Boston attorney, whom the Supreme court freed of income tax charges under the statute of limitations.

C. A. Youngquist, assistant attorney general of the United States, and Assistant District Attorney Hal Lindsay argued that there was no similarity between the cases and that the Capone petition "read itself out of court."

It was pointed out that in the Scharton trial a plea at bar was made at the conclusion of the case. That, said Mr. Youngquist, was the proper procedure, and it had not been followed by the Capone attorneys.

Not Habeas Corpus Case.

"The law of habeas corpus," he continued, "cannot be used as a substitute for appeal. Yet Capone is trying to use it for that purpose. The sufficiency of the evidence is not a proper subject matter to sustain a writ of habeas corpus. The proper place to introduce additional evidence, if he had it, was in the trial. The statute of limitations does not begin until a default in taxes becomes willful. It does not begin running when the taxes become past due."

Leahy contended that this argument was not correct and quoted cases running back as far as 1870. He asserted, also, that the time Capone spent in jail in Philadelphia and his residence in Florida should be considered part of the time applicable to the statute of limitations.

This was another point of divergence among the attorneys, the government asserting that only the time he spent in the Chicago federal district should count.

Gives Week For Briefs.

Judge Underwood gave the attorneys a week in which to file briefs containing their arguments.

It was learned today that Capone has never officially been asked to pay the income taxes he owed and evaded. The internal revenue office in Atlanta is awaiting the arrival of distraint warrants demanding payment. These will be served on the gangster. After they have been delivered the government will be empowered to levy on Capone's property for the debt.

SPANS SAHARA

Map indicates route being followed by Amy Johnson, famous British aviatrix, who is seeking to set a new speed record from England to Cape Town, South Africa. Miss Johnson crossed the Sahara desert from Oran to Gao Tuesday and took off again today for Douala. She was last sighted at Niamey.

AMY JOHNSON SPANS SAHARA; NEARS RECORD

24 Hrs. Ahead of Husband on Race to Cape Town.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The slow communications of Central Africa could not keep up with Amy Johnson, Britain's premier aviatrix, but today she was at least 24 hours ahead of the record of her husband, Capt. J. A. Mollison, for the London-Cape Town flight.

AMY JOHNSON. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

Reports that she had landed at Gao, in the French Sudan, at 12:30 p. m. yesterday dispelled fears that she had met with mishap on the crossing of the Sahara desert. Today she hopped for Douala, in the Cameroons, where the angle of the West African coast turns south to Cape Town. Later her plane was sighted over Niamey, 200 miles south of Gao.

Flying Tiny Plane.

Miss Johnson, in a tiny silver monoplane, The Desert Cloud, took off from Lympne, England, on Monday and flew 1,100 miles to Oran, Algeria. Omitting the desert edge stop at Colomb Bechar, she flew the 1,400 miles from Oran to Gao in a little more than 13 hours, thus picking up 24 hours in the record of 4 days 17 hours and 19 minutes which her husband holds from London to Cape Town.

The hop today from Gao to Douala is about 1,200 miles. This would leave her about 2,500 miles from her goal [6,200 miles].

Husband Not Worried.

Capt. Mollison here today expressed pleasure on learning of his wife's progress, but professed that he had not been greatly worried, knowing the slowness of communications in Africa and her resourcefulness. He said she had now completed the worst part of the flight. Previously she had flown to Australia and made a round trip flight to Tokio.

28 JOBLESS MEN REPAIR CHURCH FOR TURKEY EACH

For one week twenty-eight jobless members of the Fernwood Methodist Episcopal church at 101st and Wallace streets have been working on the church under an unusual system of remuneration. They have repaired windows, repainted and generally redecorated the structure.

During their employment they have been fed by the Ladies' Aid society. This, and the pledge of a turkey basket for Thanksgiving, is part of their pay. As additional pay, each of the twenty-eight men is given credit of 75 cents an hour for their work; the total sum to be applied as credits to their original pledges of financial support to the church for the year. Funds for the purchase of the food is being donated by working members of the church.

The church, its redecorations and repairs completed, will be reopened Sunday. There will be special music by the choir under Director George de Jeffrey and Assistant Director Beverly Burton. The Rev. Charles Albert Parkin is pastor of the church.

Police were told that Jordan served as a Municipal court bailiff between 1924 and 1930. He served as master of Square lodge, No. 913, last year.

The McElligott shooting, which police believe was the work of Jordan's slayer occurred at 64th street and Francisco avenue. The robber had stopped McElligott and Miss Sophia Dobson, 6440 South Francisco avenue, in their car at Mozart and 65th streets, and had forced them to drive to the other intersection. McElligott, who lives at 642 East End avenue, Oak Park, resisted, and the gunman shot him in the shoulder.

DR. BUTLER WARNS NATIONAL BUDGET MUST BE CUT

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The budget must be balanced and the return of prosperity hastened by taking the hand of government off the taxpayer's throat and by greatly reducing expenditures for purposes that have been forced into the budget by the self-seeking efforts of organized groups, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, said tonight in an address before the National Economy league.

Speaking on "Colossal Debts and Heavy Taxes," Dr. Butler was emphatic in his assertion that governmental expenditures must be reduced, or "there must certainly follow a complete revolution in our economic, social, and political system."

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

AMERICA AND THE DEBTS.

When private contractors of a debt discuss their affairs the honest debtor has it on his conscience and honor to propose the best settlement he can make. If unexpected circumstances prevent him from abiding by the letter of his bond he tries to find equivalents or compensations. Nations, however, although very proud, are not always meticulously honest.

The debtors of the United States have ganged their creditor at this time. As to the time there is an excuse. They knew it wouldn't do to bring up the matter before the elections and they want to get action before their next annual payment, which is within a month. Thus, having to wait for one thing to get out of the way and to act before a due date arrives, they have been put in the position of springing a trap. Now, considered separately, their claims are weaker than they are if considered together. Therefore they come together. They hinge their proposals on certain concerted action they have taken as regards Germany, to which the United States is not a party. Each debtor considered for his own debt as it matures in December is a much weaker applicant for favors than all of them are presenting the whole question of their obligations now due and hereafter due.

France, for instance, owes, say, 19 million dollars, due Dec. 15. There is no question of the ability of France to pay that sum. It has the gold and can pay in that medium. France would be a very odd looking debtor if it appeared alone saying that its 1932 payment would disturb its internal economy and international relations.

Great Britain owes, roughly, 100 million dollars Dec. 15, a much larger sum. In our internal affairs it's about the amount of the Chicago school budget. It's the price of two battleships. It's about what the department of agriculture has given annually to subsidize roads in the various states. It is a small part of the mendicancy fund of the American government. And so with the other debtors. Their immediate problem of payment, considered in their own currencies and their own budgets, is a trivial amount, or, if not trivial, if that's an exaggeration, it is at least matched by a score of other items which are included in government expenses without a thought that they are crushing or must be avoided.

The honest, honorable, and conscientious private debtor consulting his creditor when he found himself hard up would lay before his creditor a full statement of what he thought he could do and what he feared he could not. In the international debt discussion for the last two years or more there has not been much of this attitude. The debtor has simply said he couldn't pay. He has not searched himself for any equivalents. He has had no alternative proposals. He has confronted his creditor with the flat statement that he couldn't and with the intimation that he wouldn't. He has left all the burden of alternative arrangements upon his creditor, and the United States has not pressed its own case at any time. The debtor has adopted another course which is even less creditable to his honor, although it has not been incompatible with his pride. In this he has not committed himself to official utterances, but he has gone into byways of publicity and promotion to create the general understanding that his creditor is dishonorable. The essence of this is found in the term Shylock. The thought is that the United States was a renegade in its own war, or, if not quite so vile a thing, at least so slow in meeting its full obligations that the sums of money now represented by the debts were in reality sums spent in protecting the United States until it at last produced its own tardy armies in the field.

In this procedure the debtors have been quite contemptible. To the financial injury of trying to unload their obligations on the nation which supported them with both money and men in their extremity they have added the moral injury of picturing their rescuer in the role of a coward and a usurer.

This reproachable thing has been done and the present negotiations and the future must take the consequences of it. As the case now stands, the debtors, having created the moral atmosphere they desire, present their inability to pay without a word as to equivalents or other compensations, and the United States has yet to show that it will press them as vigorously as its situation warrants.

Debts, we are told, must be paid in gold, goods, or services. The United States may face that truth without admitting to its debtors that in consequence the debts cannot be paid at all. It may be conceded that the United States does not expect to get payment in gold, although for the present France can make such payments. It does not follow that neither goods nor services are available. It is merely required that discovery be made of goods and services which, being applied on the debt, will not do more damage to American internal economy than they will do good in relief of the American taxpayer. The inexpert observer of this financial scene need not be required to discover these goods and services. They are discoverable. Some useful and practical suggestions would come from debtors themselves if they were conscientious. It is to be feared that they are not and that they will not be.

Territorial possessions are highly thought of by all the debtor nations. They constantly acquire where they can, although they frequently lament the expensiveness of their acquisitions. Within a week France has obtained title to a small Pacific island off the coast of South America. We can throw the territorial question into the proposed debt parleys, with one eye naturally on the Bermudas and the Bahamas. It may also be considered what progress might be made in accepting payment in the currencies of the debtor countries. That would throw the settlement out of the perplexities of exchange and put it in terms of their own national expenses. The United States is trying a number of socialistic experiments for the purpose of getting rid of money. It might try one for the purpose of getting some. Such a socialistic experiment might take the form of another Reconstruction Finance corporation, the business of which was to convert foreign currencies available on the debt into such services and goods as could be received by the United States with the least disturbance to its own industries and the least burden to its debtors. For instance, a few British built battleships that our own taxpayers are unable to pay for just now; some German built submarines, which have an excellent name for seaworthiness; French cruisers, or, in a happier day, French champagne and German beer, or tourist credits. The list is not for the inexpert to compile. The position of the United States should be that of a creditor long imposed upon. The essential issue presented to the debtor should be: Are you willing to help find methods of satisfying the just debts or do you intend to take the consequences of repudiating them? You will not get cancellation.

THE WATERWAY IN WINTER.

The progress of bridge construction at Joliet justifies the latest estimate that the Illinois waterway may be functioning by the first of the year. It is to be hoped that the pressure for an early completion of the work will be redoubled rather than relaxed. As soon as the channel is navigable for barges the waterway should be thrown open to commerce.

No doubt there will be some disposition to delay, based on the false assumption that the winter is no time for navigating a river in our climate. The truth of the matter is that ice will be an obstacle of little consequence to navigation in the Illinois waterway. Skaters in Chicago can testify to that. They regard themselves as fortunate if ice heavy enough for skating forms in the park lagoons as early as the middle of January and lasts into the middle of February. There have been whole seasons with only a few days for skating, and thaws are always expected after a week of hard freezing weather.

If that is the situation in the lagoons, where there is no current and where every effort is made not to disturb the surface of the pond, there is little reason to fear that ice will seriously interfere with winter navigation in a flowing stream frequently churned by passing tows.

THE GOOD HEART IN PUBLIC AFFAIRS.

Owen D. Young in his campaign speech put a sentimental thought in one sentence and that seems to be the sentence generally remembered now. Mr. Young said that policies could change and the mind could be of one opinion in one set of circumstances and of another in another set, but the steadfast thing was the heart. This seems to hit the bullseye with many people who apparently believe that the heart should be superior to the mind in the handling of public affairs in extremity or at all times.

This plausible bit of sentimental philosophy may do considerably more injury than good. It is another way of saying that a man's good intentions are to be accepted as reasons for his acts. The people who applaud such a sentiment will probably find that good reasoning is quite as important as good intentions. When a nation is in trouble a cool head is the most essential requisite of a warm heart. Neither this country nor any other will get out of its difficulties by unmodified use of sentimental sympathies. They are admirable human qualities, but the thoughtful and discriminate mind will not be sent to isolation in a surge of humanitarian impulses if any permanent good is to come to the country.

An unpleasant conclusion cannot be avoided by a pretty sentiment.

BITTER FIGHT ON SEAWAY.

[Sioux City Journal.]

Senator Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, has announced that, beginning next Thursday, a subcommittee of that body will begin hearings on the question of ratification of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway treaty between the United States and the Dominion of Canada. The pact with Canada was concluded shortly before the last session of congress adjourned, having been put through at the insistence of President Hoover, who strongly favors the building of the waterway, which would bring ocean shipping to all lake ports.

A bitter fight against ratification of this treaty by the United States senate is in prospect. The state of New York vigorously will oppose ratification of the treaty and will fight the northwestern and upper Mississippi valley and lake states in the hope of preventing conclusion of the pact. If the pact is ratified by the senate and by the Canadian parliament nothing more than appropriations for the work would be required to bring the seaway into existence in the course of time.

All summer and fall the New York port authority, with Frank Walsh as chairman, has been preparing its attack upon the seaway and the treaty that would make its completion possible. Mr. Walsh has served notice that he was preparing a comprehensive case against the senate's ratification of the pact. He will consistently work to that end, according to reports from Washington.

The New York port authority, which will fight ratification of the treaty, was created in the last session of the legislature of that state on the urgent recommendation of Gov. Roosevelt. This seems to explain the Democratic presidential candidate's silence throughout the campaign when pressed for a definite statement as to how he stood on the seaway project. He has been asked repeatedly whether he is for it or against it. He has refused thus far to commit himself, and it is assumed in the lake states and in the northwestern sections that the opposition of New York has his indorsement and approval.

HEALTHY OLD AGE.

THE following are extracts from the comment of the Illinois Health Messenger on the G. A. R. encampment recently held in Springfield, Ill.:

"Over 1,000 members registered at headquarters, 732 of whom marched in the great parade. Some walked and others rode in automobiles. They varied in age from 80 to 100 years.

"Heavily tanned skin that smacked of outdoor life, not an ounce of superfluous flesh, medium height, and little evidence of wealth were characteristics that marked the features of the marchers. About a dozen carried a noticeable amount of overweight, but not one could be classed as fat. None showed evidence of a life of ease. Probably a dozen smoked cigars. Many were extremely thin. A few appeared to be just drying up.

"Weather-beaten cheeks, deeply tanned by the sun and wind, were the rule. One might surmise that many of them came from farms. A spirit of tranquillity pervaded the men.

"A company of veterans of the world war provided a striking contrast. In this group of sixty odd there were half a dozen fat men. Only a few carried signs of a regular outdoor life."

The average age of the living men who actually fought in the civil war must be about ninety years. The editor of the Health Messenger is of the opinion that a man who wishes to attain that age and retain a reasonable amount of physical vigor must not allow himself to become fat. Rather he should be underweight and should tend to shrivel and dry up as he travels through the period of senility. Further, he should lead an active outdoor life, his skin becoming tanned and weather-beaten. Moreover, he should cultivate tranquillity.

There are few who will disagree with these conclusions. The commonly used tables give average weights. The best weights are about ten per cent below the figures given. The best weights for a journey that is to last to the ninetieth mile post and beyond are lower still. It is the "lean and hungry" kind who, having escaped the hazards of youth, have the best chance to reach five score. And the advantage to an old person of shriveling and drying up cannot be gainsaid. The point about tranquillity is well made. A potent source of danger is high blood pressure. Worry is an important cause of high blood pressure and it follows that tranquillity makes for longevity.

My chest and neck will also break out in an angry red rash and this occurs when I am under a tension of some sort. Can this be due to poor circulation and why should only those areas be affected?

REPLY.

You have a vasomotor disturbance. It is probably a poor relation of Raynaud's disease.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 17, 1916.

NEW LONDON, Conn.—The Deutschland, the German submarine which arrived here on Nov. 1, slipped out of the harbor at an early hour today, bound for Bremen. It left its pocket at the state pier at 1:30 o'clock and was towed down the harbor by two tugs. The Deutschland passed the United States cruiser Columbia in the lower harbor at 1:45 o'clock. There have been rumors from time to time of the presence of British warships outside the three mile limit, but these have not been verified. Capt. Koenig also said soon after his arrival that the German submarine U-57 would convoy the underwater boat back to German waters.

CHICAGO.—Chicago yesterday set a new precedent in the negotiation of a large loan to the republic of China. The loan is for five million dollars, made by the Continental and Commercial National bank. It is the first time in American finance that an international credit of magnitude was consummated without the participation of New York and the east. The loan is for three years at a 6 per cent rate. Papers concluding the negotiations were signed in Washington by Arthur Reynolds and John Jay Abbott, representing the bank, and Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, the Chinese minister.

LONDON.—In the Macedonia theater the entente troops today continued to press the Teutonic allies in the Cerna river region, and, according to the Serbian war office, have seriously broken their line both east and west of the Cerna southeast of Monastir, capturing four additional villages east of the river, and on the west side driving them back from several additional points toward Monastir. Paris reports that the advance has reached a point within four miles of Monastir. Berlin admits that in the Cerna region the Bulgarian-German forces have left the old and occupied newly prepared positions. To the east the British have taken the town of Karakaska, on the east side of Lake Tahinos.

PARIS.—The two days' battle along the French front north and south of the Somme has ended in a decisive defeat for the Germans, who were driven back after the biggest fight put up by them since the offensive started. North of the Somme the enemy attacked from Les Boeufs to Bouchavesnes, his objective being to forestall the French advances beyond Sailliesl, which imperil the last German line opposed to the British. Along the entire six mile front the French stood firm. On neither wing were the Germans able to make headway against the French curtain of machine gun fire. In the center of the line around the St. Pierre Vaast wood the action reached its greatest intensity. Here the enemy, by dint of sheer obstinacy, in spite of heavy losses, finally succeeded in capturing outlying trenches along the western fringe of the wood, but this gain proved of little value, as Sailliesl at the southwest fringe of the wood was firmly held by the French. South of the Somme the fighting raged from Albaincourt to Chaulnes wood, a stretch of two and a half miles. In this sector the French pounded the enemy uninterruptedly for forty-eight hours.

BERLIN.—An attack by Russian troops on the German lines southeast of Riga on the Russian front was repulsed, the war office announced. Near the bridgehead of Duenhof, southeast of Riga, an attacking Russian infantry detachment was driven back. In the southern part of the wooded Carpathians mutual artillery activity was revived.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Five regiments of infantry, including the Third Indiana, Third Minnesota, and Third Wisconsin, have been ordered to return to their home states to muster out.

CHICAGO.—It is announced that the Mary Dawes hotel for women, built by Charles G. Dawes as a memorial to his mother, will be opened on Jan. 1. The hotel, which is situated on Throop street near Jackson boulevard, was constructed at a cost of $125,000, will receive women only and at a cost of 10 cents for lodging. Mrs. Dawes, mother of the builder, will be present at the opening.

HERE'S THE EDITORIAL.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—I made a trip unwillingly a few days ago to the Century of Progress and spent about two hours gaining an understanding of what this exposition will be. It is needless to say that I was tremendously surprised and extremely grateful to the friends who insisted on my going.

There is no doubt that this will be the greatest and most instructive exposition ever held in the history of the world, and I came away with a feeling that all that is necessary to insure splendid success is that the people of Chicago take a trip through with guides to make a short explanation of what it is to be, and those who make the trip will do the advertising. Every schoolchild in the world and every business man in the world will be greatly benefited if they attend this exposition.

The object of this letter is to suggest an editorial by your paper urging business men of Chicago to take two hours from their business and see what Chicago is going to give, the world next summer; and these business men, if influenced by this editorial, will be extremely grateful to your paper.

REPLYING TO V. J. PATEL.

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 14.—If V. J. Patel is correctly reported in your issue of Nov. 10, what does he mean by saying India exports no industrial products, but can increase its trade with the United States ten times?

Is the statement that there are "no exports" merely rhetorical, or is it V. J. Patel's idea that ten times nothing makes something?

Will V. J. Patel explain why he complains that the great majority of the natives of India must live by farming? How else are farmers to live?

If the British do not permit manufacturing in India, will V. J. Patel explain why the country is dotted with cotton, woolen, jute, and paper mills, carpet factories, sugar refineries, distilleries, steel mills, collieries, tanneries, etc., and why choice Indian woods and Indian art products of gold, silver, brass, and embroidered textiles reach world markets?

V. J. Patel says 92 per cent of the natives of India are illiterate. If he halves his estimate of illiteracy he will not be wildly wrong.

In India every local body must spend 25 per cent of its gross revenue on education, and as a result there are primary schools less than two miles apart and high schools about twenty miles apart throughout the country. There are also many fine colleges for Indian students, and in the columns of their alumni are to be found many names of international prominence. E. G. MONTGOMERY.

A THRILL OF PLEASURE.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Yesterday's TRIBUNE gave me a thrill of pleasure. The cartoon, "The Hunter's Moon," "Cahn on U. S. Finances," Bennett on "Sargent and Turner," Herrick on "Hoover at Boulder Dam," the editorials, photogravure, and fiction, all examples of the best in daily newspaper publication. All reflect credit upon the city that you and I are working and laboring for. J.

LETTERS TO THE PRESIDENT.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—As one of the thousands who feel President Hoover is truly a great man and did more than any other man could have done, I would like all those who are big enough to give this humanitarian the place of honor he deserves to write him a letter of appreciation. J. A. M.

A MONSTROUS WASTE.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—I wonder if readers of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of Nov. 13 were caused as much disturbance over another manifestation of our government's ridiculous inefficiency as presented in two articles as was I? These columns, almost side by side, were on page No. 1, the first entitled "Figures Reveal Seriousness of U. S. Finances," the other "President Sees 205 Million Dollar Boulder Dam." To those of us reconciled to face what the most pessimistic say will be one worst Christmas the United States has ever known, determined, however, to sit tight and try to hang on until our new administration comes in next spring, it must have been like waving the proverbial red flag in front of the proverbial bull. That was my husband's and my reaction! It seems a disgraceful and utter throwing away of money in these times to launch a project seemingly so unnecessary at the expense of some 240 millions of dollars. Mr. Hoover's childlike statement of its widespread benefits to mankind [so ridiculously visionary now when millions dream only of being able to exist] might lead one to believe that the building of this dam had a direct relation to the solution of our only problem of interest—the depression! Yes, it is his "great dream" come true. Mr. Hoover is an engineer, so why shouldn't it be? Let us only hope [now that things are at the stage where blind prayers are as efficacious as anything the individual can do] that, at least, our new President is not so inopportunely idealistic as to find any of his fond ambitions gratified in so flagrant a waste of money.

THE RACE QUESTION IN POLITICS.

Cicero, Ill., Nov. 9.—I am constant and enthusiastic reader of your daily newspaper. Although I am somewhat late in expressing my views in regard to the recommendations made by your newspaper for the recent election, I feel it is my duty as an American of Polish descent to call your attention to the fact that there were approximately fifteen American candidates of Polish descent on the Democratic and Republican ballots, yet for some unknown reason THE TRIBUNE did not recommend any of them.

The ability of American Poles holding offices has been demonstrated by such outstanding political figures as County Judge Jarecki, City Controller M. Szymczak, Judge Prystalski, Collector of Revenue A. Czarnecki, and a score of others whose accomplishments in public office are remarkable.

Fortunately, the people of this state and city, apparently not in accord with your opinions, have elected to the respective offices almost all of the men to whom the writer has reference. In submitting this article I know I am expressing the sentiment of thousands of other American Poles in this state who sincerely hope that in future elections some consideration be accorded our candidates by your newspaper.

(MISS) MARY TOMASZKIEWICZ.

WE GOT YOU THE FIRST TIME.

Winnetka, Ill., Nov. 14.—May I suggest that when you encase to print only a short excerpt of a letter, and in so doing obscure the point, it might be a courteous policy to switch to initials only or in other manner afford one the benefit of anonymity? Perhaps you will agree—to that and to this:

The vital reason for guarding Mr. Roosevelt's health is not that it is particularly delicate but that being careless about it might give us the intolerable spectacle of John N. Garner as President of the United States.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

HOUSE DELAYS ACTION ON COOK AID BOND ISSUE

Vote on Measure May Be Taken Monday.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Faced with the probability that not enough members would be present tomorrow to pass the seventeen million dollar Cook county charity bond issue, the house of representatives adjourned late today until next week, when the prospects are the measure probably will be approved—at least in the house.

E. L. RYERSON JR.

Despite this potential favorable action and the likelihood that the measure will also go through the senate eventually, thus assuring aid to the poor until the end of January, leaders of the Illinois emergency relief commission were gloomy at adjournment tonight.

"I am afraid," said Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the commission, "that December first will arrive before this legislation will be approved and our funds will have been exhausted by that time.

Fears Closing of Stations.

"In that event we would be forced to close our relief stations in Cook county, for we cannot get further aid from the Reconstruction Finance corporation until we have shown that Illinois has done its best to provide its own relief."

This lugubrious prediction was based upon the belief that even should this measure, which has the commendation of Governor Elect Henry Horner and Mayor Cermak of Chicago, be passed Monday in the house it probably could not be put through the senate before the Thanksgiving adjournment, even by the swiftest series of legislative moves.

The bill would permit the Cook county board to issue nonreferendum bonds to further relief work and retire them by a 4 cent increase in the tax rate. It was put to third reading this morning with a minimum of opposition, but is actively opposed for passage, however, by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], who opposes any raising of taxes and is highly doubtful of the county's ability to dispose of the bonds should they be authorized.

Believes Sale Possible.

An answer to this doubting was made during the morning session by Michael J. O'Connor, deputy controller of Cook county, who appeared in behalf of the bills.

"I think we can dispose of them," he told the house in response to a question from Schnackenberg, "but even if we are not able to do so we can use them to keep people from starving." The county has been able before to pay creditors who provide supplies with similar bonds. This would probably be resorted to in case the R. F. C. would not take the bonds as collateral for another loan or if they could not be sold to banks or investment houses."

Vote Is Expected Monday.

Minority Leader Michael L. Igoe, the sponsor of the measure, decided in the late afternoon that it would be dangerous to call the bill on third reading tomorrow morning because it must have 102 votes as an emergency measure and only about 110 members were left in the house. With the Schnackenberg opposition, it seemed impractical to take the chance of possible defeat, so adjournment was taken and a special effort will be made to have all the members here at 4 p. m. Monday, when the bill will be called. The senate also will convene at that hour.

Before it adjourned the house took a vote on the two other measures but postponed final action on them until next week. These were the optional county sales tax and the Meents senate bill to allow counties to issue bonds in anticipation of gas tax revenue. Both were shown to have been defeated substantially, but their sponsors wish to try them again with a larger membership present and that effort probably will be made Tuesday.

Education Bill Passed.

A measure passed just before adjournment was sponsored by the Chicago board of education and would permit it to issue tax warrants to redeem a $4,000,000 bond issue, an obligation of long standing, but which has no effect upon teachers' salaries.

The house received and turned over to the relief commission a telegram from Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the Peabody Coal company, asking that the legislature investigate the Progressive Miners of America, the miners' faction fighting the United Mine Workers and which Peabody charged picketed one of his mines near Springfield today. One of the mine bosses was shot. The relief commission was asked by the house to investigate the situation.

Canada Estimates 800,000 on the Government Dole

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 16.—Eight hundred thousand men, women, and children in Canada are receiving relief from the government, Wesley Gordon, minister of labor, told parliament today. It is estimated that nearly 500,000 persons are out of jobs. Gordon said 140,000 of the idle are transients and about 50 per cent of them recent arrivals in Canada. Several hundred thousand Canadians have returned from the United States, where they went during the boom period.

Appear in Court After Auto Crashes Into Safety Island

Orders Autoist to Jail

Clark L. Rorick, 34 years old, 1044 Winona avenue, was sentenced to 90 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Joseph Graber on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was allowed ten days to appeal, and was released on cash bail. He was arrested when his automobile crashed into a traffic signal post at Diversey parkway and Halsted street early yesterday.

His woman companion, who gave her name as Mary Cruise, 29 years old, 3431 Elaine place, was fined $25. When arrested the woman told the police that she was private secretary to Secretary of State William J. Stratton and threatened to "get their jobs."

Rorick admitted to reporters that his companion had never worked for the secretary of state. Miss Rose M. Cruise, of 3423 Elaine place, who was employed in the office of the secretary of state while Louis L. Emmerson held the position, said she did not know the woman. Miss Rose Cruise said she would ask Lincoln park police to make an investigation to clear her name.

GOLF TEES SHOWN IN 750 STYLES AT HOBBY EXHIBIT

Golf as a hobby is branching out. The golf enthusiast now makes a hobby of collecting tees—and not for use on the golf course. One of the 70 booths at the Hobby, Antiques, and Collectors' exposition, which opened yesterday at the Hotel Sherman displays a collection of 750 different types of golf tees, gathered by George W. Klewer, 1710 Greenleaf avenue.

Other favorite hobbies of a modern nature are airplane models and cactus species. Stamp collecting is holding its own, as evidenced by the number of exhibits. An old time bar exhibit, complete with steins and bottles (empty) attracted much attention.

One booth shows a collection of autographs of the Presidents of the United States, each mounted beneath his picture, and humorous advertisements and posters dating from the civil war.

FIGHT BILL TO TAX PROPERTY FOR AID BONDS

J. Soule Warterfield, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, yesterday sent telegrams to Judge Henry Horner, governor elect, and to members of the legislature, protesting against the pending bill which authorizes Cook county to issue 17 million dollars in bonds for unemployment relief, to be retired by general taxation.

"We were astonished to read press reports in today's Chicago newspapers of your support and leadership for legislation designed to furnish unemployment relief at the expense of the already overburdened general property taxpayer," stated the wire to Judge Horner at French Lick, Ind.

"We hope the reports are untrue and that you will issue denial because this legislation is absolutely contrary to your many splendid preelection promises with regard to relieving the tax burden on the distressed property owner. Won't you please make public a statement?"

The messages to the legislators were similar in tenor. Approval of the bonds would increase tax rates in Cook county about 4 cents on each $100 valuation, it has been estimated.

DRIVE ON AUTO THIEVES WANING, LOESCH IS TOLD

Crime Commission Report Assails Judge Haas.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Earl McKenna, Richard Albeser and John Shafter, larceny, sentenced to two years each in the Bridewell; William Giannini, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Thomas Rowan, larceny, sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary; Joseph Valentino, murder by abortion, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Raymond Metis, larceny, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

The campaign for the prosecution of automobile thieves, started two months ago by the Chicago crime commission at the suggestion of several grand juries, was of short duration, according to a report made yesterday by Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the commission, to Frank J. Loesch, president. The campaign was only effective so long as particular attention was paid to this type of case by the commission observers and the press, the report said.

"At the time (when the campaign started in September) there appeared to be a trend indicating improvement, but the results during October are disappointing and show a failure to hold the ground gained," said the report.

Contrasts Two Judges.

Justice for automobile thieves as dispensed in the court presided over by Municipal Judge John F. Haas is contrasted in the report with the conduct of the same court previously presided over by Judge J. William Brooks. Probation was granted in many cases by Judge Haas.

On the other hand, the report commends Judge Michael Feinberg, who imposed the maximum sentence of 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary on several auto thieves.

"One of the encouraging signs is the expression of Judge Feinberg in the case of Edward Virothy, who was sentenced for the maximum," said the report, which quoted the judge as saying that "there must be a check somewhere on the activities of young men stealing automobiles."

Attacks Haas' Record.

In discussing the conduct of Judge Haas the report cited a case in which five defendants were caught in the act of tampering with an automobile. They admitted that they intended to steal the car. Despite the fact that one defendant had a police record, all five were placed on probation. In another case an 18 year old defendant with a record as an automobile thief was let off with a 45 day sentence in the Bridewell so that he could be out for Christmas. The youth stole three cars.

The commission cites sixteen similar cases from Judge Haas' court. In several cases the judge sentenced the culprit to go to church on Sunday.

The commission commended Judge Brooks' handling of automobile theft cases. The report remarked that the extreme leniency shown by the courts in automobile theft cases seemed to indicate that the judges assumed that every one was "entitled to steal at least one automobile before suffering punishment."

The report shows that this class of crime is most prevalent among youths of 17 and 18 years of age.

CITY BRIEF HITS BOOKKEEPING OF PHONE COMPANY

Litigation Over Rates Is Nearing End.

The many ways in which revenues of the Illinois Bell Telephone company are paid to the American Telephone and Telegraph company are listed in a brief filed yesterday in the federal court by Attorneys Benjamin F. Goldstein and George I. Haight, special counsel for the city. The case involves the attempted enforcement of a reduction in telephone coin box rates ordered by the Illinois Commerce commission in 1923 and a fight for the return of $25,000,000 to telephone users.

The city contends that through improper and irregular bookkeeping methods the local company is paying too large a share of its earnings to the holding company. In this manner Attorneys Goldstein and Haight argued the company is able to keep its net earnings low and thus forestall a reduction in rates such as was ordered by the commerce commission.

The telephone company has based its fight against the rate order on the grounds that the proposed scale of charges would so reduce its earnings that it would, in effect, amount to confiscation of property. On that plea the federal court enjoined the establishment of the lower rates. The case has been in litigation for nine years, with the company seeking to have the injunction made permanent.

Ruling Favors City.

The last ruling of the United States Supreme court, considered a victory for the city, held that the earnings of the A. T. & T., which owns 98 per cent of the stock of the Illinois Bell company, must be taken into consideration when fixing rates for a subsidiary. It was through this ruling that the city lawyers were enabled to show the transactions between the two companies, and with the Western Electric company, which is also owned by the A. T. & T.

A. T. & T. charged the local company $13,529,000 between 1923 and 1931 for services, according to the brief filed yesterday, which stated that $3,200,000 would have been a fair charge. The brief also states that depreciation charges are $16,821,898 too high.

Takes Up Toll Charges.

The brief also points out that $14,871,272 of the company's income was credited to long distance and toll business instead of to local business for nine years under an agreement where by long distance and toll users received free use of the local company's equipment. This, the city's attorneys declare, discriminates against the local user who must pay higher rates for local service.

The brief goes on to state that the Western Electric company's profits on Bell telephone business were 10 per cent in 1924, 17 per cent in 1925, 15.6 per cent in 1926, 19.6 per cent in 1927, 20.3 per cent in 1928, and 17.2 per cent in 1929, and that if it had not charged too much of its costs against the telephone branch of its business, those profits would have been far greater.

The brief also attacked the company's method of charging for depreciation by withdrawing the funds from current gross earnings. It cites an instance of a plant built in 1926 for $235,000, to which it was expected to make additions and alterations costing $1,000,000 between 1926 and 1974. The company began charging depreciation on the entire $1,235,000 in 1926, the brief declares. Attorneys Goldstein and Haight argue that the depreciation charge in 1926 was 52.9 per cent too high.

50 Year Accumulation.

The brief goes on to illustrate the company's method in providing for future expenditures by accumulating the money from current earnings. It stated that if $100,000 were needed fifty years hence the company would begin setting aside $2,000 a year from current gross earnings and would continue the practice for fifty years. Attorneys Goldstein and Haight calculate in their brief that at 5 per cent compound interest the sum collected would be $1,147,540 in fifty years.

The city's attorneys also contend that A. T. & T. charged the local company $30,395,000 between 1923 and 1927 as its share of a reserve fund to be set up for possible patent infringement suits, although the contract providing for such payment was not executed until 1930.

The telephone company is given until Dec. 5 to file a reply. Following oral arguments on Dec. 10 before Federal Judges Evans, Luse, and Wilkerson the case will be taken under consideration and a decision is expected early next year.

Oak Park Board Adopts Sunday Movies Ordinance

CUT RATE CABS FIGHT ORDER TO CURTAIL SERVICE

More Cars Needed to Fill Orders, Claim.

Officials of the Public Taxi Service company, which operates on a lower rate schedule than the Yellow and Checker Cab companies, appeared at the city hall yesterday to protest against an order of Police Lieutenant James Killackey, secretary of the public vehicle license commission, that they take ten cabs off the streets.

The company, which had been refused cab licenses by the commission, is operating under an agreement worked out by Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the city council committee on local transportation.

Extra Cabs Authorized.

This agreement, according to Lee E. Daniels, attorney for the company, was that the company could operate 11 cabs on a double shift. There was a further understanding, he said, that if any of the company's men who were driving other employes' cabs could purchase cars, they would be allowed to operate them.

"Apparently the public is in favor of lower cab rates," said Attorney Daniels, "because we have had so much business that we had to put on additional cabs to handle it. We are operating 21 cabs now, but Lieut. Killackey has served notice that we must take 10 of them off the streets. I am going to ask Ald. Bowler for permission to operate the additional cabs."

Receive 900 Calls in Day.

On some days the company has received as many as 900 telephone requests for cab service, Daniels said. The telephone business plus the passengers picked up while on return trips, he said, has been sufficient to allow the company's employes to make a living, and, if the service is extended to meet the demands of the public, will give employment to others.

The company's rates are 15 cents for the first one-third mile and 5 cents for each one-third mile thereafter. This rate is cheaper than the maximum rate of 30 cents for the first mile and 20 cents for each mile thereafter fixed recently in New York. The rate charged by the Checker and Yellow Cab companies is 25 cents for the first one-fourth mile and 10 cents for each additional one-half mile.

Erosion Causes Collapse of Lord Byron's Grotto

FLYING BROKER WEDS HEIRESS OF CATTLE KING

Anne Burnett Bride of James Hall.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Miss Anne V. Burnett of Fort Worth, Tex., was married at noon today to James Goodwin Hall, noted aviator and broker. The ceremony was performed at the home of the Rev. Dr. Henry Howard, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Hall, the wealthy daughter of Thomas Burnett of Electra, Tex., and of Mrs. Olie Lake Burnett of Fort Worth, was attended by Mrs. J. Robert Hewitt of New York City. Mr. Hewitt was best man. Besides the attendants only a few friends were present at the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall were to sail on the S. S. Oriente for Havana.

Mrs. Hall is a granddaughter of the late Capt. S. Burk Burnett, cattleman of Fort Worth. Upon his death about ten years ago Mrs. Hall inherited a large portion of Capt. Burnett's estate, estimated at $20,000,000.

Divorced Oil Man's Son.

Several years ago she was divorced from Guy Waggoner, son of W. T. Waggoner, Fort Worth oil operator and ranchman. She received more than $500,000 in the divorce settlement.

A member of the Fort Worth Junior league, Mrs. Hall has been active in social circles in the Texas city. She also maintains an apartment in New York.

Mrs. Hall is also an amateur flyer. Mr. and Mrs. Hall plan to go from Havana to Mexico, where a plane will be ready for them. They plan to fly through the southwest, ending their aerial honeymoon in New York, where they will reside.

Hall a War Flyer.

Mr. Hall served in the 111th escadrille of the French army and then in the American air corps in the world war. In July, 1931, he flew from Floyd Bennett field to Havana in 8 hours 35 minutes. In August of that year Mr. Hall flew from New Orleans, with Andre de Coppetas as passenger, to New York in 7 hours 14 minutes; from Pittsburgh to New York in 1 hour 46 minutes; and from New York to Chicago in 4 hours 12 minutes.

Hall has made several flights in the interests of the Crusaders, an anti-prohibition organization.

A year ago last spring a plane which Hall was piloting and in which Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation bank, was a passenger came down on a house in State island a few minutes after leaving Floyd Bennett field bound for Cleveland. Mr. Brady and an occupant of the house were killed, but Hall escaped with a shaking up.

WRITER ON TRIAL; TOLD SECRETS OF BRITISH SPYING

Based Book on Foreign Office Documents.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Revelations, based on secret documents in the British foreign office dealing with intelligence operations in Greece and incorporated in a book, "Greek Memories," brought Compton Mackenzie, Scottish writer, before the magistrate at Guildhall today on a charge of violating the official secrets act.

"Greek Memories" was published on Oct. 27 and suppressed the same day. It was the third book Mackenzie had written on experiences of secret service men in Greece. The two previous books were "First Athenian Memories" and "Gallipoli Memories."

Evidence to Be Secret.

Eustace Fulton, prosecutor of the case, said some of the evidence would probably be heard in camera. Often persons in a limited field of employment who come to know things which should not be revealed, "publish things the meaning of which they do not understand and disclose matters, often through stupidity, without knowing their importance," Fulton said.

Mackenzie was a temporary lieutenant and then captain of the royal marines attached to the intelligence service in Athens. Soon after his first book appeared, in 1931, Sir Basil Thomson, director of intelligence in 1921, published a book, "The Allied Secret Service in Greece," to which Mackenzie took exception. The preface to his "Greek Memories" indicated that he meant to expose "untrustworthiness where it is conspicuously necessary."

Reveals Secret Telegrams.

Apparently, Fulton declared, Mackenzie meant to prove he knew a great deal more than Sir Basil, thereby breaking the law through great care in quoting or paraphrasing telegrams and letters between the foreign office and superiors in Athens.

An official of the foreign office testified that the documents quoted are still secret and that Mackenzie had no authority to publish them. The hearing was adjourned until a week from tomorrow.

Indict 2 Indiana Doctors for Frauds Against Poor

Two physicians were indicted yesterday by the Lake county, Ind., grand jury on charges of filing false claims for services against the poor fund of North township, which includes the city of Hammond. They are Dr. A. A. Young, 6333 Jackson avenue, Hammond, and Dr. A. G. Shlieker, 4140 Magoun avenue, East Chicago. Dr. Young is a brother of Mrs. Myrtle Meara, a North township trustee. It is alleged that he was given a contract to care for the medical needs of the poor at $2,500 a month. The grand jury also censured two other physicians and a dentist for filing excessive claims.

IL DUCE PARDONS 17 BITTER FOES IN EXILE OR JAIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 16.—A decree was issued by the government today extending the benefits of the amnesty granted recently to minor offenders to seventeen irreconcilable anti-Fascist leaders, most of them now living abroad who, in January, 1926, were deprived of citizenship and whose property was confiscated.

Among the beneficiaries of the decree is Prof. Gaetano Salvemini, former Florence historian, who in recent years has been a lecturer in King's college, London, and in Paris. He has spoken long and bitterly against Mussolini and Fascism.

Remembered in Chicago.

[On Feb. 12, 1927, Prof. Salvemini spoke to the Chicago council on foreign relations, when he said: "While Italy is outwardly strong, it is inwardly weak. Mussolini, who is bulldozing the world into believing him the greatest ruler in history, is stirring his subjects to rebellion, an event that must surely follow if his present policies continue."]

Today's decree also includes Gen. Cesare Rossi, one of Mussolini's compatriots in the historic march on Rome, the tenth anniversary of which the Fascists are now celebrating. Gen. Rossi had an important post in the press bureau of the ministry of interior. He fled to France after the body of the millionaire Socialist deputy, Giacomo Matteotti, was found mutilated on the shores of Lake Vico on June 17, 1924.

Lured Back to Italy.

From France Rossi wrote bitter indictments of Mussolini. In September, 1927, Rossi's paramour, the pretty Mlle. Marguerite Durand, lured him across the border into Campione, Italy, where Fascists seized him. He was tried for complicity in the Matteotti murder and sentenced to 30 years in prison. The Matteotti murder and the Rossi sentence have been the subjects of continuous anti-Fascist barbs directed from abroad.

Others affected by today's amnesty include Giuseppe Donati, long a leader of the Populist party; Bazzi Emilio, De Ambris Alceste, Rocca Massimo, Ciccotti Scozzese, and Triaca Ubaldo, former newspaper editors and writers.

Although it is doubtful if any of the exiles concerned will avail himself of the possibility of returning to Italy as full fledged Italian citizen, the decree is important, since the families will recover possession of properties confiscated six years ago. Rome papers today published the brief text of the decree, but refrained from commenting.

Duce Says Rome Points Way.

The chamber of deputies convened this afternoon and dedicated the session to the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Fascist régime. Premier Mussolini in a brief address exalted the work accomplished, promised greater accomplishments, and ended by emphatically declaring: "The doctrines, institutions, and works done by the revolution of the Fascist blackshirts are the order of the day in all countries of Europe, because in this dark, tormented, and falling world safety cannot come but from truth expressed by Rome, and from Rome it will come."

A new man in 2 weeks!

"and they said I was due for a breakdown"

Read what this eastern business man told us:

"Hard work and constant worry had me down. My nerves were shot. My doctor told me I needed more rest than mere sleep could provide—in other words, a complete change, new environment, new interests.

"I hadn't had a real vacation in a long time—felt I had one coming. It wasn't hard to arrange to be away from the office—I wasn't doing myself any good there anyway. So I lit out for Southern California.

"Believe it or not, that was just two weeks ago. Look at me now! This trip is one of the best investments I ever made. And as a matter of fact, I'm not spending a cent more while here than I would have at home anyway."

More to Enjoy
Less to Pay

Less to pay because in this year 'round vacation-land you escape the "peak prices" necessary in one-season resorts. Costs here (normally about 16% under the U. S. average), and costs of getting here, have now been further drastically reduced. (See your local transportation agents for details of reduced rates).

More to enjoy because in no other single area, visitors tell us, are there so many ways to have a good time. Take your pick: Sun-soaked beaches facing bright pleasure-islands across the friendly blue Pacific. Or snow-crested mountains sheltering golden orange groves and sub-tropical gardens. The peace of the desert or light-hearted Hollywood's gay night life. Secluded inns or luxurious resort hotels. Every sport . . . at its sportiest.

Here are crumbling Spanish Missions, Old Mexico itself just to the south, swaying palms, lazy sunshine and the spirit of "manana." Yet here, too, is big, cosmopolitan Los Angeles, linked by famed boulevards to amazing modern cities like Pasadena, Glendale, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Beverly Hills, Pomona . . . scores of others. It's all yours to enjoy, this winter . . . an experience you'll remember as long as you live.

JAPS OPEN DRIVE TO CRUSH REVOLT ON SOVIET BORDER

Seek to Free 245 Held by Chinese Insurgents.

TOKIO, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Strong Japanese reinforcements were en route to northwest Manchuria today. Their movement emphasized unofficial reports that the Japanese were determined to carry out their threat to smash the insurgent Gen. Su Ping-wen unless he released 245 Japanese hostages held in Manchuli, on the soviet border.

Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto, Japan's supreme representative in Manchuria, was quoted as the authority for this threat, and it was added that the Chinese insurgent must also repledge his loyalty to the new state of Manchukuo.

Hope for Negotiation Fades.

Official spokesmen in Tokio and Changchun, the Manchukuo capital, said that although they were still trying to negotiate a peaceful settlement with Gen. Su, his recalcitrance has lessened the hope of this solution and it may be necessary for the Japanese army to start a drive on Manchuli. This action might be taken though it mean death to Gen. Su's Japanese captives.

Four trainloads of infantry, cavalry and artillery passed Mukden today en route to Tsitsihar to join Japanese forces along the Nonni river.

Simultaneously the Tokio war office said "several hundred recruits" were leaving Japan tonight to enter service north and west of Tsitsihar. Divisions there have been fighting for some time and their casualties have made it necessary to send replacements.

Insurgents Total 30,000 Men.

Gen. Su Ping-wen's troops are now confronting the Japanese at Khurkhura, a few miles west of the Nonni river, and the insurgent has established contact with other irregulars in the Tsitsihar area. These, the Japanese estimate, total 30,000.

It has been seven weeks since Gen. Su revolted and seized control of all Manchukuo west of the Khingan mountains, defying Japan to come and get him. Since that time his numbers confidence and territory have increased.

The Japanese attempt to crush the revolt has been held back for three reasons—damage to their prestige in case they should fail, fear for the fate of the hostages, and the danger of friction with Russia. Gen. Su has defiantly refused to negotiate with a Japanese mission which recently arrived at Dairia, Siberia.

Contests Divorce

Salvatore Robert Lantieri, 27 years olds, 1752 Ogden avenue, a student at Rush Medical college, yesterday asked Superior Judge James J. Kelly for a divorce from his wife, Antoinette, 32 years old, of Brooklyn. He charged desertion, saying he had come to Chicago after their wedding in Brooklyn, and had returned there only once. He asserted that his wife refused to come to Chicago.

Mrs. Lantieri, notified of the suit, had journeyed to Chicago to oppose it. From the witness stand she testified that she was a music and art teacher. She said that she had supported her husband since 1925, putting him through school on $5,000 of her earnings, and even buying him silk underwear. She denied that she had deserted him and asserted that she still loved him.

After the evidence was heard, Judge Kelly said that Lantieri had no grounds for divorce. Thereupon Mrs. Lantieri obtained leave to drop her own cross bill for separate maintenance. She said that she would return to Brooklyn today and added: "I withdrew my bill because I knew that my husband has no money and has a year's interneship to serve yet. I don't don't want to interfere with his studies."

WOMAN SUED FOR $100,000 BALM DENIES CHARGES

The relations between Michael Dolinsky, official of a dress making company, and Miss Estelle Kulick, 32 years old, general manager of the concern, were only those of business associates, she testified yesterday in the court of Circuit Judge Craig Hood. The judge is hearing the $100,000 alienation of affections suit filed against Miss Kulick by Mrs. Anna Dolinsky, 36 years old, 1337 Fargo avenue, Dolinsky's divorced wife.

Taking the witness stand late in the day, Miss Kulick related that business trips she had taken to New York City with her employer in 1927 were business trips only. Attorneys for Mrs. Dolinsky asked her if it was not true that her employer was known as the "It" man of his company, but an objection, sustained by the judge, prevented her from replying.

Earlier in the day Dolinsky's business partner, Max Katz, testified that his associate "just naturally lost the love of his wife through no fault of Miss Kulick." Recalling a New Year's party in 1927 where Miss Kulick was voted the most popular girl with votes costing $1 each, Katz said that it was he and not Dolinsky who purchased $10 worth of the tickets to allow her to win.

FRAT DRINKING CHARGES HEEDED AT U. OF MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Fraternity drinking at the University of Michigan, brought to the attention of fraternity alumni as the result of complaints made by mothers of girls who have attended parties at the chapter houses, will be taken up by the interfraternity council here next Tuesday, it has been disclosed.

Alumni discussed the matter at a meeting Saturday and are bringing it to the council, made up of fraternity representatives, without going to the administration of the university. It is expected that the council will take action sufficiently effective to make official action by the university unnecessary. The houses specified in the complaints have not been named.

It is the third discussion on liquor that has taken place here within the last few years. Considerable agitation resulting from police raids on five fraternity houses just before the 1931 "J" hop closed the houses for the remainder of the year and brought about an investigation by a committee from the legislature. The university was given a clean bill at that time.

FARMERS FRAME PROPOSALS TO PROTECT MARKET

Draw Up Requests for Lame Duck Congress.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Taking at their face value campaign pledges of President Elect Roosevelt that his administration would furnish farmers a protected market in any revision of federal tariffs, officers of national farm organizations this week are preparing definite proposals to be submitted in the December session of congress. The farm leaders assume that even though the Democratic administration does not take office until next March, the party will be powerful enough in the "lame duck" session to advance measures put forward in accordance with the Roosevelt pledges.

Of chief concern to the corn belt are two protective measures being championed by the American Farm Bureau federation, the National Grange, and the Farmers' union. The two last named groups are formulating their definite proposals in national conventions this week, the grange at Winston-Salem, N. C., and the union at Omaha. The Farm Bureau Federation will meet in the Hotel Sherman Dec. 5, 6, and 7.

Plan to Help Dairy Farmers.

These measures will seek to remove competition for dairy farmers now imposed by imported fats and oils to replace butterfat, lard, and vegetable compounds. They also propose that American autoists and other users of denatured alcohol obtain a product made from corn or other farm products instead of from cheap imported blackstrap molasses.

Both of these sources of competition now serving to deflate American farm values are decried by virtually all organizations speaking for farmers, including the National Milk Producers' federation and a large number of American business interests as well.

To this list the southern farmers add an imported product, jute, replacing large amounts of cotton, and corn growers add tapioca, competing with their cornstarch on an unfavorable basis. Growers of soybeans, peanuts, and other oil producing crops likewise are concerned in the cheap fats and oils coming in from the tropics practically duty free.

Outlines Four Demands.

"Boost the prices on farm crops by placing a tariff on these products," declared William H. Settle, president of the Indiana farm bureau, which closed its annual meeting yesterday in Indianapolis, "and you lift the entire farm price level, in turn bringing back farm buying power so much needed at this time."

Four essential steps that farmers will demand that congress take were told yesterday by L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange. These include an amendment to the farm marketing act providing adequate machinery to deal with crop surpluses; readjustment of the monetary system to stabilize the dollar in relation to commodities; provision of credit machinery to alleviate farm mortgage distress, and reduction of governmental costs all along the line.

AUTHOR HERE

CLEMENCE DANE.

Clemence Dane, English playwright, novelist and actress, arrived in Chicago over the Michigan Central railroad yesterday. She will lecture today before the Chicago Drama league at the Drake hotel on "The Ghost in Literature and the Drama." On Saturday she will address the Town Hall series at the Drake hotel, the proceeds to go to Emerson house, a settlement. Miss Dane is the author of the play "Bill for Divorcement." Her latest book is "Broome Stages."

SCHOOLS REOPEN IN PALESTINE; REACH PAY PACT

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Jewish schools throughout Palestine were reopened today after a long controversy over salary arrears and guarantees for future salaries.

Teachers had objected to having back salaries paid over a five year period. A three year compromise plan was agreed upon.

DENEEN FACTION MEETS TO PLAN REBUILDING G.O.P.

Members of the Deneen faction of the Republican party met yesterday in the Great Northern hotel to plan rebuilding the party machinery in Cook county, in the words of those who attended the meeting, "from the ground up." The following statement was issued by former Senator Charles S. Deneen:

"The meeting was called in pursuance of a vote by about 200 leaders in the different wards of Chicago and districts of Cook county on the Friday before election. They wished to meet shortly after election to exchange views regarding political conditions.

"There is a general desire to rebuild the Republican party, as outlined a few days ago by President Hoover in his speech at Palo Alto, Cal., urging all interested persons to do such work in the states, counties, cities, and precincts. It is the very general sentiment among the leaders that new conditions make new duties, that the organization must be thoroughly strengthened in its personnel, and that a detailed study be made of the political problems that confront all branches of the government. The leaders want to be helpful in this regard and are willing to cooperate with all political and civic organizations having like purposes.

"The leaders will hold meetings in their respective wards and districts in the near future, and later a general meeting will be had to hear reports and consider a program."

MARYLAND LEADERS OF G. O. P. PLANNING TO REBUILD PARTY

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Following the Democratic victory in last week's general election, a call has been issued for a meeting of Republicans of Maryland next Sunday "to rebuild the Republican party."

Harry W. Nice, former Republican candidate for governor, issued the call today, asserting that the purpose of the conference is "to afford an opportunity for a rather free and frank discussion of the present ills and woeful state of the Republican party in Maryland."

Rumblings against the leadership of Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough and Galen L. Tait, state chairman, were heard last summer, but the leaders of the opposition announced they would wait until after the general election.

SLOW STOMACH

DIETING WON'T HELP—THIS WILL

Most "indigestion" has been found imaginary! The pains and gas and all that misery are real, of course. But nine times in ten they are symptoms only of slow stomach.

Did you know you can regulate your stomach to empty in six hours, as it should? That this is as easy as moving the bowels?

One box of Pape's Diapepsin will test your stomach and correct your digestion time in a couple of days—at a cost of thirty cents!

Each tablet of diapepsin saves the stomach half an hour's labor. If your stomach is an hour slow, two tablets will remedy the trouble. Then eat anything. Baked beans every noon if you like them. Lobster at midnight suppers. These will digest like crackers and milk in a six-hour stomach!

Pape's Diapepsin stimulates the gastric flow. Use it freely until the stomach is working right without any help. When it slows down, take diapepsin again for a day or two. This helps coffee drinkers and hard smokers, too.

Pape's DIAPEPSIN Compound

In order to take care of such trying emergencies as when Fido fails to return from his after-dinner stroll, we have arranged so that you can telephone your want ad at any time of day or night to the Tribune (Superior 0100—Want Ad-Viser) and always get the same full courteous service.

"Thank Heavens I can enjoy 5 cups a day of DATED coffee . . ."

"One cup is my limit." How often you've heard it!

But the plain scientific fact—recently discovered—is that the average man or woman has a "Coffee tolerance" of 5 cups a day . . . if the coffee is fresh.

It's the rancid oil in stale coffee that often interferes with digestion—is a frequent cause of headache and sleeplessness.

To protect you against this danger, Chase & Sanborn give you Dated coffee. Deliver it fresh from the roasting ovens, by swift trucks.

With an expiration date printed on every pound.

No can is allowed to remain on your grocer's shelf after its date has expired.

Now you can forget your coffee conscience. Enjoy 5 cups a day of Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee!

SCIENTIFIC AUTHORITY

Present scientific knowledge establishes the fact that the average man or woman has a coffee "tolerance" of 5 cups a day. "Tolerance" means the ability of one's body to receive and utilize and enjoy without the slightest bad effect. But—that coffee must be fresh! The regular drinking of stale coffee has bad effects on the digestion.

COULDN'T KNOW DETAILS, SWEARS STONE CO. HEAD

Department Chiefs Fixed Policies, He Testifies.

Henry F. Norcott, president of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern, testified yesterday that he had depended on his department heads to shape the policies of the company that failed for $14,000,000. He appeared as a witness in his own behalf in the federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward, where he and eight others are on trial on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Questioned by his attorney, Charles F. Rathbun, Norcott traced his career in the real estate business in Chicago. He said that H. O. Stone & Co. purchased his south side company in 1919 for $60,000 and preferred stock in the Stone company. In 1921, the witness said, he gained absolute control of the Stone company and served as president.

Says He Couldn't Know Details.

"The business ultimately reached the point where it was impossible for me to know every detail," Norcott said. "I depended on my department heads in whom I had complete faith."

The government had introduced testimony that the Stone company refused an audit of the company's condition prepared by Andersen & Co. in 1929 because it showed a deficit. The audit was replaced, government witnesses said, by another prepared by employés of the Stone company to show a good profit for the year.

Questioned about the audit, Norcott said that he had never had a technical auditing education and thought that the methods used by Stone & Co. auditors were all right.

"I asked Carroll [W. Scott Carroll, controller of the company and a defendant] if he was sure of his ground in that audit," Norcott said, "and he told me that he was."

Questioned on Advertising.

Norcott was questioned concerning a Stone pamphlet which set forth that a bond issue on Lawsonia, a Stone subdivision, was secured by a first mortgage. The prosecution had offered testimony that the property was incumbered by a previous mortgage. Norcott said that he had depended on his advertising manager to see that the pamphlet was correct.

Norcott said that in 1929 the company officials saw that many of the bond issues would have to be refinanced.

"We thought it would be a good idea to refinance the issues by a 20 to 50 per cent revaluation covering the balance with Stone common stock," Norcott said. I had the greatest faith in the common stock."

Tells of "Deep Concern."

Norcott added that the officials "were really deeply concerned about our bondholders."

"As president of the Stone company do you take full responsibility for your company?" Attorney Rathbun asked.

"Yes," Norcott replied. Before Norcott was called to the stand, Carroll had completed his testimony with a blanket denial of any conspiracy to defraud Stone investors.

DANISH ELECTION BACKS PREMIER STAUNING'S RULE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 16.—Today's elections to the Danish folketing [lower house] showed a strong gain for the socialist and conservative parties. Therefore it is expected that these two government parties will return to office, with T. A. M. Stauning continuing as premier.

Denmark today witnessed its first death in a political campaign. A labor partisan was killed. His assailant, said to be a communist, was arrested. Several campaign speakers were wounded in street outbreaks.

The Farmers and Liberal parties lost heavily. The communist party, after a desperate campaign, won two seats.

The folketing was dissolved on Oct. 27 after the upper house [landsting] rejected the government's currency and import regulation bill, which the lower house passed.

ELMER D. KRUSE WRITES 16 WORDS AND WINS AUTO

Elmer D. Kruse, production manager of the newsprint advertising service of THE TRIBUNE, yesterday was presented with a new Cadillac sedan which he won in a national contest of the Frigidaire corporation. The presentation was made by Lowell McCutcheon, general manager of the corporation in Chicagoland.

Mr. Kruse submitted to the company a sixteen word sentence describing an engineering achievement by Frigidaire. There were 115,000 contestants, but the company wrote to Mr. Kruse:

"We congratulate you on your excellent answer. It gives evidence of much thought and study. The judges were unanimous in their verdict."

When he was informed of his victory and asked to view his prize car the winner said he hoped to get a month's vacation and drive to Florida.

"WHY GIVE LIFE FULL OF PAIN?" PHYSICIAN ASKS

Doctor Talks of Deformed Babies.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The question as to whether physical deformity is a reason for letting an infant die rather than enter into a life of struggle against handicaps was raised again today.

It was brought into the convention of the Eastern and Southern Homeopathic associations. Dr. W. H. Guild of Chicago was talking about the duties of an obstetrician. He suggested that by acts of omission a doctor might prevent the bringing into the world of more deformed persons. In lieu of the Spartan custom of exposing such infants to die on a mountain he suggested that society should sanction the withholding of those efforts at stimulation that often are used at birth.

Telling of the death of an infant in the days of his early medical practice he said:

"In trying to comfort the mother by telling her how much earthly trouble her baby had escaped, I found that I was depicting how much the mother was being saved by not having her deformed offspring survive."

"Why," Dr. Guild asked in regard to such children, "go out of the way to perpetuate such misery? May there not be cases when the officiating obstetrician may legally and honorably turn his back and minimize his efforts to bring life into such misshapen products?"

After such lif has entered the fabric of society the physician recalled "We cannot take life, except as punishment for crime, no matter how useless or pitiful its existence may be."

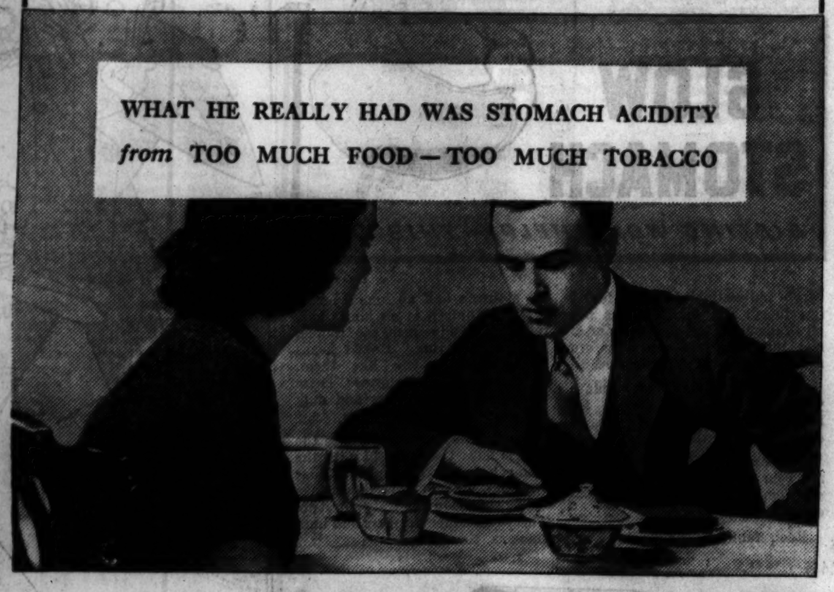
He Thought There Was Something "Queer" the Matter With Him



How by Doing One Simple Thing, You Can Minimize the After-Effects of Too Much Food—Too Much Tobacco—To a Remarkable Degree

MODERN science now throws a new light on the problem of overindulgence—eating too much, smoking too much, drinking unwisely. A way that millions are learning. And millions doing.

What you do is this:

"TAKE—2 tablespoons of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water before bed."

"TAKE—2 tablespoons of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water with the juice of a WHOLE ORANGE when you get up."

Or take six Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablets the same way, which give an equivalent amount of Milk of Magnesia, for each Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablet equals one teaspoonful of the liquid Milk of Magnesia.

Tomorrow you'll feel great. Science says it is the Quickest, Simplest and Easiest way to overcome the effects of too much smoking, eating, drinking known.

How It Works

Results are quick and sure because this small dosage of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia acts to alkalize the system. And an alkalized system is largely impervious to the bad after-effects of too much smoking or other overindulgence.

It sweetens and purifies your stomach. Banishes the acid headache, sour stomach, deadly depression that mark the price of immoderations.

Take Every Night

Every person who smokes excessively should know this. And never go to bed without taking this minute quantity of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia before. And every person who lives too well—overindulges—should never forget it.

Try it—once. Feel how clear your head feels the next day—how free you are from head-dullness and depression. You will be amazed.

When you buy, be sure you get the REAL article—Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Always ask for it by the name Phillips—for all "milk of magnesia" is not alike in effect. So take care to see you get Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—the kind doctors endorse; judged the most powerful neutralizer of stomach acids known.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:
Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

J. M. Barrie Ends Silence of Many Years

Short Story Echoes Work of Later Period.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Farewell, Miss Julie Logan," by J. M. Barrie [Scribners]. Published Nov. 11.

A SILENCE of many years has been broken by Sir James M. Barrie in the publication of a longish short story, "Farewell, Miss Julie Logan," and it is especially interesting to the readers of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE that that silence was broken by the first publication in THE TRIBUNE of the story in two installments.

J. M. BARRIE.

Echoes of the later work of Sir James [O, let's call him Mr. Barrie. I'm sure he likes it better, for he signs himself J. M. Barrie in all of his literary work] rather than the earlier is to be found in "Farewell, Miss Julie Logan," for it has a definite mystical turn, like "Mary Rose," for instance.

Like most of his other things, it is set in Scotland, but it is a glen of Scotland locked for months at a time by the severity of the weather, a glen which "does sometimes go queer in the terrible stillness of the time when it is locked." The story is told in the form of a diary kept by a young minister in his first parish and concerns a lovely and illting Miss Julie Logan who never lived, except in the brain of the man who fell in love with her at sight. When he dropped her in the burn as he was carrying her across, because she admitted that she was a papist, she was carrying a basket filled with food.

After weeks of anguished fever and weeks of being persuaded that it was all a hallucination, the first thing the young Adam did when he was rational was to go out to look for the basket to convince himself of its nonexistence as a proof of Miss Julie's lack of actuality. In an entry in the diary 25 years later he confesses what he said he had never confessed before in his life, that he FOUND the basket!

The story fills only two and half over a hundred pages.

Five Collections of Short Stories.

Not so fragile are five collections of short stories which will be boons to readers of that popular form of literary art.

The annual volume of "O. Henry Memorial Award Prize Stories" [Doubleday Doran] is always as popular as any collection of short tales. This year Stephen Vincent Benet won first prize [$500] with "An End of Dreams," James Gould Cozzens' "Farewell to Cuba" was given second prize [$250], and Edwin Granberry's "A Trip to Czardis" won the special prize of $100 for the best short short story. Which reminds me, while we're talking about them, that the first collection of the sort has just been published in "The Best Short Shorts of 1932" [Putnams] and that it contains forty tales in the latest clipped manner.

But to return to the O. Henry Memorial Award volume, which is edited by Blanche Colton Williams. It contains, besides the three prize winners, stories by Kay Boyle, Katharine Brush, Dorothy Canfield, Irvin S. Cobb, William Faulkner, Booth Tarkington, and six others. It's a treat.

And what a treat is "Comic Relief," subtitled, and fittingly, "An Omnibus of Modern American Humor" [Houghton Mifflin]. It is edited by R. N. Linscott, and is warranted to be the best possible relief to the general state of the world and the spirits.

Ernest Thompson Seton has done a mammoth and marvelous job in editing "Famous Animal Stories" [Brentano's], which is almost 700 pages of the best short stories extant. The editor includes [in the wide interpretation of his title] "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," which gives you some notion of his eclectic [and excellent] taste.

If you yearn for sentiment, Margaret Widdemer has edited a superior volume called "The Best American Love Stories of the Year" [Day]. In it are to be found twenty stories which have never before appeared in book form. Miss Widdemer had two interesting and useful touchstones in her choice of tales to be included. "My primary touchstone," she writes, "has been memorability. That is, did I, having read the stories with no idea of collection, recall them . . . or did they stand out in my mind? And," she continues, "I have tried [granting, of course, high technical excellence] to let preponderate, not necessarily the art story, but the kind which gives the reader the most illusion of being himself or herself in love." In other words, all the synthetic emotion you want without any sin.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Terse and tragic is this pictured story of a fugitive from a chain gang. The screen version is an adaptation of the book, "I Am a Fugitive from a Georgia Chain Gang," written by the fugitive himself—Robert E. Burns—who is still that most wretched thing on earth—a hunted man.

In "Hell's Highway" we had a bitter taste of the horrors of the convict chain gang system which still apparently flourishes in several southern states. But that movie was comparatively mild as compared with this powerfully enacted drama. Here are cruelty and injustice in the raw, and Paul Muni, impersonator par excellance of grim roles, is their victim.

As James Allen he is unjustly jailed for a $5 holdup in which he was innocently involved. Evidence is against him. He's convicted and sentenced to the chain gang, where for a long time he endures the seemingly unendurable . . .

He escapes. Becomes a respected Chicago citizen. Marries. Meets disloyalty at the hands of his wife. Is told by the officer who comes to get him—and is unable to procure extradition papers from the governor of Illinois—that if he will return voluntarily he'll be pardoned in ninety days. Re turns. The pardon is sidetracked again. Again he escapes. And this time . . . ?

See the picture. It will make your blood run cold—but SEE it! Muni, the actor; Mervyn Le Roy, the director; a superb supporting cast, and a story carved from a human heart make "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang" tremendously worth while.

"THAT'S MY BOY."

AND THESE FAMOUS FOOTBALL STARS:

Russell Saunders	Dutch Hendrian
Ernie Pinckert	Jim Music
Gaius Shaver	Tay Brown
Ernie Smith	Toby Hunt
Earl Sparling

And the University of Southern California football team.

This movie contains a soupçon of about everything!

Football, it has, and mother love. Romance, chicanery, laughs and tears add flavor, and the base of this goulash is an interesting story.

Tommy, the hero, is a poor boy who wants to be a doctor. He intends to work his way through college, but is almost immediately spotted by the football coach as being a great broken field runner.

He's trained secretly during his freshman year and is sprung as a sensational surprise the following season. At once he becomes the idol of a nation's gridiron enthusiasts.

Tommy earns and deserves every bit of praise he gets. But things break badly for him. The boy awakes one day to find himself booed instead of cheered. His ignorance of the ways of worldly and unscrupulous men has led him, unsuspecting, into a trap. How he is extricated and WHEN—makes exciting seeing.

Richard Cromwell gives a live, sensitive performance as "Snakehips." And if he himself does all the fancy sprinting that's laid to his credit he's one fast bebby!

Direction and supporting cast are satisfactory. Football sequences are exciting and the suspense is keen during certain episodes.

"That's My Boy" is timely and entertaining.

Receivers Cancel Plan to Stage "Roxane" in City

"Roxane," the peretta version of "Cyrano de Bergerac," will not come to the Harris theater next Tuesday night, as recently announced by the management of that playhouse. The booking of this production, now in Boston, has been transferred to New York.

his sudden change of a formally promised Chicago engagement grows out of the receivership in which the Shubert Theatrical company, producer of "Roxane," is now involved. It is said that the receivers were unwilling to sanction transportation expenses of the company from Boston to Chicago. The New York première of "Roxane" will take place at the end of next week.

Velvet Gloves Are Accent to Dance Frocks

Velvet Bags Are Made in Same Colors.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Last minute hand-outs for the fashion conscious shoppers before you all plunge, we hope, merrily into the fun of Christmas shopping, are the new velvet gloves that go places at night. Lovely pastel tints, powdery blues and dusty pinks and some ravishing shades of robin's egg blue are matched with velvet bags of the same color.

You can buy the best looking coral tinted velvet gloves you have ever seen . . . the rosy colored affairs that will be perfect with powder blue dance frocks or as accents for flesh crêpe de chine. Seductive poppy red gloves will flame gorgeously against a black costume or add a bit of Spanish zip to chalk white evening gowns.

Until you have seen the subtle sheen of dove gray velvet gloves worn with an almond green gown, or with yellow, or romantically, with clinging black new thin wool formal costumes, you simply have seen nothing. Gold metallic gowns are especially spectacular with gloves of ginger brown velvet, and try your silver dinner gowns with gloves of sooty black velvet as a striking contrast.

If you are shopping for something different, you'll be more than interested in Chanel's new yellow suede gloves, or the velvet gloves also sponsored by Chanel that are palmed with suede. Another new trick is to shower your shoulders with loops of velvet ribbon the same shade as the velvet gloves you decide to wear.

Schiaparelli's gauntlet gloves [they are really gloves fashioned with a large half sleeve cuff] are still going strong. They are perfect for the coats that are heavily furred around the shoulders and unfurred as to cuffs, for these enveloping gloves slide on over the sleeve of your coat and crush thickly and smartly and loosely well up toward your elbow. You can also wear these ample things over the simple long sleeves of the fashionable severe daytime dress of either silk or wool. Brown and black doeskin are the only two available colors to be had at this time. Colors may be displayed later.

The velvet hand that carries a handbag, especially an evening bag, usually carries a bag to match . . . some stunning new collections are being displayed with reasonable price tags fluttering temptingly from the clasps. The smartest evening vanities or pouch bags are fashioned of shirred velvet to match the cleverly shirred velvet evening gloves.

The bags are lined with soft pastel silks and have silver and gold metal frames sprinkled with tiny seed pearls and crystal beads. Flat envelope models are also shirred and lined with contrasting colors . . . one effective combination is made of ivory velvet and lined with ruby red, another with green.

The best lighters to carry with these decorative evening bags are the smallest things imaginable . . . they are the wee lipstick lighters covered with petit-point and carry enough fluid to light you through an evening. Despite their brevity and beauty they click every time, with all the snap and vigor of the largest masculine workaday model.

MINUTE MYSTERY

CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

DEATH IN A CEMETERY.

"Here's a report on the Mulhall case," said Inspector Kelley. "See what you make of it."

Prof. Fordney took the proferred paper and read:

Harry Brown states that on Thursday morning about 10 o'clock, while driving in his truck near Zion cemetery, he saw a man, standing near a grave, take a revolver from his pocket, shoot himself through the head and fall over backwards.

Driving up as near as possible, he jumped out, ran over, saw the man was dead, and rushed to the police station at Centerville to report the matter.

Detectives Calder and Ryan hurried to the scene with him and found a man about fifty years old, neatly dressed, lying stretched out on his back. A revolver, from which one shot had been fired, was on the ground by his side.

The left arm was doubled under the body, the right flung out. His face and hands were dirty, there was fresh blood on his trouser cuffs and both knees were caked with mud as if he had been kneeling.

Brown pointed out a spot on a rise in the ground, near a grave marked John Mulhall, where he said the man had been standing when he shot himself. The only papers in his pockets bore the name of John Frisbee, mayor of Centerville, but the detectives recognized the man as Francis Mulhall, influential politician under fire for misappropriation of funds.

"I would say that Mulhall was murdered," said Fordney, returning the paper to Kelley.

"That's my opinion, too," agreed the inspector.

WHY?

Aim of Powder Is to Afford a Velvety Finish

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We seem to have started ourselves off on a makeup rampage at the beginning of the week and have kept it up daily since. There is so much to say about it these days. There are so many fine points to its application. And women are experimenting all over the land, or, at least, applying makeup in one form or another.

Today let's talk powders and powdering, the commonest occupation known to our sex, next to eating. We are blessed today in rarely running into the problem of too light or too heavy a powder. Only occasionally do we see that coarsened, pasty look that heavy powder gives a face. Most powders on the market today are of medium weight and usable on almost every kind of skin.

In spite of the fact that powders have taken on dozens of different shades of recent days, and there is purpose in trying to match the general complexion tone, still powder should not be interpreted as the means of arranging a change in color. The paramount idea in powder use is not to look powdered. Powder is a finish. Sometimes the odd shades—green and mauve and lavender, or mixtures—are applied to give a translucence to the skin at night.

But powder primarily is to give a velvety finish to the face. And here's a little test for guidance. Sometimes when you have felt the urge to powder you've been startled at the contrast when you've put on the first dab. It's a pretty safe bet when this happens that your powder is not in the proper key for your particular skin. It is likely to look artificial, even after it is spread. The very dark shades that have had some run of popularity of late days belong to the very young or to the very chic.

The dark shades on the ordinary face, after 30, let's say, harden that face. The very light are none too kind, either. If you're "in the money" you can have a cosmetician blend a powder perfect for you. But with all the shades already blended and prepared, this is rarely necessary. The chief point is to think of rouge, lipstick and eyemakeup for coloring; powder for a soft, velvety finish.

Football Dance.

The Interfraternity club of Chicago will hold its fifth annual formal football dance on Saturday evening at the Palmer house. Horton Conrad is chairman of the dance committee.

Choir Makes Music History in Three Years

A Capella Group in First Concert of Season.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

In its time Chicago has developed some remarkable musical undertakings, and of these one of the least in the matter of years is one of the most remarkable in ability and accomplishments. It is the A Cappella choir, which, under the direction of Noble Cain, appeared in the first concert of its fourth season at Orchestra hall last night.

It is not that this is the greatest aggregation of fine voices ever gathered under one banner. Individually one presumes that they would not average much better than a lot of other fairly good voices. But what they do with them goes beyond any other choir in the memory of at least one listener. In flexibility, in power of color, in the ability to give a thrilling emphasis to a phrase; in order words, in the interpretation of music not merely as song but as fine art, this choir is in a class all by itself.

No other choir within memory ever sang Bach's "Sing ye to the Lord" with the speed of this one, though speed is of no particular merit unless it goes with complete clarity and unconfused cohesion, which was exactly the case last night. And there was an echo effect by a concealed section of the organization that was nothing short of heavenly, again something to be done perfectly or not at all.

There were three sections to the concert, one contrapuntal by ancient and modern church composers, one mostly, though not entirely, by Chicago composers, the final one by contributors to the Russian liturgy. The Chicago A Cappella choir belongs among the notables.

That excellent string quartet of which Alexander Sebald is the head and to which he has given his name appeared again at Kimball hall last night.

Miss Isabel Neilson Will Be Bride of Count von Ostheim

Cable advices from London last night announced the engagement of Miss Isabel Neilson, a Chicago girl, to Count von Ostheim, the former Prince Hermann of Saxe-Weimar.

Miss Neilson, who is well known in American and European art circles, is the daughter of Francis Neilson of 4800 Drexel boulevard, a former member of the British parliament, and his first wife, the former Catherine O'Gorman. In 1917, Mr. Neilson married Mrs. Helen Swift Morris, the widow of Edward Morris, Chicago packer. Neither made any comment on the announcement last night.

Count von Ostheim is a third cousin of the late Grand Duke Wilhelm Ernst of Saxe-Weimar, who died in 1923. The count in 1909 was deprived of his title of prince and reduced to the position of an ordinary noble. He was consequently barred from succession to the throne. In 1909 he married Wanda Lottero, an Italian actress.

Great Artists Pay Tribute to Music Lover

BY HAZEL MOORE.

Probably no more fitting memorial could have been given by the Friends of Opera for the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick than the concert yesterday afternoon at the Palmer house by four of the world famous artists in whom Mrs. McCormick so delighted during her life.

The four who sang yesterday arrived to do honor to the memory of a great art patron from various points of the country. Charles Hackett and John Charles Thomas traveled considerable distance, Mme. Claudia Muzio happened to be here in the course of her extended concert tour, while Mme. Claire Dux is closest both by point of residence and closeness of friendship to the late Mrs. McCormick.

Extreme simplicity and dignity marked the hour's brief program. Mrs. Meeker thanked the artists who so gladly supplied the program and the hotel management which paid tribute to the person who had done so much for Chicago by offering the use of the hall, and urged the Friends of Opera to carry on. Mrs. Waller Borden read a touching resolution to the memory of her late friend.

The artists were not introduced, nor did they need introduction. If there seemed any lack of appreciation in the silence which greeted each number it was at the request of the artists themselves. To mention the individual songs in each group would be but to enumerate the virtues of these great artists. Suffice it to say that Mr. Hackett's voice had never sounded warmer, that the superb and delicate artistry of Claire Dux was never more in evidence, that the voice of Mme. Muzio wrung tears with the poignancy of her singing, and the fine resonant baritone of Mr. Thomas but made us realize what Chicago has lost with the passing, though we hope temporarily, of the dream of Mrs. McCormick, a great Chicago opera company.

Friends of Opera a Pack Room at Edith McCormick Memorial

Concert Suggested by Mrs. Francis Johnson Is Lovely Tribute to Patroness of Music.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. FRANCIS JOHNSON shared the appreciation and gratitude of the huge audience that overflowed the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house yesterday with the four great artists who gave the program at the concert in memory of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, for it was her idea that the Friends of Opera should hold such a memorial to their late honorary chairman. It was a beautiful tribute to one who was perhaps the greatest patroness of music Chicago has had, especially the form of music in which yesterday's artists, Mme. Claire Dux, Mme. Claudio Muzio, Charles Hackett, and John Charles Thomas are stars, grand opera.

There wasn't a dry eye in the room when Mr. Thomas finished singing "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," for although the whole program was touching and lovely, that old hymn especially brought the tears which were so near the surface anyway to the eyes of all those who had been associated with Mrs. McCormick in her support of opera.

And those who knew Mrs. McCormick well were particularly touched by Mr. Hackett's singing of "Il Mio Tesoro," for they remembered how enthusiastic she had been when he sang it at a meeting of the Friends of Opera last January. In the few words which Mrs Arthur Meeker, chairman, welcomed the audience and asked that, by request of the artists, there be no applause, she urged the Friends of Opera to dedicate themselves to carrying on the cause of music, to support the symphony orchestra and all good music, and to work to bring about the return of our own grand opera company.

The artists gave their services and the Palmer house gave the use of the room, Mrs. Meeker announced. Greenery, banked almost to the ceiling, and three tall urns with long stemmed, pale yellow roses (Mrs. McCormick's favorite flower) formed a background for the improvised stage.

Among the hundreds in the audience were Mrs. Johnson, lovely in black with a single orchid pinned at the point of her V necked gown; Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mr. Meeker, Miss Helen Gilbert, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Miss Marie Rozet and her sister, Mrs. William P. Hunt; Miss Janet Fairbank, Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall, Mrs. Holbrook Clarke, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. George H. Taylor, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. Benjamin F. Taylor, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mrs. Aldis J. Browne, Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher M. Durbin, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker, Mrs. Livingston Fairbank, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. William A. Yager, Mrs. Richard T. Crane, Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, and Mrs. Edward Hines.

After the concert Mr. Thomas and Mr. Hackett were guests at an informal party given by Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick at their residence, 209 Lake Shore drive. Later Mr. Hackett was among the guests at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Meeker.

Edwina Embree Is Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Embree of the Ambassador East announce the engagement of their daughter, Edwina Rogers, to Edward Mumford, son of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Mumford of Beaconsfield, England. Miss Embree, a former student at Swarthmore college, is this year a senior at the University of Hawaii, and Mr. Mumford, a graduate of Cambridge university, is engaged in scientific research with the Hawaiian Sugar

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, and he and his wife, an ill bred pair, hold a strange influence over her. The three hold nightly seances in the library. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half-Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister, Rachel, are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Brasselton, an old friend in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London asking her to search for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified. Her body is found in a ditch near her estate. She'd been brutally murdered. The Tilburys are left Caroline's fortune on condition they search for the Holy Grail in the ruin of an ancient abbey on the estate which Caroline believed to be her father's wish. Natasha is arrested. It is learned that the man she'd been meeting secretly was her wastrel brother, Michael, who is wanted for theft and has left the country. News is received of his death. Natasha is brought to trial. She is freed, though still under suspicion. Neil continues the murder search. He suspects Albert Stokes, attendant at the garage where Caroline's car was kept, of stealing the lost bag, which Neil knew contained papers Tilbury might be anxious to recover. Natasha disappears. Neil forms a searching party. She is found, unconscious, in the bottom of a cave in the abbey ruin, where Tilbury had thrown her, wounded, in the battle to find her. Tilbury is killed. When Natasha recovers she tells her experiences.

INSTALLMENT LVIII.

THE PATH OF GLORY.

Tilbury, during his association with the chemist at Chester, had acquired a slight knowledge of certain matters, including the properties of thyroid extract. He knew that the preparation, though not a poison, could produce very frightening symptoms in given cases, and he rightly guessed that Miss Bundy did not require the stimulant and therefore would react in the desired manner. Her bad eyesight made her an easy prey, besides which Connie was usually at hand to divert her attention while the stuff was being poured into the cup or glass. The results were entirely satisfactory, except in one respect. The old lady, secretly terrified of dying, clamored yet more importunately for convincing proofs of her father's authorship.

Tilbury realized that by hook or crook he must get in touch with the Bundy records. Playing a bold hand, he announced his intention of quitting Glastonbury at once. Fearful of losing him, Miss Bundy offered him the position of bailiff, and so by one stroke he solved his present financial problems and brought himself a step nearer his goal. Even so, he was debarred from the actual study, which its owner shrewdly kept under lock and key.

He would have had to burglarize it but for the happy chance which brought the American writer to the house on the morning following his own arrival. He himself had something to do with Miss Bundy's decision to get the biography executed without further delay, for it was her precarious health which made her afraid to postpone the undertaking any longer.

Exactly as Neil Starkey supposed, Tilbury obtained wax impressions of every key in the bunch, so that from now on he had only to leave the window giving on the rose arbor unlatched after the seance in order to climb in, unlock the various cases, and browse to his heart's content. Seeing an opportunity to borrow a page of Bundy's writing, he took that along to save time, photographed it, and after a few hours' sedulous practice, contrived to produce a creditable copy.

That very evening he wrote in the dead scientist's own hand. Miss Bundy, electrified by what seemed to clinch matters beyond a doubt, went at her project like a house afire. The Power had reached its zenith. Who but Theodore Bundy himself could indite these strange and crabbed characters which scarcely any one could read; who, moreover, had ever addressed her with the stern voice of command, so that she inwardly trembled and dared not disobey?

Within a few days this passage appeared:

"March 4th. Carrie, Hannah, and I"—(note the Christian names, hitherto not mentioned)—"know that you are an ill woman . . . Blood pressure far above normal, heart failing. Your own stupidity, you were always stupid, though a good girl. . . . Still, not entirely your fault. Your mother died of high blood pressure. . . . At any moment you may succumb to a fatal attack. . . . Death or paralysis—what then? The Sacred Sign will disappear forever. Everything rests with you. Why can't you realize your responsibility? If you fail me, I shall be exceedingly displeased. Suppose you die without leaving any provision for the work to be carried on? Oxford antiquarians—bah! Irreligious lot, and not one sees beyond his nose. Fools—fools! It is your duty to help me confound them."

And then the references to matters she alone understood:

"You recall Mrs. S? A good woman—but less useful than A. T., who possesses a purer soul. Yes, your mother did come to encourage me in June, 1921. A clear demonstration. I even caught a whiff of the lavender water she always used. . . . And the old men shall see visions. . . . I was right about many things in my youth. . . . You know Barnes disagreed with my original contention—" (Here followed a quoted passage from the work withdrawn from publication).

"It seems written that you will pass over to us, like Hannah, at the age of sixty-three. That is why it is so urgent for you to make arrangements at once. Keep your own counsel, but think, plan. . . . A. T. invaluable to success of enterprise. Without him you can do nothing, but he is not aware. . . . No one else will do your bidding with no thought of self. . . . The mists between us are often thick. Sometimes I fear the connection may be severed before . . ."

Before what? Did this mean she might die before he could convey to her all he wished to say? The poor woman, now wholly obsessed by her desire for fame, began to see she might have to content herself with posthumous glory. Some one other than herself must be commandeered and equipped to carry out the work in her name—but where to look for suitable agents?

The writings themselves provided the clue. Alfred and Connie—who else? Those simple souls, selected by her father! They only would labor in her behalf, give all the credit to her. For that matter they would be obliged to do so, if the will were properly worded. What a masterly idea! The obscure creature saw herself crowned by future humanity—a seeress, almost a saint. It must be so.

What passed in her thoughts is, of course, only surmise. The plotters, knowing nothing, must have had some anxious moments while she hung fire, hampered by timidity and, perhaps till the last, fearful of incurring ridicule. Giles Gisborne's words had stung her badly. She felt she must run no undue risk. She continued to demand further tests, till, in a fit of anger towards the gardener—the latter's position undermined by Tilbury—she collapsed and had to relinquish what was now her chief interest in life. The Tilburys were panic-stricken. Suppose she died without making her will? However, the attack was only a slight premonitory one which supplied just what was wanted to bring her to the desired point.

Luck again—but at the crucial moment Emily Brasselton loomed on the horizon, threatening utter ruin to the skillfully laid scheme.

Up to the present Tilbury had counted on the continued administration of thyroid to bring about death from apparently natural causes. Now he was forced to seek other means or abandon his idea. From the conversation which passed between Neil and the head mistress, Mrs. Tilbury learned that the latter was not only suspicious regarding the seances but confident of freeing her friend from all delusions once she had her to herself. On no account must the two women be allowed to go away together; and yet it would be equally fatal to oppose the joint holiday, for in that case Miss Brasselton would pounce on the conspirators at once and find means of exposing their deception. For a brief space there seemed no way out of the impasse, then a solution, perilous, but brilliant, flashed into Alfred's mind.

Miss Bundy herself played into his hand by insisting on a midnight seance. She sought her father's guidance—and got it. She was advised to go to Rome, but commanded categorically to put her affairs in order before she set off on what might be her last journey. Deeply agitated, she slept over the counsel, and next day, having agreed to her friend's proposal, was heard telephoning her solicitor to come to Stoke Paulton that afternoon.

Acute tension. What did she intend to do? Those concerned must not show curiosity, yet it was essential for them to know the terms of the new will. They asked to get off on a jaunt, and while Alfred drove to Bristol to explore a certain wild region thereabouts, Connie got out of the car at the first bend and slipped unseen into the house. Hidden under the library sofa, she listened to all that took place, and when her husband returned triumphantly reported what she had heard. Yes, actually the old lunatic had left them nearly all her fortune—with conditions, it was true—but what did such silly conditions amount to?

They had to pinch themselves to make sure they were not dreaming. They, Alfred and Con, to inherit this luxurious estate! They joined hands and danced around the sitting room in childish rapture! If only their old associates could know what was in store for them! What would that disdainful, interfering Andreyev girl say if she guessed what had happened right under her nose?

However, Connie had not quite foreseen what her Alf had in that clever brain of his. When he told her his plan she recoiled in horror. No, no! That was not what she'd reckoned on! She could not do it! Why, poor old Carrie had been good to them! Never, never, not even for him!

In a blind fit to revolt she rushed out into the night—for what? She sobbed out something about telling Miss Bundy, warning her—but whether or not she meant to do this no one would ever know.

Society Girl Sees Need of Lunch Fund

She is one of those pretty young things whose path through life has been a velvet carpet compared to the rocky road many Chicago youngsters know.

Down in the Maxwell street yesterday, at the big public school where one of her old classmates is now one of the city's unpaid teachers, she came into vivid contact with that seamy side of life she'd read about only in books. The teacher was showing her called the school lunchroom where the Hungry School Children's fund donations are turned into hot hamburger sandwiches and boiled potatoes and glasses of milk and cookies.

"Why—my bouquet the other day cost more than all the lunches in the room right now," she exclaimed to her old friend. The teacher nodded, knowing that the "other day" had referred to a debut and that the flowers had cost very much more than the ten cent meals then being consumed by thirty-two hungry children. They were filling meals, though the main repast of the day for those needy boys and girls.

"If more people realized how little it costs to keep one of these pupils well nourished this winter they would be only too glad to help out when we are needing it so much," the teacher remarked in relating the incident.

Ten cents a day means the difference between health and danger and suffering for one child. The price of an ordinary cigar. Far less than one spends on a good movie. Not as much as a package of cigarets. Only a fraction of the cost of a pound of good candy.

Especially on cold days the Hungry School Children's fund proves its worth in helping the poorly clad children to battle colds and disease by keeping them nourished and warm. Donations of any size are greatly needed and will be acknowledged here.

Those received yesterday were:

$25—Jno. F. Clark & Co.
$20.00—A Friend.
$10.00—S. M. B. and L. B. H., Chicago; Mrs. John T. Campbell, Mrs. L. Hill.

Mooseheart Flower Show to Continue Over Sunday

The fourth annual flower show at Mooseheart will continue over next Sunday. Under the supervision of Andrew Hayden, a display of more than 125 varieties of chrysanthemums has been arranged in the Mooseheart greenhouse and many visitors throughout the Fox River valley have driven through the grounds to see the flowers. The display is arranged with a huge basket of Kershaws as a centerpiece—a gold and bronze blossom that has been intensively developed during the last three years. Mooseheart is thirty-seven miles west of Chicago on the Lincoln highway.

Planters' experimental station in Honolulu.

The wedding will take place during Christmas week at Arcadia, the residence of former Gov. and Mrs. Walter F. Frear in Honolulu. Mr. and Mrs. Embree, who will return in a day or two from a trip to New York, are planning to sail from California on Dec. 16 for Honolulu to be present at their daughter's marriage.

The newly reorganized Army and Navy club announces a cabaret dinner dance as a housewarming party for its new headquarters in the Lake Shore Athletic club to be held on Saturday night, Nov. 26. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, and the ranking army and navy officers of the Sixth corps area and the Ninth naval district and their wives will be special guests at the dinner.

The Army and Navy club, established in 1903, has not had official headquarters of its own for several years, so there is general rejoicing now at its reorganization and establishment of a center for military and naval affairs. The new home occupies the entire fifth floor of the Lake Shore Athletic club and includes lounges for ladies as well as a number of separate rooms which will be decorated by various divisional and regimental units with their own colors.

Col. George T. Langhorne, president of the club, is expected to return with Mrs. Langhorne from California in time for the opening. Maj. Gen. Parker and Rear Admiral Cluverius are honorary chairmen of the board.

Cudahys to Visit in East.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy are planning to go to New York late this month for a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John N. Stearns [Alice Cudahy McCormick]. In January the Cudahys will go to Pasadena for their customary winter visit.

Mrs. John C. Slade of Evanston is expecting her sister, Mrs. Keyes Stillwell, to arrive on the 28th of this month for a visit. Mrs. Stillwell and Mrs. Susan R. Lord again this winter will occupy the villa El Pinar at Palma, on the island of Mallorca, that they had last winter, going there soon after the first of the year.

Mrs. Lord, who spent the summer at her residence in Dorset, Vt., is planning to sail on Jan. 7 for Mallorca. She is spending the autumn and early winter with her daughters, Mrs. Edward G. Wyckoff Jr. of Merion, Pa.; Mrs. Nathaniel Tyler Jr. of Short Hills, N. J., and Mrs. Russell E. Post of New York.

Mrs. Alfred N. Mitchell [Mary Couch] and her two months old son, William, will depart today for their home in Bombay, India. Mrs. Mitchell returned from India in the early summer to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Couch, of 232 East Walton place and Glenview.

Arthur Meeker Jr., who has been abroad since midsummer, will board a homeward bound boat on Saturday.

Holiday Sale of Woman's Exchange.

Yesterday's mail brought a card announcing the annual Christmas sale of the Woman's Exchange in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel on Wednesday, Nov. 30. The card, signed by "Narcissa N. Thorne" (Mrs. James Ward Thorne), president of the exchange, says: "We will show our newest and loveliest stock at greatly reduced prices and our toys will be irresistible. Please help us through this difficult period by selecting some of your Christmas gifts at our exhibit."

A buffet luncheon will be served from 11:30 until 2 o'clock for the shoppers and the saleswomen. All the directors sell at these Christmas sales.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, and Mrs. W. Robinson will have box parties this morning at the first of the Kinsolving musicals at the Blackstone hotel and Mrs. Bernard A. Eckhart, Mrs. Leroy A. Goddard, Mrs. Charles M. Hewitt, Mrs. Joseph H. Defrees, and Mrs. William W. Gurley will share a box.

Among those who have made reservations are: Mrs. Clifford D. Caldwell, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Frank R. Fuller, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Darius Miller, Mrs. John L. Senior, Mrs. Alden B. Swift, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Waller Borden, and Mrs. William D. McIlvaine.

The program is to be given by the Vienna Saengerknaben. The boys will sing Mozart's opera, "Bastien and Bastienne," and will be garbed as periwigged gentlemen or hoop skirted ladies of the rococo period.

Although Mrs. Harry H. Shearson is in New York and will remain there until some time in December, the tea to be given for members of the Needlework and Textile guild following their annual meeting this afternoon at the Casino will be her party, as she has made all the arrangements for it by mail. The principal business of the afternoon will be the election of thirteen members to the board of directors. Their names have been submitted by the nominating committee.

With the election over, the women can roam about the rooms at will to examine the specimens of members' handiwork which will be exhibited. All of the guild members are famed for their exquisite needlework, and they are as interested in each other's creations as they are in museum pieces.

One thing which is sure to attract a lot of admiration is the 9 by 12 rug which Mrs. Kent S. Clow of Lake Forest has just completed for her husband's den—a stunning thing embroidered in squares depicting Mr. Clow's favorite sports. Since this meeting is not open to guests, each member must present her invitation card at the door.

White Elephant Rummage Sale.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, the lady who has typed so many notes in behalf of the White Elephant Rummage shop which sells second hand articles to benefit the Children's Memorial hospital, now asks a mention of the shop's home dressmakers' sale, to be held today, a week earlier than usual, because of Thanksgiving.

Among other things on sale there will be some remarkable pieces of upholstering materials donated by David Zork. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings will be in charge, as usual, and will have several young women assisting.

"The Ghost in Literature and the Drama" will be discussed by Clemence Dane before members and guests of the Drama league at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Drake hotel. The lecture will be followed by tea at which members of the cast of "There's Always Juliet" will be guests of the league.

The number of costumes of the last century which have been unearthed by people interested in "When Chicago Was Young," which is now running at the Goodman theater makes one wonder if the gowns and wraps of today will be as carefully preserved by their wearers and as quaintly intriguing to future generations as are these fashions of the eighties and nineties.

Tonight there will be on exhibition in the Goodman lobby an elaborate black and white striped gown worn by Mrs. Myra Bradwell to the ball given by the late Mrs. Potter Palmer for the Infanta Eulalia.

This gown has been loaned by Mrs. Bradwell's granddaughter, Mrs. Stuart Pritchard of Battle Creek, Mich., who is coming to Chicago for the occasion tonight.

Mrs. Bradwell and her husband, Judge James B. Bradwell, were important figures in Chicago during the sixties.

Festive commotion reigned at the Woman's City club yesterday afternoon, with the sale of bazaar gifts, a fashion show, fortune telling, cards, and tea all going on at the same time. The bazaar with all of these additional features will continue today from 10 until 6 o'clock.

There will be a new selection of costumes modeled today and the booths will be stocked with a new supply of surprise packages donated by prominent members of the club.

What the clear staccato notes of pizzicato are to a concerto, the jewels of brilliant color to a painter's canvas, and the gay lilt of good humor to a personality, so those things piquant, seeds, dashes of oriental spices, and measured drops of savory sauces, are to the art of cookery.

One of the best ways I have found for seeing to it that seasonings were on tap for instant service is to place them all together, labeled clearly, in a regular wooden utensil tray usually bought for holding silver ware or kitchen equipment. If this is given a permanent throne near the stove or in a low convenient corner of the cabinet there will be no danger of mislaying these important spices behind canned goods at the moment they are most needed. While many of the following suggestions will be used only occasionally, it is these occasional touches which add piquancy to meals. I shall add also to this list a few of the relishes a canny cook keeps on her emergency shelf to add zest to languid meals:

HERBS, SPICES, ETC.	RELISHES, ETC.
White pepper	Pickles [various kinds]
Black pepper	Jams, jellies, preserves
Paprika	Olives [green, ripe and stuffed]
Peppercorns	Maraschino cherries
Bay leaves	Chow-chow
Curry powder	Chutneys
Anise seed	Chives
Caraway seed	Pimientos
Celery seed	Onions
Sage	Garlic
Thyme	Radishes
Mace	Candied ginger
Ginger	Cider vinegar
Mustard [ground]	Tarragon vinegar
Allspice	Sugar sirup
Cinnamon [ground and stick]	Caramel sirup
Cloves [whole and ground]	Honey
Nutmeg	Molasses
Poultry seasoning	Maple sirup
Marjoram	Corn sirup
Ketchup [tomato and mushroom]	Sugars [brown, lump, granulated, powdered, confectioners']
Chili sauce
Tabasco sauce
Worcestershire
Prepared mustard

Another form of seasoning is the extract or flavoring. It is well to have at least the following on hand:

EXTRACTS AND FLAVORINGS.
Lemon	Black walnut
Vanilla	Rose
Almond	Wine flavors [nonalcoholic]
Orange	Maple
Pineapple
Strawberry

In addition to the above rather intermixed boosts for good flavor, a well equipped emergency shelf should contain the following if a last minute dive to the grocery is to be avoided:

ADDITIONS TO THE EMERGENCY SHELF.
Cocoa	Canned soups, consommés and bouillons]
Chocolate [sweet and bitter]	Crackers [cheese, salt, soda, graham, whole wheat]
Coconut	Cookies
Bouillon cubes	Chipped beef
Tea [green and black]	Bacon
Coffee	Fish flakes
Coffee substitute	Fish pastes
Evaporated milk	Canned meats and fish [tongue, salmon, sardines, chicken, etc.]
Condensed milk	Baking powder
Fruit juices	Baking soda
Mayonnaise	Cream of tartar
French dressing	Vegetable coloring
Thousand Island dressing	Prepared flours
Salad oil	Gelatin [granulated and as a sweetened powder]
Salted nuts	Cornstarch
Nut meats	Salt
Ready to eat cereals
Uncooked cereals
Dried fruits [dates, figs, prunes, peaches]
Canned vegetables [numerous kinds].

White Starched Linen Collar Tops Velveteen Frock for the Jeune Fille

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—It is fashionable to wear round, starched collars atop of velveteen frocks. They suggest such fabulous infantile characters as Lord Fauntleroy, and their innocent appearance sets off to a T the wise face of the Parisian elegante, who likes nothing better than such a transparent masquerade.

The velveteen and starched collar vogue, however, is made to order for the young girl, who faces the world with fresh innocence. She is the real, logical inheritor of this kind of frock, an example of which is pictured today.

The dress in the sketch is one of Bruyere's prize models of the season, being worn by lots of Parisiennes old enough to know better but chic enough to get away with it. It is made of a rich wine brown velveteen, and is a wrap-around dress, closed by an L buttoned on two buttons above the waistline and one below at the top of the skirt.

The sleeves are the kind of shrunken leg o' mutton that are the most fashionable dress sleeves in Paris.

The belt is of brown patent leather, closed with two copper bars and rings; the buttons are red with copper rims.

The collar, made of white starched linen, is stitched in brown thread, has a little standing collar around the neck, and is held closed by a bow of red ribbon.

D.A.R. to Show Handiwork of Schools in Mountains

The wheel and distaff committee of the Chicago chapter of the D. A. R. will present "Cindy's Chance," a mountain school play in four scenes, under the direction of Mrs. Philip L. Mathisen at a program this afternoon at the Stevens hotel. An exhibit and sale of handiwork of pupils of mountain schools supported by the chapter will be held after the program.

Practical Frock for Daytime Wear May Be Developed in Silk or Woolen

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This smart frock is just right for daytime wear, and is suitable for one of the new rough silk crêpes or a light weight woolen. The buttoned bodice effect is attractive and the sleeves are button trimmed. The skirt is set on a pointed yoke at the front, a style feature that is equally becoming to the matronly or slender figure.

The pattern, No. 2954, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material.

First Exhibit of Arts Club Great Success

Persian Paintings Have Lovely Ladies.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club's first exhibition of the season is a great success. A large gallery is devoted to the intriguing Persian paintings, pictures in which the story telling element predominates with charming ladies, whimsical animals and gallant youths carrying the plot in their lithe forms. The color in the Persian paintings is subdued, rich and as fascinating as an undertone of music in the wings while the curtain is up on a romantic dramatic incident.

Down the long hall drawings by the French sculptor, Aristide Maillol, are hung. These are drawings probably intended as themes for future sculpture groups. They are all of the female torso or full length, chiefly of the back, in which the modeling is more obvious and, by Maillol, brilliantly done. There is great beauty about several of the drawings. The "Pastel" is superb. "Grand nu de dos" is another brilliant piece of modeling.

The round room and the smaller gallery are devoted to the paintings and sculpture of contemporary American artists working in New York. They present a lesson which Chicago modernists would do well to read. None of the artists represented but belong to the younger and modern group, yet the paintings are many of them delightful. They are thoughtful and beautiful renderings of a theme that with us has not progressed far beyond the turbulent and muddled era.

Some of the canvases are obvious, the majority are subtle. Anne Goldthwaite has a fascinating little darky on a mule riding through a tender green field in "Sugar Cane." Pop Hart is amusing, quick and alive in "Street Fair, Fort Lee." Charles Sheeler is antiseptic and clear cut in "New Haven."

Max Weber offers delicate and beautiful painting in the still life "Flowers." William Zorach intrigues us with a composite of rural opportunities in "Maine Landscape." The "Guinea Pigs," a sculpture in stone by Mr. Zorach, is captivating, too.

The exhibition will continue to Dec. 15 and is worth seeing.

Wife Wheedles Every Penny Out of Hard Up Mate

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I remained a bachelor until I was 37. Then I fell for a sweet young thing of 23. After I swore I'd never marry, this is what I wished upon myself.

"Things were fine for a year. I gave my wife everything I could afford. But she is no longer satisfied now with the things I can afford. She makes impossible demands. She wants a new car, a seashore bungalow, clothes away beyond my power to buy. I have explained I'm in debt now trying to keep up with her requests.

"She pouts, and with her feminine charm is still able to vamp me into saying yes. I am weak, I know. I just can't resist her advances that make me give in. [Pretty, and the It qualities, you understand.] If I refuse her a thing, she has a way of sulking, pouting, etc., and then comes the vamping. How can I cure her of ruining me financially? I am terribly in debt. And I love the girl too much to separate. BEWILDERED JOHN."

Separation wouldn't be the solution, anyway, "John." That's the kind of girl who'd vamp your earnings for the rest of your life out of an alimony granting jury.

No, your only hope now lies in putting the child on your hands on some wise disciplinary plan. I don't guarantee its possibility after the formative period of giving in to her every request. But it's your only chance.

Don a coat of armor to protect you against the wiles while you talk finances. If you don't put a little stiffening in that backbone of yours, the girl will walk out on you because you haven't enough money to supply her with what she wants. If you haven't money, then you'll have to give her character to hold her. Better pull a stern parent act on her, since she has the mind of an infant.

French Swarm Paris Hotel in Effort to Get Look at Garbo

PARIS, Nov. 16.—(AP)—An extra detail of police was stationed today at the hotel, where Greta Garbo, who has been seeking obscurity by wearing a dark wig and otherwise disguising herself, is staying while visiting Paris.

The purpose of the police was to keep traffic moving. Miss Garbo's disguise worked with some success and she was able to take a long promenade without being recognized. Movie fans learned about her presence in Paris, however, and descended on her hotel.

The actress came here from London; where she also used a disguise.

What $16,000 buys in The American Weekly

A full page in color more than twice the size of any other magazine page in the world . . . 5,500,000 families at a cost of less than ⅓ cent per family . . . The attention of the entire family instead of a single buying factor.

IN times like these, the manufacturer who waits in the woods for the world to beat a path to his door, is a great optimist.

But the manufacturer who shows his "mousetraps" to the world keeps the smoke coming out of his chimney.

To make sales in volume today the manufacturer must reach buyers in volume and the magazine which has proved itself most effective for that purpose is The American Weekly.

Every Sunday this Mighty Magazine crosses the threshold of 5,500,000 homes located in the richest buying areas of the nation—the big cities and the small towns as well.

No other publication on earth offers such tremendous coverage or reaches as many people per advertising dollar.

A color page in The American Weekly, twice as big as any other magazine page, costs $16,000.

Divide that sum by 5,500,000 and you get an amazingly low figure, less than ⅓ cent per family reached.

Advertisers who use this magazine get double action for their money.

They get action from the dealer because he knows The American Weekly creates action with the consumer.

The American Weekly gets action from its readers because it is the most interesting magazine in the world.

Every issue contains something of extraordinary interest to every member of every household it visits.

People are interested in people and The American Weekly presents stories from the lives of actresses, society folk, kings and queens—their loves, their romances and their tragedies.

For the more seriously inclined, it presents authoritative and informative articles on astronomy, archaeology, religion, natural history, philosophy, biology, psychology.

For the adventurous, tours are conducted to lands beyond the horizon where strange people live and love and die according to other codes and customs.

Romance is served in absorbing serial novels from the pens of famous authors.

Fashions, household hints and the culinary art—each is treated in these varied pages.

That's why every member of every family sees the advertising in The American Weekly and that's why this magazine gets action when it shows your "mousetraps" to the world.

Where this Magazine goes

The American Weekly is the largest magazine in the world. It is distributed through 17 great Sunday Newspapers. In 558 of America's 995 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over, The American Weekly concentrates 70% of its circulation.

MAROONS SEE CHANCE TO WIN OVER BADGERS

BIG TEN MUST STOP MICHIGAN NOW OR NEVER

Notre Dame at Cross Roads with Navy.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While Notre Dame is playing the Navy at Cleveland Saturday before the largest football crowd of the season in the central states the Western conference elevens will complete the two months' screenings to determine the final standings. The case of Notre Dame will attract almost as much interest as the Minnesota-Michigan and the Purdue-Indiana games, for it involves forecast of failure or success against the Army and Southern California.

Perhaps it is unusual to ask what is the matter of a team which has won five games and lost one. But that is the position in which Notre Dame finds itself. Quoted at above par during its point a minute spree, public opinion now indicates victories for the Army and Southern California, and this will not be changed unless the Irish redeem themselves against the Navy.

Recovery Not Complete.

Notre Dame's victory over Northwestern, 21 to 0, did not convince the skeptics that Notre Dame has found itself, principally because the running attack never did get started against the Wildcat line.

Hard, clean blocking, not to mention tackling, has been considered synonymous with the name Notre Dame. Such blocking was missing against Northwestern, and the tackling was indifferent. Lateral and forward passes will succeed, as they succeeded against Northwestern, when the opposition is forced to weaken its secondary to protect its scrimmage line, but this probably will not be true against Army and certainly is not expected to be the case against the Trojans.

Many fans still believe that Notre Dame possesses all the mechanical ability necessary to make its running attack function. The defeat by Pittsburgh is credited to over confidence and the slow return to the vicious drive exhibited against Carnegie Tech is commonly supposed to rest on discouragement by that defeat. The Navy will answer the question whether Notre Dame can or will play as Notre Dame has played in its important games in the past.

Its Not All Luck.

Michigan will defeat Minnesota if Michigan's luck holds out, according to those who will not accept continued success as something entirely removed from luck. Perhaps these fans do not realize that the Wolverine play football mathematically, taking no unnecessary chances and expecting to capitalize on what, for lack of a better term, is called a break. Actually Michigan has a balanced defense which has held its opponents to two touchdowns in seven games. Its offense, which has scored on long runs, has a splendid foundation of blocking and its forward passes are thrown by the Big Ten's best passer, Harry Newman.

Minnesota may defeat Michigan. The game is no setup and probably ranks with any on the Wolverines' schedule, but you'll not find many who'll back such an opinion. Nearly all will subscribe to the belief that Michigan will lead the Big Ten this year and that Purdue will finish second.

Indiana may whip Purdue, for the Hoosiers have shown defensive strength against Ohio State [7-7] and Michigan [7-0], but its attack never has scored more than one touchdown against conference opposition. However, Purdue is certain of at least a tie for second place with Wisconsin, even if Indiana wins Saturday.

Badgers Can Tie.

The Badgers can finish in a tie with Purdue or in third place by licking the Maroons. This victory is anticipated unless Wisconsin fails for the first time to play to the best form. Wisconsin is the surprise of the season for only a missed point after touchdown in the Purdue game keeps the Badgers from an undefeated season.

If Ohio State makes full use of its superior weight to keep possession of the ball against Illinois Saturday, the Buckeyes are expected to win their second Big Ten victory, which, with two ties and one defeat should give them fourth place. Illinois, if defeated, probably will finish seventh. This is much better than advance predictions, for a year ago the Illini were last.

Minnesota will wind up in fifth position in all probability and Northwestern, if victorious over Iowa, will have the same percentage. Northwestern may not defeat Iowa, but the worst the Wildcats can get probably is a tie. If defeated, Iowa will have last position and will be the only team which failed to win a Big Ten game.

All Should Lose.

Unless Chicago and Indiana win their final games Saturday they are expected to finish eighth and ninth respectively, the difference in standings being Indiana's tie with Ohio State. Chicago, however, won over the Hoosiers.

To make the season a complete success, however, these teams, which theoretically are supposed to lose, should win, whereupon the standings will be jumbled beyond recognition.

80,000 Tickets for Army-Notre Dame Game All Sold

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—J. Arthur Haley, business manager of athletics, announced today that all tickets are sold for the Notre Dame-Army game at New York, Nov. 26. The capacity of Yankee stadium, site of the game, is 80,000.

"This is the first major game in the country, to my knowledge, to be sold out this far in advance," he said. "We have plenty of good seats left for the game with Navy at Cleveland stadium Saturday, but may have an 80,000 crowd there with good weather the rest of the week and Saturday. There are in excess of 60,000 seats sold for the Navy game to date."

Gopher Eleven Drills Indoors for Wolverines

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Although the weather moderated a trifle today, Minnesota's football squad continued to practice in the fieldhouse in preparation for the game with Michigan Saturday. The team will not get outdoors again until game time, according to present plans.

As a sort of a test for his physical ailments, Roy Oen, star center, was ordered into uniform today for a light limbering up work. Doctors said that if there are no serious reactions from the drill he would be able to play against Michigan.

Pug Lund, Jack Manders and all other cripples except Grimm were in uniform today and all of them expect to play.

While getting ready for emergencies, Coach Bierman gave Manders a chance to run at half back, with Tengler at full. This switch will be made only if Lund is unable to play the entire game.

The field will be in good shape considering the weather, it was indicated today, when Bierman saw to it that tons of hay were placed over the canvas covering to protect the gridiron from freezing.

MICHIGAN TO SEND 26

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Only 26 men were picked by Coach Harry Kipke today to make the final trip to the Minnesota game, but Kipke accounted for the smallness of the squad by saying that his men are in the best condition they have enjoyed this season. The squad which is to leave here Thursday afternoon, is the smallest that Michigan has sent on a road trip in a long time.

A final intensive workout on offense and defense took place in Yost fieldhouse today with changes seen in the lineup that promise to be final. Petoskey was back at left end, and Newman, Regeczi, Everhardus and Fay made up the backfield. The lineup is about the same as that which started the season.

Coaches were inclined to scout Minnesota's bear stories and suggested that even though they might be true, the Gophers would have the psychological advantage in the coming contest. It was feared also that weather might have as much to do with the final score as it did in the Michigan-Northwestern debacle of 1925.

Men named today to make the trip are:

Ends—Capt. Williamson, Chapman, Cox, Petoskey, and Ward.
Tackles—Austin, Damm, Nildsterand, and Wistert.
Guards—Singer, Cantrill, Kowalik, Marcovsky, and Savage.
Centers—Bernard, Ford, and Fnog.
Backs—De Behar, Everhardus, Fay, Heston, Newman, Oliver, Regeczi, Renner, and Westover.

DEATH OF STAR CANCELS COLLEGE GRID SCHEDULE

Colorado Springs, Col., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Colorado college's remaining football games were canceled by the athletic board following the death of Ralph McClure, 21 year old star, who died today of injuries received last Saturday in the game with the University of Colorado.

McClure incurred a fracture of the cervical vertebrae when he tackled George Grosvenor, University of Colorado half back. His widow and a six months old baby survive. Colorado college was to meet Colorado Mines here next Saturday and New Mexico at Albuquerque on Nov. 26.

HAWKS TRY AGAIN TONIGHT FOR 1ST WIN; PLAY LEAFS

Another Chance

BLACKHAWKS.		MAPLE LEAFS.
Gardiner	G	Chabot
Abel	D	Day
Graham	D	Clancy
Geitselig	C	Primeau
Couture	R. W.	Conacher
Thompson	L. W.	Jackson

All the Chicago Blackhawks have to do tonight to accomplish their first victory of the season is smack down the world champion Toronto Maple Leafs, their guests of the evening at the Coliseum.

There are reasons why this matter of whipping the champs is looked upon as a man sized task, not the least of them being the presence of the Leafs' starting forward line, composed of those brilliant performers, Charley Conacher, Joe Primeau, and Harvey Jackson. These three youngsters, in case you've forgotten, grabbed off the No. 1, 2, and 4 spots in the National league scoring standings last season.

Jackson Leads League.

Jackson last year led the league, despite the fact he was out a month with injuries. Harvey had 53 points—28 goals and 25 assists. Joe was second with 50 points—13 goals and 37 assists—his work on assists setting a new league record. Conacher's 34 goals and 14 assists for a total of 48 points rated him fourth among the league leaders.

There is nothing slouchy about Manager Connie Smythe's second and third lines, either. His second trio is composed of the able veterans, Hal Darragh, Ace Bailey, and Harold Cotton. The third line carries the only rookie on the champs' roster, Ken Doraty, high scorer in the International league last year. Doraty will perform with Bob Gracie and Andy Blair.

The Leafs' defense group always has a following. King Clancy long has been a big attraction, while Happy Day and Red Horner are well known to the bugs throughout the National league. Alex Levinsky, lone Jewish player in the league, has progressed greatly and will see service at the Coliseum tonight. Lorne Chabot, the champs' vet, will be on hand to guard the visitors' nets.

Stadium Is Ready.

The controversy between Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Hawks, who took his team out of the Chicago Stadium to the Coliseum following a disagreement over various matters, yesterday continued in a deadlock, it was said.

The Stadium corporation, which announced it would file a $150,000 suit against the Hawks last Monday morning, then failed to do it, was said to be planning an elaborate program to strengthen the corporation's proposed suit when and if it is filed.

It was said that there will be ice, a hockey set up, and a corps of 60 ushers on hand at the Stadium tonight.

In response to rumors that Stadium representatives had been in conference with Maj. McLaughlin yesterday afternoon, and that a peace agreement was imminent, the Hawk owner last evening said: "There was no conference and there are no new developments in the matter."

TULSA DROPS OUT OF AMERICAN HOCKEY LEAGUE

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 16.—(AP)—W. P. Grant, president of the American Hockey league, announced tonight that the Tulsa club was definitely out of competition this year, leaving Kansas City, St. Louis, St. Paul and Duluth to form the circuit. The Chicago Shamrocks dropped out of the league after the close of last season.

Financial difficulties proved too great a barrier for the Oilers to clear, Grant said. Most of the outstanding Tulsa players will be signed by other league teams.

Joe Rue, who has been affiliated with President Grant in operating the Kansas City club, informed Grant by telephone tonight that Tulsa's difficulties were insurmountable. Rue has been in Tulsa for several days.

Grimm Visits Veeck; to Talk of Deals Later

Charley Grimm, manager of the Cubs, yesterday spent a few hours in Chicago during which he called on President William Veeck for an informal chat.

"I transacted no business with the boss and no deals were discussed," Manager Grimm said after the visit. "I will be back in Chicago Dec. 1 to stay a week and it will be seven days of work, after which I'll attend the minor league meetings in Columbus, the National league meeting, and the joint meeting of the majors."

The Cub skipper said he hadn't been having as much fun as usual this fall. The weather has been pretty bad in Normandy, Mo., Charley said.

Pittsburgh Adds Minnesota, Navy to 1933 Schedule

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Minnesota and the Navy will replace Army and Ohio State on the University of Pittsburgh football schedule for 1933. The Panthers will meet the Navy at Pitt stadium on Oct. 14, and Minnesota at Minneapolis on Oct. 21.

The Panthers will open the season against Washington and Jefferson on Sept. 30. It will be the first game since 1929 with the Presidents. The schedule follows:

Sept. 30—Washington-Jefferson at Pittsburgh.
Oct. 7—West Virginia at Morgantown.
Oct. 14—Navy at Pittsburgh.
Oct. 21—Minnesota at Minneapolis.
Oct. 29—Notre Dame at South Bend.
Nov. 4—Nebraska at Pittsburgh.
Nov. 11—Duquesne at Pitt stadium.
Nov. 18—Open (tentatively).
Nov. 25—Open.
Nov. 30—Carnegie Tech at Pitt stadium.

N. U. CUTS TICKET PRICES FOR IOWA GAME SATURDAY

Jakie Sullivan Picked to Lead Wildcat Attack.

Ticket prices in the regular stands at Dyche stadium will be reduced for the first time at the Northwestern-Iowa game Saturday, when a section of the west end stands will be thrown open to general admission at $1.10. These seats are adjacent to the student section. High school students and their teachers will be admitted to the upper deck in the west stands for 55 cents.

The only relaxations of the ticket prices for Northwestern games in the past have been the admitting of high school students to the temporary north and south stands several times and the throwing open of these temporary bleachers to general admission at $1.65 for the Ohio game two weeks ago.

Fear Iowa Passes.

Spectators may witness a free scoring game when Iowa invades Evanston for the final contest. Iowa's pass attack has been successful recently and there is no question but what the Hawkeyes mean to capitalize on the absence of Capt. Pug Rentner from the Purple lineup.

Rentner's successor, Harry Leeper, will have to take his position next Saturday with only a minimum of practice this week on pass defense.

The Hawkeyes passed their way to two fourth quarter touchdowns over Nebraska two weeks ago, something that Pitt couldn't do in four full periods of play. The Wildcats' pass defense appeared weak last Saturday when Notre Dame clicked on four out of ten throws, two of them for touchdowns.

It's Up to Sullivan.

Northwestern hasn't been a consistent ground gainer since the victory over Illinois, but expects to be able to use something besides passes against the Hawkeyes. Many of the running plays, however, were tailored for Capt. Rentner and they do not apply to the backfield combination containing Leeper.

Jakie Sullivan probably will lead the attack. Jakie hasn't had the ball many times this season, but his record is outstanding. Against Notre Dame he carried the ball five times for an average gain of 4.8 yards. His record in other games is as follows: against Illinois, 8 times, average 5.25 yards; against Ohio, 4 times, average gain 12.3 yards; against Minnesota, 2 times, average gain 7 yards; against Michigan, 7 times, average gain 5.7 yards; against Missouri, 12 times, average gain 3.9 yards.

This statistical record, coupled with Sullivan's great defensive exhibition Saturday at South Bend, may place much of the burden of Northwestern's offense on his shoulders in the final game.

Hope for Sixth Place.

If other games in the Big Ten run true to form Saturday, a victory for Northwestern should place the Wildcats in sixth place in the final standings. An Iowa victory would create a tie among Iowa, Chicago, Indiana, and Northwestern at the bottom of the heap. The Wildcats were co-champions of the Big Ten last year and in 1930.

HAWKS CHECK PURPLE PASSES

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa football team today went through the last hard practice before the Northwestern game at Evanston Saturday. Prior to a long defensive scrimmage, Coach Ossie Solem worked the backs on blocking, in an attempt to strengthen Iowa's interference, which has failed to function effectively.

In the scrimmage freshmen gained considerable yardage using Northwestern deceptive plays, but were checked on passes and straight bucks.

Solem started the same team which faced Purdue last week, with Miller and Loufek, ends; Schammel and Radloff, tackles; Kouba and Samuelson, guards; Magnussen, center; Teyro, quarter back; Laws and Schneidman, half backs, and Page, full back. Wilmon Hass alternated with Page.

It was the first day that Schneidman has participated in active drill after suffering bruises on the hip in last week's Purdue game. Solem indicated that he would use the same lineup which started practice against the freshmen today.

DILEMMA OF THE PIGSKIN.

"TIME out!" cried the ref. and smack on the ground he plunked ye oulde pigskin. . . . Raising a visage suffused with pain, the pigskin inspected the surrounding terrain and noted the grid heroes with shins quite bare, a-covered profusely with woolly hair.

At this sight the pigskin's yellow features changed to navy blue, and addressing the shaggiest limb of all, said, "I was once like you, proud of all my youth and pep, so you had better watch your step. . . . Not long ago, I'll have you know, I roamed the countryside. . . . How I strutted before the fairer sex showing off my hairy hide.

"And lo, before I realized, I found myself anatomized . . . torn from my haven, shorn and shaven, my hide was tanned, my insides canned, and I'll be panned if they didn't model me after an egg. . . . Say, you're lucky you were born a leg. . . . However, this going to college isn't so bad . . . as a matter of fact, I'm rather glad, that for old Alma Mater I can do my bit by holding up my end of it, to be kicked, pounced on, passed, and mauled.

"But, O, it's so terribly embarrassing to be completely bald!"

Inchcape Cragmoor.

Editor's note—The term "pigskin" applied to football is a misnomer or poetic license, as you choose. It originated from the fact boys once used inflated pig bladders to kick around. Modern footballs are made from cowhide. Pigskin proved too tough and unpliable. Inflation is made in a rubber bladder.

O, Let's Give Them a Chance.

Wake: On the morning following election our cat refused to drink its milk—merely sniffed at it and very promptly walked away. My mother picked him up and said, "Now, look here, kitty, you better come down to earth. Are you aware there was an election yesterday? It was a clean sweep. You may have to get down to Democratic rations, hunt your own meat, and drink water covered with chalk. My advice to you is eat while the eating is good."

Whereupon our wise cat promptly jumped off mother's lap, walked over to the pan of milk, and lapped every drop. H. P. B.

Do You Remember Way Back When:

LINE CAN STOP WISCONSIN, SAY MIDWAY SCOUTS

Farewell Party for Stagg, 13 Seniors.

The big farewell party which Mr. Stagg and 13 senior Chicago players will stage on the Midway Saturday for the benefit of Dr. Spears and the Wisconsin football team, not to mention about 18,000 guests, is going to be a surprise party for Dr. Spears, the Badgers and the guests, if their hosts' plans develop.

The spirit in the Midway camp yesterday was, "If you have works, prepare to shoot them now." The Maroons believe they have the works. And every one of the old emotions will bid them shoot.

Maroons Proud of Him.

As for the works, Maroon scouts have reported that Wisconsin is probably not quite as good as its standing would indicate: in other words, it can be beaten, and beaten by the Maroons. The Chicago line has consistently withstood the thrusts of every team it has wrestled with, except Purdue, and Wisconsin's backs can't run like the Boilermakers, they say.

The Maroons still believe they have a running back field of their own. Stagg's backs found the turf too slippery at Ann Arbor, but the Maroon field has been under a tarpaulin since before the snowstorm.

Chicago will give the Badgers only a few pounds in the matter of weight. The Maroon line which rehearsed yesterday will be four pounds lighter than the Badger wall, the biggest discrepancies occuring in the fact that Zenner, 170, will face Mario Pacetti, 202, at Wisconsin's right guard, and Bellstrom, 164, will play against Schneller, 185, at the Badger right end. In the backfield Wisconsin will have a five pound advantage, principally in Nello Pacetti's 20 pound edge over Vin Sahlin at quarterback.

Want to Wind Up Right.

As to emotions nothing more need be said than that Stagg is completing an unparalleled record in sports and the boys would like to see him complete it right. The Maroons have nothing to complain about so far as physical condition is concerned. Since the start of the season they have lost only four men who were counted on, Barton Smith, Walter Manelkis and George Mahoney, who are injured, and Cecil Storey, who is ineligible, and they have gained one unexpected recruit in Hugh Mendenhall. This is an average better than normal. With the exception of Mendenhall and Pete Zimmer, who will be slightly hampered, the squad is in its best shape.

Chiefly Stagg fears Wisconsin's passes. After a brief outdoor practice on covering punts Stagg yesterday took his men into the fieldhouse and let the freshman team shower them with passes. Otto Strohmeier, freshman coach, illustrated the Badger double and single wingback formations and pointed out that several of the Badger plays are old Chicago formations.

They'll Watch McGuire.

Yesterday's starting lineup had Tolgo and Bellstrom at ends; Cassels and Spearing at tackles; Zenner and Rapp at guards; Parsons at center, Sahlin at quarter, Birney and Zimmer at halves, and Summers at full.

Aside from breaking up Wisconsin's passing, the biggest job the Maroons face is stopping Mickey McGuire's running. Gil Berry's long run enabled Illinois to beat Chicago and Harry Newman's two long gallops won for Michigan. That was the reason for yesterday's work on punt covering.

Following a pep meeting tomorrow night two freshman teams will stage the annual Yale-Harvard game in the fieldhouse, beginning at 7:30.

BADGERS BREAK UP PASSES.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Chicago's passing attack, as enacted by Wisconsin freshmen, failed to gain against the Badger varsity team during practice in the fieldhouse this afternoon.

Using nothing but Chicago's forward passes and running attack, the freshmen back field seldom reached the line of scrimmage, although occasionally it got through to the varsity secondaries. Tackling was prohibited.

Before entering the fieldhouse, all varsity teams ran signal practice for a half hour out of doors. That was the first offensive practice for the varsity since the Minnesota game last Saturday.

Coaches said they are confident Wisconsin can run through the Chicago defense but are not sure the Badgers can beat Chicago at making yardage.

Only one of the Wisconsin regulars has been unable to scrimmage thus far. He is Harold Smith, full back, who suffered a muscle bruise in the Minnesota game. He is improving rapidly, according to William Fallon, trainer, and he may be able to play Saturday.

Grimes' Condition Good Following Appendectomy

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The condition of Burleigh Grimes, Chicago Cubs pitcher, was reported as good today following an operation for removal of his appendix. The operation was performed by Dr. Robert F. Hyland, St. Louis Cardinal club physician.

Bowie, Md., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The speed which sent Jack High to a mile record in 1930 still is his. He dashed to a decisive victory here today in the W. P. Burch Memorial handicap, even though his impost was 126 pounds. Over a fast track and with something in reserve Jack High finished the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 4-5 to return 9 to 10 to his backers.

The hopeful winner of 1928 never looked better than today, when he ran his Maryland string of victories to three straight.

They Do Come Back.

It was only this fall that the son of John P. Grier and Priscilla was brought back to competition after a layoff of more than a year. Many thought that he would not train on, but in eight starts since last September he has won three times, placed three times, and been third once.

Cornelius V. Whitney's Halcyon was the early pacemaker and he lasted well enough to get the place, half a length back of the winner and three lengths before St. Brideaux. Mr. Whitney gained a double on the day with Step Sister in the second and Mad Frump in the fifth. Jockey Robby Robertson rode both winners, which were sent to the post by Tom Healey, head trainer of the Whitney string.

Bostwick Wins on Pompeius.

The well known amateur rider, G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, who has had only a small share of success with his flat mounts, scored astride his own Pompeius in the Somerset purse.

3 Share Title in Mid-South Golf Tourney

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—A couple of veterans of golf's money campaigns, Al Watrous of Detroit and Al Houghton of Washington, and a 23 year old youngster, Henry Picard of Charleston, S. C., wound up in a triple tie for first place in the mid-south open golf tournament today.

Each shot a 143 for the 36 holes. The veterans played steady golf for their scores, while Picard romped over the course in 68 this morning and faded to a 75 in the afternoon. Watrous put together rounds of 72 and 71 and Houghton did likewise.

Split Prize Money.

The three leaders split the prize money for the first three places, getting $250 each, and decided they would not play off for the title.

As a result of finishing in a tie for the top today Watrous became the big money winner for the two days of campaigning over the difficult No. 2 course here. Yesterday he teamed with Tommy Armour of Detroit to win the best ball preliminary, worth $500.

Five players finished a stroke back of the three leaders and drew $20 each. They were Ernie Ball of Atlanta, Phil Perkins of Long Beach, N. Y.; Henry Ciuci of Flushing, N. Y.; Abe Espinosa of Chicago, and Denny Shute of Columbus, O.

Two 68s in Morning.

Walter Hagen and four others finished with 146s. Bracketed with Hagen in this group were Whitty Cox of Brooklyn, Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Willie Macfarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y., and Charlie Rice of Chicago.

Picard and Shute led the way in the morning round with 68s and both started well in the afternoon before running into trouble. Each was one under par for the first seven holes this afternoon.

Ball, another youngster, was in third place at the end of the morning round and opened the afternoon with a birdie 3, but slipped badly from there in and took a 75.

Espinosa shot the best 18 hole round of the tournament this afternoon, bagging a 67, but his 77 in the morning still left him one stroke shy of a tie for first.

NATALIE BEATS NUSS, 100-33, TO WIN CUE TOURNEY

Natalie finished his schedule of eight games without a defeat. His high run of the tournament was 51, made last night. Nuss finished with six victories and two defeats.

The tournament, which ran for ten days, gave Chicago billiard fans an opportunity to see three of the players who will participate in the world's pocket billiard championship match starting Dec. 5 in New York City. These three players are: Pasquale Natalie, Walter Franklin of Kansas City, southern sectional champion, and Bennie Allen of Kansas City, a former titleholder, who was seeded into the championship tourney. The players will leave for New York early next week. Final standing:

Turkey Talk of Trained Turkeys Decoys Gobblers

BY BOB BECKER.

In Illinois hunting fields sportsmen may "point with pride" to tame goose decoys which are so accustomed to their job that they do not have to be tied up when placed near a blind. But it appears that Albany, Ga., has the edge in the matter of turkey decoys.

A few years ago we hunted wild turkeys with Charles Evans of Mississippi. On this hunt he trotted out a tame turkey decoy, the first specimen of its kind that we had seen. Now comes Wilbur Wortman, Albany, Ga., sportsman with a flock of six domestic turkeys which have been trained to attract gobblers out of the woods. Wortman has been so successful with this flock of decoys that he spends a great deal of his spare time training recruits in the turkey decoy patrol.

Apparently the tame turkeys are trained to be flirts and ballyhoo artists. These decoys are placed out in front of the hunter and there they "yoo-hoo" to the old gobblers way back in the woods. The result of this long distance calling is that Mr. Gobbler falls for the come-on chatter and usually comes up within shooting range. About this time the foxy decoy does a fadeout and the hunter enters the picture.

While training his decoys Wortman teaches them to follow him as if they were pet dogs, and by whistling he guides them through the woods. He starts taking the young birds into the woods when they are only a few weeks old. The purpose is to get them accustomed to remaining in unfamiliar places without becoming alarmed. Then he has to get them used to gunshots. When thoroughly trained the decoy turkeys will ride in an automobile without being tied and can be turned loose in the woods near the hunter.

There are quite a number of wild turkeys within a short distance of Albany, Ga., so the famous tame decoys of that city have plenty of opportunity to practice their tricks. Last year a hunter from the central states who was sampling the excellent quail hunting in that part of Georgia took a couple of days to see if he could establish contact with some wild gobblers and actually bagged a fine specimen within a stone's throw of the Radium Springs golf course. A well trained turkey decoy did the trick. It yodeled so seductively that it fooled the wild gobbler completely.

However, the game isn't as simple or as easy for the decoys as one might think. Sometimes wildcats answer the calls of the tame birds and make a successful stalk. Then it is good-by decoy. On other occasions greenhorn hunters have killed decoys by mistake. Prowling dogs also take their toll.

SHAMROCK PRO ELEVEN DEFEATS BLACKHAWKS, 7-0

The Shamrocks, new Chicago professional football team, scored their fourth consecutive home victory of the season last night when they defeated the Wisconsin Blackhawks of Fort Atkinson, Wis., 7 to 0, at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. A crowd of nearly 5,000 saw the game.

The victory also enabled the Shamrocks to avenge their only defeat thus far, which was scored against them by the Blackhawks at Fort Atkinson. Play was in the Shamrock territory through most of the first half, except for a 14 yard run by Art Bramhall and a long pass from Bramhall to Enright near the end of the second quarter. In the middle of the third quarter Bramhall, who shared offensive honors with Ed Weber, broke through tackle for a 62 yard run to a touchdown. Mooney added the extra point with a place-kick.

The Shamrocks had another scoring opportunity in the last quarter through a recovery of a fumbled punt on the Blackhawk 7 yard line. Mooney's attempted field goal was wide after three attempts at the line had failed.

Little 19 to Hold Annual Meeting Here

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Notices were sent out from the office of Dr. V. F. Swaim, acting commissioner of the Little 19 conference with headquarters at Bradley college today for the annual fall meeting of the conference, to be held in Chicago, Dec. 1 and 2 at the Sherman hotel.

Whether the conference will continue, what schools if any will be dropped to make it more workable, whether demands will be made for forfeit of games played in the Little 19 this season where allegedly ineligible players were used and whether the scholarship rule of the conference will be called into action are among the important matters facing this session.

An executive committee composed of Charles Lantz of Eastern State Normal as chairman, William McAndrew of Southern Normal, Lewis Omer of Carthage, L. M. Cole of James Millikin, and Dr. Swaim of Bradley, will report its stand on the question of dropping state aid schools from membership. This plan was voted 10 to 2 at the June meeting and then referred back to the executive committee for further investigation.

Twenty-one colleges will have a voice in the meeting, including Augustana, Bradley, Carthage, Eastern State Normal, Elmhurst, Eureka, Illinois College, Illinois State Normal, Illinois Wesleyan, James Millikin, Knox, Lake Forrest, McKendree, Monmouth, Northern State Teachers, North Central, Shurtleff, St. Viator, Southern Normal, Western State Teachers, and Wheaton.

Poor gates at the games this fall and lack of a definite method of determining a champion of the Little 19 are immediate factors in bringing the matter of change to a head. Indications point to the retention of Dr. Swain of Bradley as permanent commissioner.

C. Y. O. REACHES QUARTER FINAL ROUND MONDAY

With the last preliminaries set for tonight, qualifiers in the Catholic Youth organization yesterday settled down to intensive training in preparation for the quarter finals of the C. Y. O. amateur boxing tournament, which are scheduled for next week.

Ninety-five boys, representing parishes in Maywood, Oak Park, Cicero, Berwyn, and other west side suburbs, will be on tonight's bill at Fenwick High school in Oak Park. Only eight of these boys can qualify for the quarter-finals.

Boys Drill at Center.

Packey McFarland, director of the tournament, reported that the new C. Y. O. athletic center at 31 East Congress street, is a bee hive of activity these days with boxers getting themselves in shape for the approaching windup. Paddy Kane is in charge of the work of conditioning the boys.

There are 128 boys who will be eligible for the quarter-finals. This group of boxers will be narrowed down to 32 boys when the semi-finals along with the windup show are held on Dec. 3 at the Chicago Stadium.

Quarter-Finals on Monday.

The first quarter-finals of the tournament, which has been under way for the last month, will be staged next Monday night at De La Salle academy in Joliet. Thirty-two boxers representing parishes in Kankakee, Joliet, Harvey, Morris, and other towns in Will and Kankakee counties will fight for semi-final places. The other three quarter-final cards will be held the following Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday nights at the C. Y. O. center.

Bishop B. J. Shell, chairman of the C. Y. O. boxing board, yesterday reported that the advance sale of tickets for the Dec. 2 show at the Stadium was exceeding expectations. He said that more than 15,000 tickets had been sold to fans.

Bennett, Everett Meet Tomorrow in Fronton Ring

Biff Bennett, Fort Sheridan heavyweight, and Buck Everett of Gary, Ind., will meet for the second time in a 10 round bout at the Rainbo Fronton tomorrow night. Everett defeated Biff a year and a half ago when both were starting as professionals.

Bennett has gained considerable experience and his one round knockout of Mitx Minikel last month has added to his confidence. He is a hard right hand puncher and, if he lands, a knockout is possible.

Everett is an in and outer. At times he boxes like a champion. In the event he has an off night against Bennett, the Fort Sheridan soldier should win. Buck is boxing well at present, winning from Larry Udell, Jack Roper and Joe Doktor.

Eddie Gill will seek his second straight victory in the six round semi-final. He meets Joe Mendoza, south side light heavyweight. In his latest match Gill knocked out Bob Groshek in five rounds. Freddy Miller, north side lightweight, yesterday replaced Fred Hawkotte against Danny Neenan in a four round supporting bout. Other bouts are:

Paul Dempsey vs. Eddie Meyers [6].
Sam Morales vs. Jim Richards [4].
Jim Kaur vs. Bob Groshek [4].

Tommy Grogan, Omaha junior welterweight, will be out of the ring for several weeks due to a fractured rib received in a contest with Curtis Brown at Milwaukee Tuesday . . . Tony Herrera may box at Cleveland on Dec. 6 . . . Jack King left last night for Pittsburgh, where he faces Teddy Yarosz tomorrow night.

FRINK WORKS OUT WITH ILLINI; MAY FACE BUCKEYES

Team Gets First Outdoor Practice Today.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.] The University of Illinois football squad was snowbound again today, seeking shelter in the great hall of Memorial stadium to rehearse plays and defenses for the battle with Ohio State here Saturday.

The Illini could not do much running in their scrimmage, but tomorrow it is expected they will be able to work on the stadium gridiron, which has been protected by the big field cover ever since the first flurry of snow.

Battle for First Division Place.

With outdoor workouts the rest of the week, the Illini will be in tip top form for their struggle against the Buckeyes to decide which team goes in the first division of the Big Ten. Despite the heavy snowfall, interest in the game is increasing, since the optimistic fans believe all the snow and bad weather will have vanished before Saturday.

Fred Frink, voted by his team mates the most valuable player on the 1931 team, appeared in part of today's workout and may get some action at end against the Buckeyes. Frink is the hard luck man of the squad. He had not been injured in high school or college competition until this year, when a bump benched him for almost the entire conference season.

Beynon Calls Signals.

Zuppke used Chuck Bennis and Howard Johnson at guards, but it is thought Bodman and Petty will get the call at the start. Jack Beynon called signals for Berry, Froschauer and Snook. The latter will alternate with Walser at full back.

OHIO TO LOSE 15.

Columbus, O., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Ohio State's football team went through the last hard scrimmage of the year today in preparation for the game with Illinois at Champaign Saturday.

Coach Willaman, absent with a cold, placed Don Miller in charge of the team while the varsity took on the reserves in a short game. New offensive formations were tried out. Forward pass plays were in the majority.

After practice tomorrow, 15 senior players will take their "last tackle" at the dummy as a part of the traditional last home workout.

Hinchman Heads Seniors.

Led by Capt. Lew Hinchman, Columbus, the seniors finishing their football careers with the Illinois game include Bill Carroll, Hinchman's team mate for a total of seven years, including three at North High, Columbus and four at Ohio State; Dick Smith, center, East Chicago, Indiana; Marty Varner, Lima, guard; Jack Greenberg, Detroit, half back; Bob Allen, Columbus, guard; Bill Diehl, Columbus, guard; Junie Ferrell, Canton, end; Charles Kabealo, Youngstown, center; Frank Lukz, Niles, guard; Bert Nasman, Youngstown, center; Joe Salvaterra, Bellaire, end; Beldon Scherer, Cleveland, half back; Bob Van Blaricom, Columbus, tackle, and Irving Werner, Newark, N. J., end.

Plum was one of the greatest all around trap shooters of modern times, holding the national doubles title besides many sectional crowns. He was a member of the United States trap shooting team in the Olympic games at Antwerp. He also toured Europe gaining many trophies.

He was a member of the Penn Athletic club and the New York Athletic club. He was born in Bellefontaine, O., and was graduated from Columbia university in 1906 with high honors.

Surviving are his widow, two daughters and a son, his father, three brothers and two sisters.

MILLERS RECEIVE FLOOD OF BIDS FOR BUSH'S JOB

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Mike Kelley, president of the Minneapolis club of the American association, has learned that there are many unemployed managers who would like to pilot the Millers during the 1933 season. Kelley has received a great number of applications since Donie Bush resigned to manage the Cincinnati Reds.

Among those seeking the job are three members of the club—Ernie Smith, Eddie Sicking and Foster Ganzel. Others include John Dobbs, former manager of Birmingham and Atlanta in the Southern association; Nick Allen, former St. Paul pilot; John Butler, Chicago; Tom Dailey, Toronto, and Emmett McCann, Indianapolis.

PLAY THAT'S WORK—AND HARD

Chuck Gardiner, Blackhawk goalie, drops to the ice in an effort to thwart Roger Jenkin's attempt to score. This is a routine maneuver in a goalie's play, but is not an easy part of the job. Jenkins, who finished the season in the Canadian Pro league last year, has returned to the Hawks as a regular this season and will play with Holmes and Cook as the Hawks' third line against the Maple Leafs tonight. He is a wing man.

Notre Dame to Take 100 Men to Cleveland

Coach Hunk Anderson ordered a blocking drill, followed by dummy offense and defense scrimmages.

It was impossible to tell from today's drill whether Notre Dame would be able to stop the Middies' offense. Tackling has been one of Notre Dame's big faults, and Anderson has been unable to drill the team in this department this week because of weather conditions.

He said today that he will probably name a squad of 40 men for the Cleveland trip and that the Irish reserves who have shown the right spirit will go along for the ride. There will be about 60 of these.

At the conclusion of today's drill Anderson said: "I'm still not satisfied with the first team and am afraid to risk the reserves in action. I'll be satisfied to win Saturday by any score and I won't be surprised to see them take us if our luck doesn't hold out. We won our last two games with Kansas and Northwestern on luck—not great football."

PURDUE EYES WEATHER.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Purdue's coaching staff had one eye focused on the weather and the other on Indiana's type of defense here this afternoon as the Boilermakers' squad plunged over a snow covered practice field in preparation for the annual battle for possession of the Old Oaken Bucket, which this year finds Purdue's fighting chance for the Big Ten title hanging on the result.

Although there was a snowfall of 6¾ inches last night in the Ross-Ade stadium, the field cover had been laid before the snowfall. A slight thaw started today, and with the cessation of the snow a gang of men with trucks was started this afternoon clearing the stadium field of snow and preparing for the game Saturday. The weatherman has promised warmer weather tomorrow, which may make it possible to dry the field thoroughly before Saturday.

Coach Noble Kizer was frankly worried this afternoon by weather conditions, which severely handicap the strength of the running attack, making it impossible for the backs to cut with any surefootedness.

HOOSIERS STRESS DEFENSE.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—With snow covering the Indiana university practice fields, the Hoosier football team today continued its preparations for Purdue indoors in the fieldhouse.

The session was long and strenuous, with emphasis on defense for the fast running attack of the Boilermakers. Several shifts were made in the backfield.

Veller was tried at quarter back, while Sawicki and Dauer, two of the hardest tacklers on the team, performed at the halves. Jones was at full back and backed up the line. Indications now are that Dickey will be able to see action at end Saturday but Bill Rehm, star tackle, may be forced to sit on the bench the entire time because of his injury. He is a senior.

Meet Mr. Graham, Hockey's Most Eligible Bachelor

[This is the third of a series of sketches of members of the Chicago Blackhawk hockey team.]

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Taffy Abel and Vic Ripley, earlier subjects in this series of pieces about members of the Blackhawk hockey team, are married men. In selecting our subject for today we have picked out a ladies' day special—Edward Dixon Graham, bachelor, Beau Brummel, heir to a million dollar fortune, and already possessor of a heavy bank roll of his own gathering.

Edward Dixon Graham, otherwise Teddy Graham, fearless and able defense man for the Hawks, does not have to play hockey for a living, as you may have gathered from the foregoing. But he loves the game and finds it a good way to add to his funds while reading law, though he spends most of his hockey pay for books.

You Wouldn't Exactly Call These Dime Novels.

In this connection it may be revealed that Teddy took his first pay check of the current season and purchased several weighty tomes, as "Joshua Williams on Real Property," "Joshua Williams on Personal Property," and "Fordham on Torts." From this you can gather that Teddy isn't aiming to be any habeas corpus or ambulance chasing shyster, but a scholarly barrister after the best English tradition. He says he's going to study five more years, then hang out his shingle in Toronto.

Edward Dixon Graham is scion of the Owen Sound, Ont., Grahams, Scotch-Canadian aristocrats who long have been large holders of railroad and distillery stocks.

In the family mansion at Owen Sound three rooms are set aside for the exclusive use of Mr. Ted. The suite includes, besides his spacious bed chamber, his library of 1,200 volumes and a sports trophy room. Among many other souvenirs he has a jersey from each of the nine teams in the National Hockey league.

Cardinals Fold Up, but Not Mr. Graham.

Graham made his first appearance in Chicago as a hockey player before he became of age. He was a member of the Chicago Cardinals in 1926, the year professional hockey was introduced in Chicago. The Cardinals did not survive the season, and when the American association pulled out the Blackhawks took over the contracts of Graham, Bobby Burns, Cyclone Wentworth, and Bouncer Taylor. Of the quartet, Graham alone continues with the Hawks, though this is Wentworth's first season elsewhere. Teddy, since his acquisition by the Hawks, has spent one year in the minors. With the Tulsa Oilers he set a minor league scoring record for defense men with 10 goals and 15 assists.

In addition to his off season law studies, Graham has spent considerable time as a timber appraiser. To his tromps through the woods he attributes the muscular development of his legs, which he considers his greatest assets in the arduous business of holding down a defense job on a major league hockey team.

Says Only Sissies Drink 3 1-2 Per Cent Beer.

Graham, with the heart of a true lawyer, will argue on any subject, refusing to agree with any one in any opinion.

His current favorite contention is that 3 or 3½ per cent beer is not intoxicating in fact and that in Ontario a citizen would consider himself a pop drinker if he took anything under 9 per cent. He finds many acquaintances in the city who are willing to take the beverage of lesser alcoholic content.

"Hockey's most eligible bachelor," as the 26 year old Teddy is known, lives on the 43d floor of the Morrison hotel. He demanded a high room to get away from autograph hunters.

TEDDY GRAHAM.

Kansas U. Asks to Postpone Grid Game with State

Lawrence, Kas., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Dr. Forrest C. Allen, University of Kansas athletic director, today proposed the postponement of the Kansas-Kansas State college football game which is scheduled for Saturday at Manhattan. Because of the cold weather only a small crowd will attend, Dr. Allen declared.

Dr. Allen talked with M. F. Ahearn, Kansas State athletic director, over long distance telephone today and the two directors will meet at Abilene tomorrow, where they will confer with C. M. Harger, chairman of the state board of regents. Dr. Allen suggested the game be played on Thanksgiving day.

WANTS GAME PLAYED.

Manhattan, Kas., Nov. 16.—[Special.—M. F. Ahearn, Kansas State college athletic director, following a talk with Dr. Forrest C. Allen of the University of Kansas, said he believed the Kansas-Kansas State game should be played Saturday as scheduled. The field is in excellent condition, as no snow fell here.

EVANSVILLE AND TERRE HAUTE MAY JOIN NEW LEAGUE

Dayton, O., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Terre Haute and Evansville, Ind., former members of the Three Eye league, will probably join the Central league, President F. W. Howell said today. It is believed that the teams will join at a Central league meeting at Terre Haute tomorrow.

When the Central league was organized last season South Bend was included in the eight club circuit, but it withdrew during the season because of financial difficulties. The Three Eye league disbanded during the last season.

Bears' Game at St. Louis Is Postponed

The Chicago Bears-St. Louis Gunners game, scheduled for last night at St. Louis, has been postponed because of unfavorable weather. It will be played later in the month.

Coach Ralph Jones had planned to use the game as a warm-up for Sunday's National Professional league battle with the Brooklyn Dodgers at Wrigley field, and when it was called off sent the Bears through a long scrimmage yesterday afternoon. A similar session is scheduled for today.

Bears Lead in Passing.

While the Dodgers are famed throughout the league for their Friedman to Grossman passing attack, latest league statistics show the Bears have a more consistent aerial offensive than the easterners and they expect to beat the Dodgers at their own game Sunday.

The Bears have completed 40 out of 102 passes attempted in league games this season. The Dodgers have tried 101 and have been successful only 30 times. The figures are slightly misleading, however, for Brooklyn has scored as many touchdowns on passes as have its Chicago rivals.

Mielziner Is Quite a Center.

In addition to Friedman and Grossman, the Dodgers have a headliner in Saul Mielziner, their giant center, who first played football at a Cleveland high school and later became a star at Carnegie Tech.

Buck Halporin, who played at Notre Dame, is the eastern club's chief punter. His kicks compare, on the average, with those of his opponents. Milo Lubratovich, former University of Wisconsin mainstay, will be seen at one of the tackle positions for the Dodgers. He will be remembered for his excellent play against the Cardinals a few weeks ago.

St. Mel Plans a Surprise for Mount Carmel

St. Mel, judging from comparative scores, is expected to be the underdog when it is received by Mount Carmel at White City stadium Sunday afternoon in the Chicago Catholic High School league football championship game, but a surprise is planned at the west side school, which will be a stranger in league championship competition.

This seemed evidence as St. Mel went through a short drill yesterday afternoon in preparation for the game. The defeat by Crane Tech in a preseason game and a tie by St. Ignatius in its drive for the west section championship can be thrown out, it is argued, for the team, although light, has shown a powerful offensive attack.

One regular St. Mel lineman, Joe McGuire, star end, will be unable to be present at the surprise party, Coach Paddy Driscoll said. McGuire was injured in the St. Ignatius game two weeks ago and will remain on the sidelines. His place will be taken by Richard Fahey, a junior.

All Other Regulars Ready.

With the exception of McGuire all regulars participated in yesterday's drill. The players expected to be in the starting lineup are Lawrence McHugh and Emil Nobile, guards; Jack Sandera and Ed Stec, ends; Clarence Naughton and Fahey, ends; Clarence Carbine, center; Ed McCarthy, right half back; William Duff, left half back; Joe Cavanaugh, full back, and William Marshall, quarter back.

Mount Carmel, a confident eleven which is supposed to have little trouble in winning its second successive championship, also practiced. Optimistic followers declare that this season's squad is stronger than the one which won the title last year. Only one touchdown has been scored against Mount Carmel this season in nine games.

Morgan Park Captain O. K.

Fears that Dick Bowlin, Morgan Park captain and left half back, would not be able to play against Englewood at White City stadium Saturday for the Chicago Public High School league championship, were quickly dispelled last night. Capt. Bowlin did not attend school yesterday, spending the day in bed suffering from an ear infection, but he expects to be able to practice today and will be available Saturday.

Capt. Bowlin is heavily counted on to carry the brunt of the attack by Coach Bob Antonides. Bowlin, one of the outstanding ball carriers in the league, scored one of the two touchdowns against Schurz last Saturday in the semi-final game. It will be Morgan Park's first appearance in a title game since the league was organized.

Englewood, which defied Tuesday's snowstorm to open its practice, continued preparations at Normal park. Both Morgan Park and Englewood are undefeated in league competition, each having scored five consecutive victories.

DE PAUL TO HOLD BONFIRE, PARADE TOMORROW NIGHT

Students of De Paul university will hold a torchlight parade and a bonfire tomorrow night on the Webster avenue campus as a prelude to the annual homecoming celebration on Saturday, when De Paul and North Dakota university football teams play here. Preceding the game alumni will gather at St. Vincent's church to attend mass. Following the church service the graduates will have a breakfast. In the evening there will be a dance at the Belden-Stratford hotel.

Michigan State to Play Kansas State in 1933

244 RECORDS TO BE CONSIDERED BY A.A.U. COMMITTEE

Twelve Better Accepted World Track Marks.

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Olympic year in the United States produced a total of 244 record breaking performances by American and foreign athletes, the record committee of the Amateur Athletic union revealed today when it finished tabulating the year's applications for record recognition which will be submitted to the A. A. U. convention here Nov. 20-22.

Due, apparetly, to the stimulus of the Olympic competition, an unusually large number of marks were made in outdoor track and field competition, and for the first time in several years the applications from men athletes outnumber those from women, 154 to 71. Twelve applications have been received for track and field marks which better the accepted world's records.

Eleanor Holm Leads.

Eleanor Holm of New York displaced Helene Madison of Seattle as the leading record breaker. She has a total of 14 assorted record breaking performances. Leo Sexton of New York, Olympic shot put champion, was only one behind. His list included four throws with the 16 pound shot which beat the listed world's mark of 52 feet 7½ inches.

Clarence [Buster] Crabbe, Los Angeles swimmer, applied for nine records; Miss Madison, eight; Ben Eastman, who turned in two world record half miles, had seven; Babe Didrikson, Dallas, six; Stella Walsh, Cleveland, five; and Gene Venske, Pottstown, Pa.; Katherine Rawls, Hollywood, Fla.; Paul Debruyn, New York, and Emmett Toppino, New Orleans, four each.

Tolan, Carr Apply.

The list of world record performances included Eddie Tolan's 10.3 for the hundred meters, Bill Carr's mark of 46.2 for the 400 meter run, Eastman's records of 1:50.9 and 1:51.3 for the 880 and of 46.4 seconds for the 440 yards, and two great relay performances by United States teams, which negotiated 400 meters in 40 seconds flat and 1,600 meters in 3:08.2.

STUDY BONES OF MURDER VICTIM 20,000 YRS. AGO

America's Most Prehistoric Woman.

By Waldemar Kaempffert.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Twenty thousand years ago, when late Neanderthal men were hunting in Assyria and Egypt was a wilderness inhabited by equally primitive savages, a 17 year old girl, who had something of the Mongol and something of the ape about her, was killed and perhaps thrown into a glacial lake in what is now Ottertail county, Minnesota.

It was not the crime but the victim that held the attention of the National Academy of Sciences at the third and last session of its autumnal meeting held at the University of Michigan. For this Minnesota girl is one of the most important anthropological discoveries ever made in America, so far as bearing on antiquity and her type are concerned.

Dr. A. E. Jenks of the University of Minnesota told how a gang that was building a highway last year through the dried silt of what had been the bottom of the lake had unearthed some of the girl's bones. He recovered more last summer. Near her was an antler dagger, but this was probably hers and not the weapon with which she had been killed.

Evidences of Slaying.

The shell pendants that she wore on her head and around her neck and the shell apron that hung from her waist, also were found, although not intact. In her shoulder blade is a nick that mutely testifies to her murder.

In his reconstruction of a twenty thousand year old crime Dr. Jenks advances the theory that she was shot from the front through the right lung and probably through the heart by an arrow that left its mark on the shoulder blade. Or perhaps it was a spear that killed her.

Was she in canoe or on a raft or on the ice when the end came? Even the anthropologists at the meeting more concerned with the girl as a specimen than as the subject of a belated coroner's inquest, could not help wondering.

With much of this ancient skeleton before him, Dr. Jenks has been able to make a study which shows that nature was experimenting with men and probably forgetting them while ice still covered most of America. Those who listened to him found no difficulty in clothing the girl's bones with imaginary living flesh. She was different from the squaws of today. The Mongolian in her was more apparent. Her flat nose, her rounded nostrils suggested those of an ape. Her large teeth did not add to her beauty. They had been inherited from a human type more primitive than herself.

Age of Fossils a Problem.

Although she is not as old, geologically speaking, as the lady recently found in London, she bears witness to the fact that in America as well as in Asia and Europe nature was fashioning men ages ago. The Minnesota girl is young compared with the Java man and the Chinese man. Her twenty thousand years are as nothing compared with their million. They are far nearer the ape than she is.

There is always doubt as to the age of human fossils. In this case there is little chance of error, according to Dr. Frank Leverett. She is America's most prehistoric woman.

CLAIMS RACKETEERS INFEST RANKS OF SCHOOL AUTHORITIES

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Racketeers infest the ranks of school authorities in Illinois, declares Dean Thomas E. Benner of the college of education of the University of Illinois.

In addressing the Illinois State School Board association here Dean Benner stated that racketeers were "bleeding" the public schools.

"When the depression reduced profits in the lines of activity to which they had previously confined their efforts, they turned their attention to public schools," he said.

"These lawless elements have succeeded in a few communities in electing their own men to positions on school boards," he asserted. "Then they converted their local systems into a racket for the financial benefit of themselves and their friends.

"No one interested in the general welfare of the state can fail to be interested in sound measures of economy at a time such as this," he declared. "But those interested in sound measures of economy should be equally alert to make sure that those who would replace experienced and trusted school board members on an economy platform are men in whose integrity confidence can be placed.

He suggested that the school system in Illinois needs reorganization along the lines of finance and administration.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

WORK ON SUBWAY AWAITS SPECIAL LEVIES DECISION

42 Planners Earning $12,000 Mo. Dropped.

B. F. Lindheimer, president of the board of local improvements, yesterday announced that with the completion of plans for the river section of the proposed State street subway, the expenditures of his office on the subway have been curtailed pending a decision on whether the city will prosecute the special assessment proceedings now in court.

The curtailment resulted in the layoff of 28 engineers and draftsmen working in the city's subway bureau under the direction of Maj. R. F. Kelker Jr., subway engineer, and also 14 real estate valuators and investigators on the pay roll of Irvin Rooks, attorney for the improvement board.

Paid from Traction Fund.

These employés were paid approximately $12,000 a month, which was chargeable to the traction fund. Other employés who are still being paid out of the traction fund include 12 subway surveyors' rodmen, on the pay roll of the council's local transportation committee, and several lawyers who are paid large fees.

In a letter instructing Maj. Kelker to reduce his subway force, Mr. Lindheimer said the activities of the subway bureau should be held in abeyance pending a final decision as to prosecuting the subway special assessment litigation. In case the city proceeds with the litigation, the essential activities will be resumed, he wrote.

Complete River Plans.

"It was necessary to finish the plans for subway construction under the river, which is not a part of the special assessment proceedings, because of plans for a new State street bridge," said Mr. Lindheimer. "Now we are ready to proceed with the work if it is decided to continue the special assessment cases."

Conferences are to be held when Mayor Cermak returns from French Lick, to decide the administration's policy on the special assessment cases. It has been contended by property owners involved that the litigation should cease in view of the fact that the new transit ordinance has not been accepted by the transportation companies.

WILL INCREASES $939 INHERITANCE TAX LEVY TO $8,170

A clause in the will of the late John Dean Purdy Jr. cost his estate more than $7,000 in additional inheritance taxes, according to a ruling by County Judge Perry L. Persons of Lake county yesterday.

Mr. Purdy died on Nov. 7, 1931. He was president of the Limberg Manufacturing company and lived in Highland Park. His estate originally was valued at $164,391, but when debts had been paid and costs deducted its value was set at $66,165 by the appraiser, Attorney Gerald C. Snyder. From this amount the appraiser deducted $15,000 deeded to three adopted daughters and recommended an inheritance tax of $8,170 on the remainder of $51,165, which was left in trust to John Dean Purdy III., 14 years old.

The ordinary inheritance tax on this amount would have been only $939, the appraiser said, but Mr. Purdy stipulated in his will that in the event that his son should die before the age of 30 years, when he is to receive the body of the estate, the estate should be given to any beneficiary the son might name in his will.

This clause, the appraiser said, and the judge confirmed his ruling, meant that the estate might go to persons outside the family and so the high rate of taxes imposed upon estates deeded to nonrelatives was levied instead of the comparatively low rate imposed when an estate is deeded to relatives.

CHICAGO AIRMEN PAY TRIBUTE AT RITES FOR BROCK

Funeral services for William S. Brock, who attempted an around the world flight with Edward F. Schlee in 1927, were held in the Holy Name cathedral at 10 a. m. yesterday. Three Douglas observation planes of the 33d division aviation, Illinois National guard, piloted by Maj. M. D. Mann, commander of the squadron, Capt. F. J. Bovey, and Lieut. J. K. Fogel flew over the cathedral during the services. Mr. Brock was a civilian instructor and then a lieutenant in the army air corps during the war.

Leaders in aviation activities in Chicago attended the funeral. The pallbearers were Mr. Schlee, Maj. Reed G. Landis, E. M. Laird, George Haldeman, Capt. Ray Collins, James V. Piersol, Edward Nelson, and Herbert Maxson.

80TH BIRTHDAY IS OBSERVED BY TURNGEMEINDE

More than 500 members of the Chicago Turngemeinde celebrated the 80th anniversary of the organization last night in Turner hall, 840 North Clark street, their headquarters since 1863 with the exception of a few years.

The guests of honor were Julius Zimmermann and Phillip Brand, who have been members for 65 years. Speeches, orchestra music, and the community singing of old German songs, one of which was written by Mr. Zimmermann, were on program.

"The first organization was effected on Oct. 3, 1852, in Limberg's hall later Naperville hall, at 216 East Randolph street," said Charles Elchin. "The first gymnasium was on the north side of Randolph street between State and Dearborn streets.

"Through the 80 years particular emphasis has been given to the fundamental aim of Turnerism—physical and mental development. Though the Turngemeinde physical education was embodied in the curriculum of the public schools.

"The Turner movement has stood and still stands for the right of the individual for freedom of thought and conscience, and the presence and need of an organization such as this in this land of liberty is a wholesome check upon its many abuses to which the republic is likely to fall prey."

Dr. Carl A. Beuerlein presided as chairman, introducing as honorary chairman Mr. Zimmermann, the oldest member, and Louis O. Greiner as toastmaster.

THIRD GROUP ENTERS BATTLE FOR PLANE LINES

Cord Believes It's "Last Stand."

BY HUGH SEXTON.

A third group yesterday entered the battle for control of Aviation corporation, holding company for American Airways, that has been raging for a week between E. L. Cord, Chicago automobile and airplane manufacturer, and the group of New York bankers now in control, according to dispatches. The new group is headed by former Gov. John H. Trumbull of Connecticut.

LOUIS C. SEAVERNS

Mr. Cord met the announcement of former Gov. Trumbull that his committee had been formed by independent stockholders who are nonpartisan in the controversy between Cord and the bankers with the charge that the Trumbull group constitutes a last minute effort on the part of the bankers' group to retain control of Aviation corporation.

New Group Seeks Control.

Former Gov. Trumbull announced in New York that his committee will seek sufficient proxies to control the stockholders' meeting scheduled for Dec. 21, at which meeting Mr. Cord plans his coup to seize control from the bankers, also with proxies. The bankers also have appealed for proxies. Gov. Trumbull said his committee will "exercise their powers in the best interests of the stockholders."

Over long distance from his home in Beverly Hills, Cal., Mr. Cord expressed an attitude of suspicion toward the new committee.

"So many things have happened in this battle on their [the bankers'] part that I suspect and believe that this third proxy committee has been organized by the bankers' group in control of Aviation corporation in order to cover up and save their own hides, because they know they are licked," he said.

Cord Believes Fight Won.

"We have right now an overwhelming number of proxies to win this fight.

"Do not be misled," Cord continued. "Ex-Governor Trumbull was one of the principals in the deal involving the sale of Colonial Airways to the Aviation corporation, approved by your directors April 11, 1929.

"His principal associate in this deal, John F. O'Bryan, is an officer and director of the Aviation corporation and is a member of the opposition committee. Ex-Governor Trumbull's new 'independent' committee cannot be relied upon to act independently for the stockholders interests."

The new Trumbull group includes Gov. Trumbull, one of the organizers of Colonial Airways, later taken over by Aviation corporation; William B. Mayo of Detroit, former chief engineer, aviation division of the Ford Motor company; Howard Coonley of Boston, president of the Walworth company; William C. Welborn of Evansville, Ind., an organizer of Universal Air Lines, later taken over by Aviation corporation; John W. Van Allen of Buffalo, N. Y., lawyer and an organizer of Colonial Western Airways; Philip De C. Ball of St. Louis, an organizer of Robertson Airlines and the Ryan Aircraft corporation, and Lessing Rosenwald of Chicago and Philadelphia, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Earlier yesterday Mr. Cord announced that he plans to fly from his California home to New York, arriving there on Saturday, to enter the battle personally. He will appear at a meeting of Aviation corporation directors next Tuesday, at which the proposed merger of Aviation and North American Aviation, Inc., is to be considered. The present battle was precipitated by his opposition to that merger, which he called unfair to the stockholders.

Charges Bankers Sell Stock.

Louis C. Seaverns of Chicago, partner of Abbott, Hoppins & Co. and a member of the Cord proxy committee, yesterday issued a statement in which he declared that the bankers' group has been liquidating its holdings in Aviation corporation and now holds only 5 per cent of the stock.

"Is it not better to have the management of Aviation corporation in the hands of people who own a large interest and are in a position to benefit greatly if the company does well and personally lose if it does not?" he asked. Mr. Cord controls 30 per cent of the stock. The stockholders would be better served by those who have put $5,500,000 of their own money into the company in the last six months than by a crowd that has been taking its money out and has lost $38,000,000 in the last three years.

What's Back of Merger?

"This latter group will not benefit from the earnings of the company, for they own very little stock. What is their urge to retain control? Certainly they are looking for something other than the earnings of the company. If they believe this deal with North American Aviation, Inc., is so favorable we would like to ask why they have sold so much of their stock?"

The only other development of the day was an attack made upon Mr Cord by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a letter to La Motte T. Cohu, president of Aviation corporation and member of the bankers' group. Cohu made the letter public in New York. It expressed the hope that Cord would lose his fight for control of the Aviation corporation because of his "antagonistic attitude" toward labor.

How Creditors Help Sinking Businesses

BY HOWARD WOOD.

"Trouble shooters" sent out by banks and other creditor institutions to renovate companies whose own managements have been unable to adjust themselves to changed conditions have been making a lot of headway of late.

Despite the gradually declining rate of general business activity during the last two and a half years many of these companies under the guidance of men unhampered by tradition and family ties have been nursed back to health.

"The debris must be cleared away before a business can recover sufficiently to hold its own in the present period of intense competition," one of these "trouble shooters" said yesterday.

Cut Costs, Push Sales.

"There are usually only two things to do, whittle continually at expenses and keep grubbing tenaciously for sales. A hotel can't make money when the owner has to have a large suite of rooms for his personal use, when the dining room has ten waiters to do the work of three or four, and all other expense items are at the same extravagant level.

"Nor can a manufacturing plant show a fair profit if it has elaborate switchboards and a lot of other frills that it can get along without.

"We find in the majority of these cases that things which we find to be common sense measures of economy the old management has considered absolutely necessary for the conduct of ordinary business."

Move Toward Prosperity.

The newcomer, unhampered by past associations and memories, cuts directly toward his objective. Sometimes he is ruthless, but he gets results.

These men work on the theory that a company does no one any good—creditor, employé, or stockholder—if it is headed for bankruptcy. They believe that a little hardship and suffering should not stand in the way of rebuilding the concern so that it may make good on its obligations, employ labor, and turn out to be an asset rather than a liability.

When a large number of individual concerns have gone through this remodeling process the aggregate result, the banker firmly believes, should be a gradual movement in the direction of industrial prosperity.

Cites Automobile Factory.

"We've simply got to get geared down to the new level," says the "trouble shooter" quoted above, "and until we do we can't start going ahead."

He cited the case of an automobile factory whose losses were running at the rate of $200,000 per month early in 1930, and which, by judicious pruning and extra sales effort, a year later was almost breaking even. At present this company is operating in the black.

The corporation in the hands of its creditors is not the only one practicing strict economy. Executives of going concerns are watching expense items as never before. Many highly ingenious means of saving money for the company have been devised.

How Merger Cut Costs.

Yesterday the Continental Chicago corporation and Chicago Investors were merged to form a new corporation. This step eliminates duplication of overhead. This, however, wasn't the only saving effected for the benefit of the stockholders.

Continental Chicago corporation's stock was no par, with a stated value of $1 per share. The new company's stock will have a par value of $1. The change is meaningless as far as the capitalization is concerned, but it means a great saving to people who buy or sell the stock. The stock transfer tax on 1,000 shares of the old stock was $40. The stock transfer tax on 1,000 shares of the new stock will be 40 cents.

The company effected another saving of $10,000 per year by reducing the amount of its authorized stock from ten million to six million shares. It is a Delaware corporation and in Delaware the franchise tax is based on the number of shares authorized, rather than the number actually outstanding.

STERLING DROPS 1⅝ CENTS ON FEAR OF DEBT PAYMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—Sterling continued to sag today as indications piled up that Great Britain's pleas for a postponement of the December payment of $95,500,000 on the war debt would meet with a cold reception from congress. The pound sold off steadily, finishing at $3.30¾ for a net loss of 1⅝ cents. Yesterday's reaction wiped out the last of the gains made last week on the news of the reopening of the debt question.

LOANS BY R. F. C. TOTAL NEARLY 1½ BILLIONS

253 Millions Repaid, Mainly by Banks.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Nearly one billion four hundred million dollars was loaned by the Reconstruction Finance corporation during the first nine months of its operation, according to a statistical report made public by the corporation today.

Actual cash disbursed to all types of borrowers in the nine months' period totaled $1,397,956,033. Of this amount, however, $253,537,052 had been repaid, leaving the federal loan agency with an aggregate of $1,144,058,980 actually outstanding at the close of business on Oct. 31.

Treasury Buys Notes.

To make the loans the corporation received from the treasury during the nine months a total of 1 billion 175 million dollars—22 millions less than the amount of loans disbursed. This was accounted for by the fact that the corporation's resources are a revolving fund and amounts repaid may be loaned again. The treasury thus far, in addition to the purchase of all the 500 millions of the corporation's capital stock, has bought 3½ per cent notes of the corporation to the amount of 675 millions.

Of the total loans advanced, the report showed, $1,300,883,971 went to banks and other financial institutions, at an interest rate, in most cases, of 5½ per cent. Emergency relief loans, made at 3 per cent, totaled $30,978,393, while loans through the corporation's eleven agricultural credit corporations, made at 7 per cent, amounted to $1,166,214. Only $362,951 had been disbursed as loans for the "orderly marketing of agricultural commodities."

In addition, during the nine month period a total of $64,204,503 of Reconstruction Finance corporation money was disbursed by the secretary of agriculture in the form of loans for crop production purposes. More than 500,000 farmers in every state except Rhode Island received such advances, the report stated. Repayments of these loans amounted to $11,952,521 on Oct. 31.

Total loan authorizations by the corporation in the nine months' period were $1,843,670,253, according to the report, an amount $446,074,219 higher than the total of disbursements. Of this difference 53 millions represented loans which were canceled after they had been authorized, and 392 millions loans which are still available but have not been collected by borrowers.

Work Loans Not Completed.

The report disclosed that although twenty-four loans totaling $134,633,500 have been authorized by the corporation to finance the construction of "self-liquidating projects" no money has yet been disbursed under this phase of the corporation's activity.

During the nine months' period, the report showed, 55 railroads received loans amounting to $290,293,202. These funds, it was shown, are to be used for the following purposes by the borrowing carriers: 47 millions for completion of new construction work; 10 millions for construction and repair of equipment; 73 millions to pay interest on funded debts; 19 millions to pay taxes; 19 millions to pay past due vouchers for wages, materials, etc.; 19 millions to pay principal of maturing equipment trust notes; 37 millions to pay off or reduce loans from banks; 15 millions to pay other loans; 41 millions to retire maturing bonds and other funded obligations, and 5 millions for miscellaneous purposes.

Of the one billion 300 million dollars disbursed to banks and financial institutions the report showed $241,328,729 had been repaid on Oct. 31. Of the repayments $211,328,013 was repaid by banks—nearly 27 per cent of the total amount advanced to that type of financial institutions. No repayments had been made on emergency relief loans advanced to states and municipalities.

The report showed a steady decline since April in the number of applications received for loans to banks and other business institutions. The April total of applications was 1,527, the report showed, as compared with 601 in October.

A. T. & T. Votes to Maintain $9 Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—Directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph company today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share. This means that approximately $42,000,000 in dividend checks will be placed in the hands of some 720,000 stockholders on Jan. 16. This action by the directors was awaited with unusual interest in the financial district, where some elements, mindful of the continuing loss of subscribers by the Bell system, had been questioning whether the regular rate would be maintained.

This skepticism, however, was not as universal as on the occasion of the previous dividend meeting, in the middle of August. That earlier meeting was held just a few days after the company had reported a net loss of 268,000 telephones during July. In August the loss was 201,000 telephones, and in the following month the decline was cut to 90,000. An explanation was given today for the apparent acceleration of the downward trend in October when 105,000 more instruments were disconnected than were installed.

Explains Seasonal Trend.

The great improvement in installations for September was due to the fact that several classes of subscribers who usually dispense with their telephones during July and August have their service resumed during September. Numbered among these are thousands of schools and teachers throughout the country and a great army of other persons who do not occupy their residences during the summer months. Thus, it was explained that much of the heavy loss of instruments in July represented a seasonal trend, just as the improvement in September was largely seasonal.

If these seasonal variations were eliminated, it was explained, the curve from the beginning of July to the end of October would have been in the direction of steady improvement.

Earns $5.92 in Nine Months.

American Telephone earned only $5.92 a share in the first nine months of this year, but this figure is based on the income actually received by American Telephone in the form of operating revenues and dividends on its holdings of subsidiary companies' stocks. The subsidiaries, however, failed by about $18,000,000 to earn the dividends they paid out.

The difference between net income actually received by American Telephone in the nine months and the amount of dividends paid was $15,422,000. This, added to the $18,000,000 deficiency of subsidiaries, makes a total of $33,422,000 which represents the dip which the Bell system as a whole made into surplus to maintain regular dividends.

The dividend will be paid to stockholders of record Dec. 20.

Utility Votes Dividend.

The directors of the Electric Bond and Share company yesterday declared regular quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent in common stock on the common stock, $1.50 a share on the $6 preferred stock, and $1.25 a share on the $5 preferred stock. The preferred dividends will be paid on Feb. 1 to stock of record on Jan. 6, and the common dividend on Jan. 16 to stock of record on Dec. 5.

The directors also voted that, in view of existing conditions, they will hereafter consider annually instead of quarterly the question of dividends on the common stock. There is no indication as to when the directors will meet to consider the next common dividend, but the implication is that it will be towards the end of 1933.

DISCARD TRICK MOLDS, MAKE ICE CREAM FOOD, MANUFACTURERS TOLD

Gaily colored jumbo cones and other strange frozen concoctions are usurping the interest of ice cream makers at the cost of pushing ice cream for its food values, members of the Illinois Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers in convention at the Hotel Sherman were told yesterday by Dr H. A. Ruebe, head of the department of dairly husbandry, University of Illinois.

"There is so much interest in top-heavy two-handled novelties that you have forgotten to maintain food values," he said. "You must remember that your first function is to feed and not to amuse. When a child returns from the store with some insubstantial frozen novelty, it does not convince the parents that the investment was wise.

"I took years to get ice cream out of the fad class, and now it is rapidly going back again. Dairy products are cheap now ,and in order to meet the competition of fruits, nuts, and cigarets, you must again stress the food value of your product."

Banks Plan 2½ Per Cent Interest Rate

Chicago banks on the first of January will reduce the rate of interest on savings deposits from 3 to 2½ per cent, according to information in banking circles yesterday.

After the meeting of the clearing house committee on Monday, at which proposals to cut the rate to 2 or 2½ per cent were discussed, heads of the larger banks conferred with each other and tentatively agreed upon a reduction to 2½ per cent, it was learned yesterday.

No announcement can be made, however, until the banks definitely commit themselves to the plan either through the clearing house association or individually by agreement.

In financial circles yesterday it was generally believed that in order to expedite the program the smaller banks would be canvassed and a city-wide agreement entered into without a formal meeting of the clearing house association.

Distillers' Corporation Profits Show Decline

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 16.—Even whisky manufacturers have to take it on the chin during a depression. Distillers corporation, Seagrams, Ltd., makers of whiskys, ryes, etc., with plants in Quebec and Ontario, today reported profits for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1932, of only $1,529,463, compared with profits of $2,767,596 in the preceding fiscal year.

Guarantee of Cash in Banks a Boomerang

BY SCRUTATOR.

Proposals for radical changes in the banking laws of the country are scheduled to come before congress and the state legislatures in the next few months. Among these proposals will be various plans for guaranteeing depositors against loss through bank failures, although such plans have been tried, proved futile, and abandoned by several middle western states in the last few years.

The state of Nebraska within the last week has ended its socialistic banking experiment, which provided that state banks should contribute part of their earnings to a fund which would be used to pay off depositors in failed banks. The state Supreme court declared unconstitutional the guaranty fund and special settlement fund law. The court ruled that no further assessments may be levied or collected under the special settlement fund law and enjoined collection of assessments made under the old guaranty law but not yet collected.

Proves a Boomerang.

The decision reveals how the attempt to guarantee deposits not only has failed but has actually proved a boomerang. Since March 18, 1930, there had been 157 state bank failures and these banks had previously set aside about $900,000 for payment into the special settlement fund. If the settlement fund had been declared valid the money would have gone into the fund, but under the state Supreme court's decision it will revert to the individual banks and in some cases be used to make special liquidating payments to depositors. In other words, under the old law the depositors would have been deprived of money whereas now they will receive more than under a statute designed to help them.

Nebraska's old guaranty law was repealed in 1930 and the new settlement fund law was passed. Now this law is held unconstitutional on the ground that it violates the United States constitution by depriving people of property without due process of law.

Destroys Confidence.

"The depositors' final settlement fund had for its sole and only purpose the payment of the claims of depositors in banks which had failed prior to its enactment by levying assessments upon solvent state banks whose depositors did not come within the purview of the act," the decision said. "In practical effect, the new act destroyed the confidence in the state banks. It does not stabilize commerce but tends to disrupt it.

"Considered from the standpoint of its effect, it does but one thing: it takes money from the solvent state banks and thereby indirectly from the depositors in those banks and pays it to the depositors in other state banks which had failed prior to its enactment."

The court also held that assessments levied under the old guaranty law were confiscatory. It also questions the public policy of the law by saying it was "an attempt by the legislature to predict for future years the charges that will yield a fair return."

"In all such legislation, from the hour of its enactment, there thus inheres the seed of an infirmity which the future may develop," it is said. "It is the infirmity that always waits upon the prophecy; the coming years must tell whether the prophecy is true."

TWO CHICAGO INVESTMENT TRUSTS MERGE

To Form $28,000,000 Corporation.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Merger of the Continental Chicago corporation and Chicago Investors, Inc., into a $28,000,000 investment trust to be known as the tion was announced yesterday.

CHARLES F. GLORE

Charles F. Glore, president of the Continental Chicago, will become president of the new concern and the board of directors will be made up of the present board members of the two companies.

The consolidation will be affected through an exchange of stock on a share-for-share basis. The asset value of the preference stocks of each company was approximately $33.50 based on Nov. 14 market quotations which are being used as the basis of the consolidation.

Control Remains Here.

Control of the corporation will remain in Chicago. Total assets of Continental Chicago are approximately $24,000,000 at the present time while Chicago Investors has assets of approximately $4,000,000.

Continental has recently acquired a substantial block of its own preferred stock which together with its holdings of the preference stock of Chicago Investors will be used to facilitate the consolidation. The common stock of Continental has also been increased by 450,000 shares in order to carry out the exchange of shares.

The Atlas corporation, eastern investment trust, which has been carrying out an aggressive expansion program in the last two years, now holds common stock in both Continental and Chicago Investors. What part Atlas will play in the merger could not be determined, but it is not believed it will be more than a minority holding in the common stock of the new concern.

The proposed capitalization of the new company will consist of 5,000,000 shares of common stock and 1,000,000 shares of preference stock. Upon completion of the merger of the authorized stock there will be outstanding approximately 742,000 shares of preference stock and 3,337,506 shares of common.

Reduces Capital Stock.

This is a reduction from the present capitalization of Continental-Chicago, which consists of 8,000,000 shares of common stock and 2,000,000 shares

Reducing the cost of leaving Property

Changes in Federal estate taxes and, in State inheritance taxes have tended to increase the cost of leaving property to your heirs. It may be possible to reduce some of these costs by revising your will. The officers of our Trust Department will be pleased to discuss this important question with you and your attorney at any time.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—Strength in government bonds featured today's market, following reports that the federal reserve banks were contemplating no change in their open market policy. Utilities also were well bought. Foreign issues sold moderately lower in light dealings.

Following today's report that the system intended to maintain its present holding of about $1,850,000,000 in government securities for at least another six weeks, dealers short of the market moved to even up their positions. Owing to the thinness of the market, prices responded readily. All government issues advanced, even including the huge issue of fourth Liberty bonds.

High Grades Advanced.

Persistent buying of high grade utility bonds overshadowed minor weakness in the speculative utility and industrial sections. Dealers reported that large blocks of prime utility bonds were being traded in the over-the-counter market at higher prices.

Also on the favorable side of the picture was today's report that the books had been closed on the issue of $27,500,000 of Toledo Edison 5 per cent bonds, offered publicly today.

Demand for utility bonds was most apparent in such issues as Detroit Edison refunding 5s, Hudson County Gas 6s, Pacific Public Service 5s, West Pennsylvania Power 5s, and others. The new offering of Toledo Edison bonds was traded around the offering level.

B. & O. Bonds Advance.

Bonds of Baltimore and Ohio dipped during the early part of the session, but steadied near yesterday's closing price. The expected announcement of the Reconstruction Finance corporation loan came today, assuring payment of the 4½s due March 1 next year with 50 per cent in cash and the remainder in 5 per cent refunding bonds.

New York City bonds eased a trifle following today's report that the city's financial affairs are approaching another crisis. New York City traction bonds, particularly issues of the I. R. T., rallied a point or more.

Ohio Copper.

Please give me information on Ohio Copper stock.—K. C. B.

Ohio Copper company of Utah was originally incorporated in 1903. Amount of copper produced has steadily declined and net results have steadily become worse since 1924. Because of the unsatisfactory level of copper prices major pumping operations were discontinued in March, 1931, and all operations were suspended in November, 1931.

The company produced 659,000 pounds of copper in 1931, 2,048,000 pounds in 1930, 2,215,000 in 1929, and 3,973,000 in 1928.

Net loss for 1931 was $141,000 against loss of $118,000 for 1930, loss of $41,000 in 1929, and loss of $34,000 in 1928.

Current position at the close of 1931 was not impressive. Current assets were $22,820 and current liabilities were $22,326. Cash was only $743 and notes payable were $6,500. Working capital was $494 against $116,291 the year before.

Funded debt was $179,000. There were outstanding 3,209,575 shares of $1 par capital stock.

Profit and loss deficit at the close of last year was $488,051.

Nothing has been paid on the stock since the three cent per share payment in 1926.

There seems to be no future for this company until and unless the price of copper increases substantially. Operating cost [per pound of copper] for 1931 is not available. In 1930 it was 13.26 cents against 14.02 cents in 1929. With the price of copper hovering around five cents a pound it obviously is impossible for the company to operate profitably.

The stock is a mere speculation.

B. B. & R. Knight, Inc.

Will you please give me what information you have regarding B. B. & R. Knight, Inc., a textile firm down east? They defaulted on bond interest in 1924. I know nothing later about them.—W. B. O.

We have the following information from the research department of one of the leading middle western financial institutions:

". . . Chase National bank of New York, trustee for the B. B. & R. Knight, Inc., first mortgage bonds, advises us that the original (nondepositing) bondholders may expect to receive upon presentation to the trustee approximately $132.50 per $1,000 bond, provided Sept. 1, 1924, and all subsequent coupons are attached.

"Depositing bondholders can receive their share of stock by application to the depositary or subdepositary from whom the certificate of deposit emanated. The name of such depositary or subdepositary will be indicated on the certificate of deposit held by the individual. . . ."

Attention STOCKHOLDERS AVIATION CORPORATION

In your interest we have forced the calling of a special stockholders' meeting for December 21, 1932. Notices of this meeting were mailed by the Company November 15, accompanied by proxies and a letter soliciting your votes against the increase in the board of directors, for which said meeting has been demanded. A second letter is also being mailed to you by The Aviation Corporation, giving its explanation of the proposed deal with North American Aviation, Inc., which has not as yet even been passed upon by the directors of the Corporation. The real issues in this fight which we have commenced for the control of The Aviation Corporation are:

1. Shall the Corporation be controlled by its stockholders or by this same group of directors who have already lost $38,000,000 of the Corporation's assets, and who altogether own of record, according to their own admission, an aggregate of less than 100,000 shares, or less than 4% of its outstanding stock?
2. Shall the reforms and economies which we have proposed be placed in operation and your Corporation for the first time be placed upon a profitable basis?
3. Shall the present and former officers and directors of the Corporation be held responsible for the money which has been lost through their mismanagement, speculation, waste and extravagance, or shall these same officers, continued in power through your votes, be allowed to whitewash themselves and escape all responsibility for past mismanagement?

On behalf of the Cord Corporation and all stockholders I have demanded that certain questions be answered regarding the mismanagement of this business. Instead of answering these questions in a businesslike manner, certain of your directors and officers are attempting to place me on trial, and I am being tried in an extravagant advertising campaign at your expense. We have notified the other directors and the officers of this Company that they would be held responsible for this improper and illegal use of the Company's funds.

I asked that you be told what became of the $38,000,000 that has been lost since your Corporation was organized. Instead of getting an answer you were told that I was an airplane manufacturer.

I demanded that excessive and extravagant salaries to officers and employees be stopped and any illegal payments previously made to them be recovered. Instead of immediate action on this demand and the correction of these abuses, I was met with the charge that I was unfair to my employees and had "spies" in the organization.

I demanded that this great business of The Aviation Corporation be operated on an efficient and profitable basis. Instead of action upon my constructive criticisms, you were told that I lost money myself when I operated the Century Air Lines.

Not one single answer has been made to my charges. They have evaded these questions by counter charges designed to detract your minds from the real issues at stake.

I accept this challenge and will answer these charges fairly and squarely.

FIRST, I am called an airplane manufacturer. It is true that the Cord Corporation does own Stinson Aircraft Corporation. Is it a disadvantage to be the largest manufacturer of Tri-Motor Air Transport equipment in the world and to know the airplane business from the ground up based on personal experience as motor builder, airplane manufacturer, operator and pilot?

Absolutely false, however, and so known to be false by the other officers and directors of The Aviation Corporation is this charge that we demanded and insisted that The Aviation Corporation purchase Stinson planes. No such demand was ever made in the past or will be made in the future by me regardless of who controls the management of your Company. My connection with The Aviation Corporation never has been used, and never will be used to dictate purchases from companies in which I am interested.

My policy always has been and will continue to be the purchase of all materials and equipment in truly competitive markets, buying the best for the least, quality and price alone considered, regardless of the source of supply. This has been the policy of the purchasing departments of all the companies in which I am interested, for the past ten years, and has operated effectively and continuously to the best interests of the companies and stockholders.

When you understand the real situation regarding our investment in your Company, these charges that I seek control of your Company because I am an airplane manufacturer refute themselves. American Airways has approximately 100 active airplanes in service. If all equipment now owned were scrapped and replaced with Stinson planes costing $25,000 each, there would be involved the replacement of 50 airplanes yearly, costing $25,000 each, or a total annual budget for new airplanes of $1,250,000. A legitimate manufacturing profit would be 10% or less than $125,000 annually, which we might potentially make if we adopted the policies suggested by my accusers and ran your Company primarily as a market for Stinson airplanes. What an insult to your intelligence to ask you to believe that for a potential profit of $125,000 per year I would jeopardize our $5,000,000 investment in the stock of your Company with potential profits many times as great. For example, a saving of even as little as 10 cents per mile based on your Company's present annual operation of 12,000,000 airplane miles per year, would mean a total saving or earning to your Company of $1,200,000 annually. This would represent a potential profit of $360,000 a year on our 30 per cent interest in your Company. Therefore, it would be absurd for us to sell Stinson airplanes to your Company if there is any other better equipment available which can be operated more economically. My associates and myself are in this business to make money. We have made money for our stockholders and ourselves, as is evidenced by the record which shows that our group of companies has earned over $10,500,000 and paid dividends amounting to nearly five millions of dollars to our stockholders during the period of time while the management of your Company was losing $38,000,000.

SECOND, is the indictment against me that I am unfair to my employees, that I have treated them in a dictatorial and unreasoning manner, employed spies, and compelled my employees to work under un-American conditions. The best answers to these base charges can be made by the thousands of satisfied employees of companies in which I am interested, many of whom have been continuously employed for years, own their own homes, and have laid aside substantial savings while working for our companies.

Right at this juncture let me state that during the past five years I have personally given department heads and employees of our companies substantial additional compensation out of my own pocket. These various distributions cost the respective companies' stockholders nothing, but contributed much to efficiency and loyalty, from which the companies and stockholders benefited.

As to the particular charge that if I controlled The Aviation Corporation its pilots and other employees would be underpaid, I repeat again and emphasize my previous statements as to my policies:

> "That I will be for the same rates of pay and the same working conditions as shall exist in the organization of the other members of the Pioneer Air Transport Operators Association, which include the following: United Airlines, Inc., Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., Western Air Express, Northwest Airways, Inc., and Eastern Air Transport, Inc."

The charge that I have had spies in your organization is equally absurd and untrue. A spy is a secret informer whose identity is unknown and who works under cover. The only representatives I have had in your organization were employed pursuant to my agreement with Messrs. Lehman and Harriman, which provided that I might select five expert and experienced men to study the Company's transport operation and to make reports and recommendations to Messrs. Harriman, Lehman, Manning and myself. One of these men selected by me and so employed by your Company with the full knowledge of its officers was Luther Harris, formerly operations manager of the Ludington Airlines and chairman of the maintenance committee of the Air Transport Section of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, Inc. He did not go to work for the Company in secret to spy upon the other employees but undertook his investigation with a letter of introduction from Lamotte T. Cohu, dated April 23, 1932, reading as follows:

> "To all Division Managers
> Termina' Managers
> Maintenance Superintendents
> Overhaul Superintendents:
> "This letter will serve to introduce Mr. Luther Harris, who is a direct representative of the New York office.
> "Please permit Mr. Harris to make any examinations he sees fit of any and all operations having to do with the maintenance of our aircraft and engines. Permit him to obtain any figures he wishes, and examine any records pertaining to these matters.
> "LAMOTTE T. COHU, President."

On May 25th this man was made Assistant to the President by Mr. Cohu himself. He made recommendations in the space of a few months resulting in savings to your Company in excess of a hundred thousand dollars annually. Later he was discharged without my knowledge or consent, and without any justifiable cause whatsoever. This was one of the men the management now refers to as a "spy."

The third charge is that I lost money operating the Century Airlines. I admit the accusation. I do not pose as being infallible. The combined Century properties were developed from nothing to the third largest air transport operation in the country within the short space of five months. They were developed as a proving ground for equipment and personnel. They operated without mail subsidy. They furnished better and cheaper air transportation than the public has ever enjoyed before. If your management was so sure that the Century companies were complete failures and that I could contribute nothing of value to the management of The Aviation Corporation, then why did they buy these properties and pay us therefor approximately 140,000 shares of stock worth nearly a million dollars?

You have also been told that I wish to gain control of The Aviation Corporation for selfish reasons. If making this Company successful and protecting our interests as a stockholder is selfish, then I admit this accusation also. You, too, should be zealous for the protection of your interests as stockholders of this Company.

Your officers state that "The management has built up this great system from a small beginning." Starting with $35,000,00 cash and subsequently acquiring through stock issuance property valued at $20,000,000 more is not a "small beginning." Losing $38,000,000 in three years of operation is not "building" anything "up." The management has attempted to explain this colossal loss with the statement that there has been a panic. This is no news. Everyone knows there has been a panic, but the important thing is that, during this same period, the companies which I represent have made substantial profits and are today in better financial condition than in 1929.

Concerning the proposed Aviation Corporation-North American deal, you were told that I have approved this deal in principle. Such statements are absolutely false. I would not agree under any circumstances to the purchase of nearly $10,000,000 of miscellaneous and, for your Company, undesirable assets, including a lot of brick and mortar, in order to obtain an additional air line not worth, in my opinion, to exceed $2,000,000.

If the present executives of your Corporation, who are advocating the purchase of certain assets of North American Aviation, Inc., expect you to believe their recent statement that they will not make this deal without first obtaining your ratification and approval, then let them explain their action in purchasing Century Air Lines, Inc., and Century Pacific Lines, Ltd., without telling their stockholders anything about these deals or calling a special stockholders' meeting to obtain your approval. The record shows that in the past three years numerous other companies were purchased by your directors for The Aviation Corporation, that millions of dollars of the Company's money were spent and tens of thousands of shares of its stock issued for the acquisition of other companies and properties, and that never at any time or under any circumstances were you, the stockholders and owners of the Company, consulted in advance of the making of any of these transactions.

As I have herein before stated, certain controlling directors of your Corporation intended to make this North American deal and go ahead and issue your stock of a market value of $12,000,000 without even consulting the stockholders and obtaining their consent. The notice which they mailed to our directors at eight o'clock P. M., November 6, 1932, called a special meeting of the directors to be held on November 10, 1932, for the purpose, among other things, of considering the following:

> "To consider the purchase of various assets and to take any and all action in relation thereto as determined by the board, including the arrangement for the consideration to be paid therefor."

This shows beyond possibility of successful contradiction that it was their original intention to jam this ill considered deal in great haste through a selected directors meeting, which they did not believe I could attend on account of my absence in California. They did not anticipate that any directors opposed to the deal would attend, as the almost too carefully worded notice was obviously designed to give no director, not a member of the inner clique, the slightest inkling of the business it was proposed to transact. There was no thought or intention of referring this deal to you, the stockholders of the Company, until I forced them to do so. You may expect this group to take the position now that they will agree to anything which they think the stockholders demand in view of our exposure of their recent plan, but consider this late change in their attitude in the light of their past record with respect to consulting stockholders in connection with important deals.

When the paid representatives of the opposition proxy committee request you to give your proxy, you will be told that the present management always intended to have you, the stockholders of the Company, pass upon the North American deal. Ask them if this same management consulted you before making other deals involving the expenditure of the Corporation's money where millions of dollars have already been lost? Remember that if we had not stopped the directors from making this deal, the control of your company and its money would have passed forever from your hands.

Your Company under the Harriman-Lehman control has suffered a shrinkage in assets averaging $1,000,000 a month during the 38 months from August, 1929, to October, 1932. That is their record about which they are boasting and on the basis of which they ask your confidence and support. If this present management is kept in power and its record of losses continues at this average rate, the last remaining asset of the Company will have been dissipated by March, 1934, and the receivers and the undertakers will have to do the rest.

The most convincing assurance that stockholders can have that The Aviation Corporation will be properly operated under my management is our investment in the Company's stock. We are by far its largest stockholder and can be relied upon to protect your investment, as well as our own. We have bought over 500,000 shares of Aviation Corporation stock during the past six months. By so doing we have demonstrated our faith in the air transport industry and particularly in the future of your Company. During this same period many of your present directors have sold out. We now own their stock. Thousands of shares bearing their names are in our box. Many of them no longer have any stock registered in their own names.

To whom do you wish to entrust the management of this Company and the control of its remaining $16,000,000 of assets? To our group with a proven record of success as business managers of industrial properties and with a $5,000,000 stake in your Company, or to these so-called financiers with their demonstrated record of failure in operating this Company and no substantial personal investments of their own to safeguard. We have everything to gain by making this business successful. They have nothing to lose if it fails.

Each mail brings proxies from hundreds of stockholders from all over the country owning thousands of shares of stock, who join with us in demanding new management for your company. If you want a management that will do its best to stop losses and its utmost to start making money, then ignore the proxies recently mailed to you by the present management, which has lost your money, and send us the proxies which we have mailed to you.

If you have signed any other proxy and wish to vote for new management, then sign the proxy bearing these names:

E. L. Cord, Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of The National City Bank of New York; E. A. Pierce, head of E. A. Pierce & Co., members New York Stock Exchange; Alan Lowrey, member of firm of E. F. Hutton & Co., members of New York Stock Exchange; Louis C. Seaverns, member of firm Abbott, Hoppin & Co., members New York Stock Exchange, and L. B. Manning, executive vice-president of the Cord Corporation.

Mail to us signed, dated and witnessed the proxy authorizing the above committee to act for you. These proxies will cancel any other proxies which you have heretofore signed for other parties. Send your proxies to the Cord Corporation, Biltmore Hotel, New York City, or 105 West Adams Steet, Chicago, Illinois. If you have not received our proxy by mail, call, write or telephone us and proxies will be sent to you.

E. L. CORD, President, Cord Corporation.

November 16, 1932

P. S.—Just as this advertisement is being released information has been received regarding the formation of a so-called "Independent Proxy Committee" headed by Ex-Governor Trumbull of Connecticut.

Do not be misled. Ex-Governor Trumbull was one of the principals in the deal involving the sale of Colonial Airways to The Aviation Corporation, approved by your directors April 1, 1929. His principal associate in this deal, John F. O'Ryan, is an officer and director of your Company today and a member of the opposition proxy committee. Ex-Governor Trumbull's new "Independent" Committee cannot be relied upon to act independently for your interests.

WHEAT TRADERS MARK TIME; EYE WAR DEBT EVENTS

Prices in Pit Held Within Narrow Range.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders have adopted a waiting attitude pending further developments in the world's financial situation. The movement on the part of European countries to effect a cancellation or a reduction in war debts has again brought the financial condition of the leading powers to the fore as a market influence. Some interests are inclined to the belief that financial rather than supply and demand developments will be the dominating factor in determining the trend of prices.

Price in Chicago held within a range of ⅝c yesterday, with a good part of the business in changing between the December and the distant futures. There was selling of May wheat above 50c and buying below that figure in small lots by commission houses and the local element, but the aggregate trade was not large and the market was easily influenced at times. Closing trades were at net losses of ⅛@⅜c, with December, 44⅞@45c; May, 49⅞@50c, and July, 51c.

See Prospects of Change.

The world's financial situation is regarded as offering so many probabilities and possibilities that trade sentiment is inclined to be rather cautious at the present time in expressing a fixed opinion as to the probable results, especially as applied to the wheat market. Another disturbing element is the wheat situation is the new British preferential tariff, and uneasiness over whether dutiable or duty free wheat would be delivered on December contracts was largely responsible for a decline of ¼@⅝c in the English market yesterday.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅝@⅞c per bu lower, with the December at 51¾c or 6¾c over Chicago, compared with 6⅛c on Tuesday. The United Kingdom was an active buyer of Canadian cash wheat during the day, with sales in all positions finally estimated at 1,000,000 bu.

Acreage Is Cut.

The recent storm passed over the winter wheat belt with little or no precipitation in the dry sections of the west and southwest, and the lack of subsoil moisture in South Dakota, as indicated by an official report, was regarded as furnishing a factor that will have to be considered next spring. According to the Shannon Grain company of Kansas City, the acreage in Kansas has probably been reduced 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 acres as compared with last year, and probably that much more in adjoining states. This suggested a decrease of 8 to 10 per cent in the total for the country, compared with the recent private returns suggesting a reduction of around 5 per cent.

Canadian reports suggested that the percentage of the wheat crop in the prairie provinces already delivered at interior points by farmers was about the largest on record. Winnipeg held within narrow limits and closed unchanged for the day, with the December at 46½c in Canadian funds and at 40⅝c on a gold basis, the latter being fractionally lower than on Tuesday.

Longs Sell Corn Futures.

Corn futures showed independent weakness for the first time in some time past early yesterday. According to the gossip of the trade, longs were on the selling side, impressed with the fact that export demand had not developed as anticipated. Buying against bids and by professionals caused a rally from the inside figures but the close was ⅛@⅜c lower, with December, 26¼c; May, 31⅝c, and July, 33⅛c at the last.

Country offerings of cash corn to arrive were the lightest in some time, with local handlers reporting 27,000 bu bought to come here. The east continue to take cash corn for winter storage, with local handlers selling around 250,000 bu, and charters were made for 230,000 bu to Buffalo.

Barley futures showed an easy undertone early with the trade disposed to go slow in buying until it can be determined whether malting grain will be delivered on future contracts or not. The May was the only future traded in, and after a break of around ⅝c the market rallied and closed unchanged at 34c. Oats finished unchanged to ¼c higher, the latter on December, which finished at 17c, while May at 18¾c. Rye was ¾c lower, with December closing at 29¾c, and May, 33½c.

SEVEN BIG FILM SALES PLAN HIT BY INJUNCTION

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The United States District court today restrained seven major motion picture producing and distributing concerns from operating a "price zoning and clearance" system which the government claimed would be a monopoly in restraint of the trade of independent "first run" picture theaters.

The companies consented to the decree, agreeing without contest to abandon the designation of picture houses as "first-run" and "second-run" theaters on the basis of admission charged.

STOCK LEADERS DECLINE $1 TO $4 ON SELLING WAVE

Telephone Dividend Fails to Halt Liquidation.

BY FRED HARVEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—The declaration of the regular quarterly American Telephone and Telegraph dividend, expected to aid stock, today fell flat as a market factor.

If anything, it served to accelerate liquidation which had been forcing the list lower all day. Bear professionals who have been waiting for some reliable signal to launch a fresh attack fell upon the leaders and beat some of them down quite sharply. The selling reached its heaviest stage in the last hour and closing prices registered net losses of from 1 to 3 or 4 points.

Bulls Disappointed.

The failure of the big utility leader's dividend vote to "start something" was a big disappointment to traders operating on the constructive side of the game and many guesses were made in an attempt to explain the development. For one thing it has long been common knowledge that the company's earnings for the quarter would not justify the payment and that the declaration if made would represent nothing more, from a general market standpoint, than the belief of the directors that better times are ahead. Expressions of such confidence have come from so many sources here of late without being followed by convincing statistics that they have become something of a drug on the market. What the average stock trader demands now is concrete evidence rather than prophecy.

Moreover, the problem of war debts is beginning to loom rather large in the Wall street view of things again and a growing element would like to see what is going to be done about Europe's latest move to get from under before plunging too deeply on the few morsels of bullish news coming to the surface.

More Bearish News.

Then there was the usual quota of trade developments to provide grist to the bear mill, among them the decision by R. H. Macy, big New York department store, to discontinue further stock dividend disbursements and forecasts of another pronounced decline in the weekly car loadings figures when they come out Saturday.

The freight revenue estimate was used to influence selling in the carrier group and such sometime favorites as Atchison, Union Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific, and Baltimore and Ohio, slid off 1 to 3 points. Ordinarily B. & O. should have profited from the announcement at Washington that the Reconstruction Finance corporation had decided to lend the road some $30,000,000 to help it out in refunding a maturing bond issue twice the size, but sentiment was too depressed for the time being and the stock went down with the others.

A. T. & T. Off 3¾ Points.

Macy dropped more than 4 points on the dividend announcement by its board and American Telephone common tumbled almost as sharply. The price on the utility issue recovered fractionally toward the close, however, the final sale being recorded at 107¾, off 3¾ on the day.

Other outstanding losses of the session included American Can off 2¾, Allied Chemical down 2¾, United States Steel, 1¾, Inland Steel, 3, and International Business Machine, 3¼ points.

Oil shares were unable to make capital out of a report that a rise in crude oil prices is being considered by the major companies.

COTTON ADVANCES EARLY, BUT FINISHES LOWER

Although cotton prices were up around 7 to 9 points in Chicago early today, selling pressure developed later which carried prices off. At the last there was a small rally on scattered evening up trades.

Chicago closed 4 points net lower on near deliveries to 1 point net higher on deferred, with other markets 1@6 points higher on futures and unchanged for spot, New York being 6.40c, New Orleans 6.35c, Galveston 6.30c, and Houston 6.35c. The market seemed to run into selling on all bulges and support on weak spots, with the trade spasmodic and on the whole of fair volume. Exchange of contracts from December into distant months was a feature.

Killing frosts were reported as far south as San Antonio, Tex., which prevents active field work. Exports were 59,500 bales, the largest for some time. There is said to be a liberal sized holding which comes out on bulges while breaks run into supporting orders. Prices follow:

"DON'T TAKE ORDERS FROM MOSCOW!"

Because the Tribune will not submit to the censorship of news by the soviets Donald Day, Tribune Russian correspondent, maintains his headquarters across the Russian border at Riga, Latvia.

There he writes the truth about conditions in Russia, and the Tribune prints it.

The Tribune does not take orders from Moscow—or from Tokio, or Paris, or London, or from Washington.

The Tribune does not take orders from powers abroad, or from parties or special interests at home.

The Tribune is independent—politically and financially. Its stand on any question, public or private, is not compromised by affiliation with any person, corporation, bank, bloc, or political party.

That's why you get news in the Tribune that other papers, for one reason or another, do not print.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

HOGS ADVANCE 10c TO 20c WHEN RECEIPTS DROP

Cattle Sag Little Despite Large Arrivals.

The hog market advanced sharply yesterday when supplies fell short of expectations. Prices advanced 10@20c, closing active at the upturn with very little left. An advance estimate of only 18,000 for today indicates that the recent sharp slump has effectively curtailed the movement to market despite the weather.

Last sales of the day were 30@35c above the low spot of the year made two weeks ago, but prices are still 20@40c under the high of last week when the peak was $4.00 and the average $3.80. The top yesterday advanced 15c to $3.60. The general average at $3.50 showed a similar gain. Reports of a slower demand for fresh pork on the wholesale market had little influence on the hog market, since pork loins are still selling 37 per cent above the low spot of two weeks ago.

Small packers, city butchers and order buyers were the principal interests, but action was good and not enough remained at the close to do any harm. Large houses were satisfied to stay back yesterday, having enough hogs from early in the week to carry them.

Cattle Sales Steady.

In spite of the heavy burden of 21,000 fresh receipts and the several thousand head carried since early in the week, the cattle market managed to pull through yesterday's session without sagging much. There was a little better action in some branches. Weighty beeves fared best and sold steady most of the day. Yearlings and light steers predominated and these ruled steady to 25c lower. Swift paid the top of $8.00 for a load of 1,316 steers early. The same figure was paid by an order buyer for a carload of 1,290 lb. averages. The bulk of steers cashed at $5.25@7.00.

Although a slightly better clearance was made, there still was a fair number of cattle in the pens at the close. Cows and heifers comprised the small end of the run yesterday and sold steady. Bulls were weak to 10c lower. A few selected calves brought steady prices, but the bulk declined 25c. Feeders were steady.

Lamb Trade Lifeless.

Yesterday's lamb market was a lifeless affair in which prices drifted slowly into a 25c lower position, notwithstanding the additional slight gains in wholesale prices for dressed lamb. Buyers are laying more stress on the influence of poultry during the holidays because of the low level of poultry this year. Little interest was shown in yesterday's offerings, which will come in competition with poultry when they are slaughtered and on the hooks.

City butchers paid up to $5.00 for hand picked native lambs of the highest quality, while bulk of good slaughter stock sold to packers at $4.25@5.50. Aged sheep and yearlings were steady. Country buyers regard the sluggish condition of the trade as temporary and due entirely to the poultry season. They took on feeding lambs readily at steady prices, paying $3.25 and below for the class that was here.
